REAL WORK UNDER WAY EARLY IN JUNE

Temporary Construction at New Bridge Site Within The Next Three Weeks.

Many comments and surmises are expressed when daily accepting the inevitable street car transfer across the Suspension bridge, as to when the present state of affairs will be done away with and the new steel bridge over the river reversing falls solve the problem of continuous car service, without waits and transfers direct from the jobs.

In an interview with W. E. Bradshaw, the engineer in charge, a Times man was made acquainted with some interesting facts, and perhaps that which will cause the most gratification is the assurance that the bridge company will commence temporary work inside of three weeks and by June the real job will be under way and unless unforeseen difficulties arise, should be completed within five months time.

Between forty and fifty men will be employed mostly skilled steel workers said Mr. Bradshaw, for it requires men of experience and trained nerve control to swing aloft over the raging waters of the falls. Most of the mechanics will be brought from the company's plant at Mirville, near Montreal, though some can be secured here, besides laborers and what ordinary trade help is necessary.

The arch is to be eight feet six inches deep at the centre and sixty feet at end, measuring 654 feet in length with side approaches, and without them 545 feet, being the largest of its type in Canada.

The total weight of the bridge is to be 2,100 tons and 1,100 tons weight will be required at each corner to hold the bridge down. Anchor bolts are 116 feet from end of arch.

Some idea of the magnitude of the undertaking is recognized when it is brought to notice that 100 car loads of material will be used in the structure and a special siding will have to be built connecting with the C. P. R. to transport the steel near the bridge so as to save with all unnecessary handling.

The parts are all fitted at the home plant, tested, and marked, and will be re-assembled here according to the specified plans.

Jacks are used on each end of the bridge and raised the structure considerably higher than is necessary to connect the arch in the centre. Gradually the two ends come together, a bolt is shot through to hold them in position and soon the structure is firmly and completely made.

The floor of the new bridge is to be made of six inch concrete covered with creosote blocks and will be wide enough to allow for two car lines, two roadways, and two sidewalks. Thus it will be seen every provision has been made for pedestrian and transportation facilities.

When the bridge is finished," concluded Mr. Bradshaw, "it will present a very striking appearance, as it is most stylishly designed. We are anxious ourselves to get the job done not only in the best and most economical manner, but as possible and you may be sure we will not lag with the work once it gets under way."
