Capt. David H. Jarvis, general manager of the Northwestern Fisheries Company, who has been on a tour of inspection of the companies' canneries in Alaska since May 7th, estimates the season's pack for that district at 1,800,000 cases, or practically the same as that of last year. He states that the majority of the 33 canneries in Alaska are being operated this season, and the indications are that the year will be a prosperous one, not only in the cannery business but in the fresh fish and mining business as well. There is great competition between Fraser river canners and those from the other side to obtain fish. The Canners' Association intended to cut the price for sockeyes to 20 cents after the first of August, but has been compelled to retain the July price of 25 cents. This averted serious trouble, as a price war had agents in Woodward's slough offeronly paying 25 cents, the American tugs
