NOTED ITALIAN IS KILLED IN NOSE DIVE

Tries it When Too Near Earth—One of Best Pilots in Italian Service.

Mineola, L. I., July 10.—Flight Sergeant Gino Giannelli, one of the best pilots in the Italian aviation service and the instructor of Captain Rennati, of Anzio, was killed in an exhibition flight at the army aviation field here while he was voluntarily performing tricks in the air for a party of visitors, including Giuseppe Bevinone, chief of the Italian War Mission; Howard E. Coffin, Major General, William Kelly, member of the Aircraft Board and Director of Military Aeronautics; Brig. Gen. Constantine of the British Mission and many other high officers of the allied armies. His plane crashed to the ground within 100 feet of the party of visitors and almost upon the exact spot where one of his most famous pupils, Captain Rennati, was killed on May 15, when he attempted to take to the air without enough velocity.

When Giannelli was only about 300 feet above the ground apparently he misjudged his height and attempted a nose dive, a trick rarely tried by an aviator unless there are thousands of feet of intervening space to bring the plane out of the whirl. Almost before the crowd of spectators knew what had happened there was a crash near them, a cloud of dust drifted over the field and then the aviators heard the noise of the motor still in motion in the wrecked plane. Several women in the party fainted, and General Kelly and officers in command of the field ran to the wreckage. Army surgeons from the base hospital, who were standing near the hangars, said that the pilot had been killed instantly.

An official report of the accident was given out by Giuseppe Bevinone, the head of the Italian Air Mission.

Three Brothers Killed. Nova Scotians Were Serving in Canadian Forces in France.

(New York Times.) Mrs. Anna Weaver, of 28 Atlantic street, Newark, received word yesterday that her three nephews, Douglas J. Murray, J., and John P. O'Hanley of Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, had been killed in action in France. They were in the Canadian forces.

Mrs. Mary McKee of Charlestown, Mass., a friend, gave Mrs. Weaver the news on the long distance telephone yesterday. She had no particulars, and she didn't state how she received her information. Mrs. Weaver wrote a letter to her brother, Daniel O'Hanley, the boys' father, to verify the report.

Douglas O'Hanley, who was twenty-seven years old, had been in France three years and had been wounded eleven times. His brothers, John, twenty-four, and Murray, twenty-two, were killed about nine months ago. The three soldiers were prayed for at the masses in St. Patrick's Cathedral yesterday.

NEW GOVERNMENT FOR SIBERIA

Important News Coming From Russia

Will Fight Germans

Overthrow of Bolsheviks Also Part of Programme—Another New Republic in North Russia—Allies Plans for Economic Intervention

London, July 10.—A new provisional government for Siberia, which has the unanimous support of the population, and which will continue to fight the Central Powers, has been established at Vladivostok, according to a Times despatch from Tokyo quoting the Vladivostok correspondent of the Asahi.

The new government intends to summon a constituent assembly and to restore law and order throughout the country.

The programme of the new government includes the liberation of Siberia from the Bolsheviks, the avoidance if possible of foreign intervention, universal suffrage, establishment of provincial councils and a labor bureau, distribution of the land among the landless and control of economic activities.

Siberia will thus, adds the correspondent of the Times, become the first democratic state in the history of Russia, and it is hoped, the forerunner of a great Russia. The flag adopted by the new government consists of two stripes of white and green.

The situation in Siberia is undergoing important changes and the counter revolution assisted by the Czech-Slovaks is spreading all over western Siberia, says a despatch to the Times from Peking, dated July 4. The Bolsheviks are being driven westward from Irkutsk and many are endeavoring to escape into Mongolia.

Referring to the Czech-Slovak movement as a basis for the struggle against Bolshevism in Siberia, the correspondent predicts that it will lead to the elimination of the Bolsheviks in a short time.

The question of intervention, however, is still pressing, he adds, because Russia is torn with political differences and personal jealousies and there is urgent need of a responsible government.

Political circles in Harbin are discussing the danger of a new government in the eastern provinces which may be formed of elements favorable to the old regime. Pro-ally forces at Harbin have declared for immediate action in the constituent assembly, which would appoint a provisional government, the real need of the situation.

Another Republic. Amsterdam, July 10.—Simultaneously with the establishment of the White Sea republic, according to advice from Moscow, another state was created in the north of Russia under the name of the Volodigskaya republic.

So as the article is now said for only forty cents, do not think, Mr. Editor, it will permit a little of the so-called "skipping."

taken to guarantee the safety of the German personnel.

A project to counteract German influence in Russia is now being considered by the Entente Powers through their embassies in Washington, and it is hoped that it will prove successful. It is proposed to send supplies under armed guard in order to ensure their reaching the Russian people. This armed guard will be international in composition, thus tending to disarm any suspicion on the part of the Russians that their country is to be exploited in the interests of any single power.

ASTOR TO POST IN FOOD MINISTRY

London, July 10.—Major the Hon. Waldorf Astor, son of Viscount Astor of Hever Castle (Wm. Waldorf Astor), the morning newspapers forecast, will succeed J. B. Clines as parliamentary secretary to the food ministry.

REPLY TO CRITICISM OF BAKERS

To the Editor of The Times:—Sir, Will you kindly permit me sufficient space in your columns to reply to a question which appeared on page two of your issue of July 8, namely: "Are St. John's fancy bakers skimping?"

Before proceeding, I wish to state that I am not operating a business of my own, but am one of the city's bakers, consequently it will be readily understood that I am not making these statements with the object in view of creating a favorable impression of bake shops among St. John citizens, but simply in defence of a trade, in which I have been engaged ever since I was big enough to look into a flour barrel.

I am sorry my lady informant did not quote prices on all the articles in contention, but spoke only of the increase from twenty-four to forty cents per dozen on the so-called puff. The old time price of flour was, I believe, around $8 a barrel, and thirteen cents a pound, and eggs, sixteen cents a dozen. This compared with the present prices, flour $11 a barrel, and thirty-two cents a pound, and eggs at twenty cents a dozen, makes an increase of 120 per cent, 148 per cent and 180 per cent respectively.

The former price of forty cents a dozen was twenty-four cents a dozen, making an increase of only sixty-six and two-thirds per cent. If the lady were paying according to increase in ingredients of articles, she would pay about fifty-seven cents a dozen. So as the article is now said for only forty cents, do not think, Mr. Editor, it will permit a little of the so-called "skipping."

Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain, Yours respectfully, A ST. JOHN BAKER.
