

U. S. SYNDICATE BUYS ESTATES OF HAPSBURG

Vast Properties of Austrian Royalty Estimated Worth
More Than $200,000,000.

Paris, Sept. 14.—Negotiations were completed in Paris this week whereby the vast estates of Archduke Frederick of Austria and his son, Archduke Albert, estimated to be worth more than $200,000,000—were taken over by a United States syndicate, which includes Charles H. Sabin, J. Leonard Replogle, Frank A. Munsey, Anthony J. Elder, and other prominent United States business men.

Samuel Untermyer, New York lawyer, represented the syndicate in the negotiations which have been in progress for some time, and Archduke Albert took part in behalf of himself, his father, his wife, and his six sisters. Dr. Wilhelm Rosenberg, of Vienna, and Dr. Aurel Eery, of Budapest, were counsel for the Hapsburgs.

The meeting here yesterday was the last of a series of meetings during the past few months at Carlsbad, Kissingen, Vienna, and Paris. The transaction concerns the vast land and industrial holdings of the Hapsburgs, distributed throughout Austria, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Poland, Rumania, and Italy. They include the great steel works and mines in Teschen, which are partly in Czechoslovakia and partly in Poland. The estate comprises numerous other industries, including the dairies which formerly furnished most of the Vienna supply of milk and butter, sugar plantations, factories, apartment houses, palaces, and other private properties in Vienna, castles in various parts of the continent, about 1,000,000 acres of agricultural and forest lands, scattered over several countries, and the Albertina museum in Vienna, which is said to contain nearly 1,000,000 works of art.

Archduke Frederick was a field marshal and commander-in-chief of the Austro-Hungarian armies in the late war. His great-grandfather was a nephew of Emperor Francis I., and was adopted by Duke Albert of Saxony, who married Archduchess Maria Christina, daughter of Maria Theresa. Archduke Frederick is the uncle of King Alfonso of Spain. His sister was the Queen of Bavaria. Thus a considerable part of his property came from the Saxon house.

This is regarded as important by the members of the syndicate, because the properties they are taking over were not part of the possessions of the Austrian crown, but came to Archduke Frederick from other sources than the Hapsburgs.

A large part of the properties were purchased, and developments from private means were increased during the 150 years by investments and returns from new enterprises. It is regarded as a fortunate event, especially in view of the business management and not upon royal gifts and concessions.

Archduke Frederick was excluded from all his properties located in countries formerly composing the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. Some have been sequestered and others were claimed as confiscated, part of them by the reconstituted old governments, and others by the new states in whose jurisdiction the properties were brought by terms of various treaties.

THE LIBERALS AND THE TARIFF

Arthur Cardin, M. P. for Richelieu, Exposes
Conservative Tactics in a Striking
Speech.

(Montreal Gazette)

That there was no need to fear the Liberal party, the tariff question, at the conclusion of a speech at St. Polycarpe, in which denunciation of the government, its acts and omissions, were thrown out with fiery eloquence, and prettily drawn smiles.

Mr. Cardin said that if a Liberal addressed a meeting in this province and failed to declare himself on the tariff, the newspapers friendly to the government immediately raised the question, and that it is the only one at stake. "They say that we fear to speak of the tariff," he said, "but we wish us to forget their sins, their scandals and cover everything with the tariff flag. It is Mr. Meighen's intention to run his campaign on tariff. They don't want to discuss the administration of the country, or open the pages of a dirty administration. Mr. Meighen and his friends talk about tariff, but has the government a platform on tariff? For the last four or five years the government has played with question of tariff changes, but have never carried out the changes. They want to keep the tariff flag for general elections. Their programme on tariff is that they are protectionists. That is all Mr. Meighen has said. He is for protection, but has a single theory of simple theory or modification? He stays in the land of generalities, and reproaches the Liberals for not specifying their opinions on tariff before the government. He will not be judged on all its works, all its sins of commission and omission.

No Cause of Fear.

"Why throw stones at us on tariff? Why should people fear the return of Liberals to power as far as tariff is concerned? The party was in power for fifteen years, and it was a period of prosperity. Did the Liberal party act as a wrecker of tariffs? When did the Liberal party destroy manufactures? On the contrary, never were so many factories started in Canada as under the Liberal regime.

"The Liberal party," went on Mr. Cardin, "protects, and will continue to protect, the legitimate aspirations of financiers, manufacturers, merchants, and also look after the interest of the mass of the people, and want a tariff by which Canada can develop, and all citizens be happy to live in their country. There is no fear of the Liberals on tariff. We are not extremists on any line, moral, national or in financial matters. We are moderates in everything, neither for free trade nor protection that is unjust to the consumers, but we wish to steer a moderate course, suitable to the needs of the time, and taking into consideration the necessity of development of industry and the interests of the great mass of people. We want capital to increase, and industry to progress. We want the tariff arranged in such a way that will also serve the consumer is not ill-treated.

"Why," demanded Mr. Cardin, "fear us on tariff when we have today the head of our party men who, with Laurier, framed the Liberal tariff during fifteen years? Why this challenge to us to try to make people believe that we are attached to those who preach free trade in other provinces. They wish to get the support of those who are against the tariff. We want to destroy the factories. That is all false, and is said only to fool the people."

BREAKS UP MEETING COLORED BAPTISTS

Jealous Layman Shoots His Wife and Parson.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 14.—Mrs. Janie Miller, a New Orleans woman, and Rev. C. L. W. Boyd, of New Orleans, were shot and fatally wounded at the closing session of the National Baptist Convention of Negroes. A number barely missed serious injury. The shooting occurred among the 3,000 crowded into the auditorium.

David Miller, the woman's husband, is being held for the shooting, the motive of which, the police say, was jealousy. According to their reports, all five bullets fired by Miller were intended for his wife, and Rev. Mr. Boyd was the victim of a stray shot. The wounded minister is secretary of the Baptist board of education.

A big chorus of singers, which has played a prominent part in the convention, sang to quiet the crowd, and officers of the organization circulated among the throng exhorting all to calm.

At the hospital, the dying woman made a statement that her husband had seen following her all day, and that she went to the tabernacle to escape him.

It is now proposed to put in oak piling in place of the wharf and tenders will be called for the new work. The committee submitted a by-law to amend the law to regulate the use of the city wharves and warehouses and recommended that they be passed.

The committee recommended that the communication from the minister of public works of New Brunswick regarding the state of the Manawagonish road caused by the contractors for the city in digging the trench for water main be referred to report, since of water and sewerage to report.

That the commissioner of harbours, ferries and public lands be given authority to purchase by lease twenty-six feet of door hangers with parallel track for No. 4 shed, West St. John.

That a wharf be constructed on the northern side of the east side ferry approaches according to plan submitted by the city engineer at an estimated cost of $25,000, with the piling already in place amounting to $8,500, will be subject to a total bond issue of $33,500.

That the work of paving the Marsh road to the corner of so-called to the city line be proceeded with under specifications submitted by the road engineer, and that the material surface on a macadam base and that public tenders be called for the work, said work to be completed before Nov. 20 next.

The committee further recommended that provision be made for the payment of the work by a special loan to be expended in the annual payments, to be made a charge on general assessment for each year. In event of unfavorable climatic conditions work shall cease and the contractor and contractor paid for work done.

That the commissioner of water and sewerage be authorized to call for tenders for installing new heating apparatus in the building of the department at the corner of Leinster and Carmarthen streets.

All sections were adopted with the exception of that referring to the ferry wharf. This was defeated by the vote of the commissioners against it, as it required a unanimous vote. With this change the report as a whole was adopted.

Pennington, of the General Public Hospital, and Dr. H. L. Abramson, provincial pathologist. A fracture of the base of the skull was given as the primary cause of death. Dr. Abramson was of the opinion that a blow from a piece of board found near the body might have caused the fracture.

John L. Stevens, Roy Shannon and Judson Totten told of finding Norris lying unconscious in a yard off Erin street. Two pieces of board and a hat were found near the body. One piece of paper, some string and a number of cents were lying on the ground.

Harry Norris, son of the dead man, told of going with his three men who found the body to the scene of the murder. She could not see the three men who found the body, or the young man who came up to her door.

Mrs. Alma Smith, 181 Main street, who lives across the street from the scene, said she was upstairs putting her baby to bed between 8:45 and 9 o'clock. She heard no outcry nor did she see the men who found the body, or the young man who came up to her door.

How They Have Been Endured and How Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Experience of a Providence Woman

Providence, R. I.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a female trouble and backache. I began after my husband was born and I did the best I could about getting my work done, but I had awful bearing-down pains so I could not stand on my feet. I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the good it was doing other women, and I have got dandy results from it and will always recommend it. It has been a blessing to me as a testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. HENRIETTA L. CASSEY, 15 Main Court, Providence, R. I.

Payette, O.—"For about three years I was in the window with her. The girl said something about hearing a cry and seeing a handkerchief. Mrs. Smith could not describe the kind of a noise. The man was referred to Mr. Thornton."

The jury was made up of Ernest J. Todd, foreman; Francis McElrath, William V. Hatfield, D. Arnold Fox, Herbert J. Keyes, Thomas Hill and William V. Brophy.

J. King Kelley appeared for the Norris family. The prisoners were not represented.

About seventy people besides the court officials were present at the inquiry.

Alexander Fortson, proprietor of a store at the corner of Waterloo and Union streets was charged in the police court yesterday with the illegal selling of beer. The defendant said that the boy in the store sold it, and he was not a regular clerk. Inspector Thompson told of finding the extract in the possession of a man emerging from the store. He was fined $50.

At times I could hardly do my housework. I got medicine from the doctor but it did not help me. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and took it with good results, and am now able to do my housework. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. CHARLES A. BULL, R. 15, Payette, Okla.

An Illinois woman relates her experience:

Bloomington, Ill.—"I was never very strong and female trouble kept me so weak I had no interest in my housework. I had such a backache I could not cook a meal or sweep a room without raging with pain. Ebbing my back with alcohol sometimes eased the pain for a few hours, but did not stop it. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and six bottles of it have made me as strong and healthy as any woman, and I give my thanks to her for my health."—Mrs. J. A. McQuitty, 810 W. 14th St., Bloomington, Ill.

The conditions described by Mrs. Cassey, Mrs. Ball, and Mrs. McQuitty will appeal to many women who struggle on with their daily tasks in just such conditions—in fact, it is said that the tragedy in the lives of some women is almost beyond belief. Day in and day out they slave in their homes for their families—and beside the daily routine of housework, often make clothes for themselves and for their children, or work in their gardens. All the while suffering from those awful bearing-down pains, backaches, headaches, nervousness, the blues, and troubles which sap the very foundation of life until there comes a time when nature gives out and an operation seems inevitable. If such women could only profit by the experience of these three women, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the natural restorative for such conditions it may save them years of suffering and unhappiness.

There is hardly a neighborhood in any town or hamlet in the United States wherein some woman does not reside who has been restored to health by this famous medicine. Therefore ask your neighbor, and you will find in a great many cases that at some time or other she, too, has been benefited by taking it, and will recommend it to you. For more than forty years this old-fashioned remedy and herb medicine has been restoring suffering women to health and strength.
