

LONG DEBATE ON COLLEGE QUESTION

PROPOSED CHANGES AT QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY

Its Relations to the Church—Work of Home Missions in British Columbia.

The sittings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, Vancouver, were continued on Wednesday. In the afternoon Professor Falconer, of the Presbyterian College, Halifax, submitted his report upon the college. In doing so he stated that the attendance, which was somewhat small during the last two years, had improved; there was a need of more applicants for the ministry. The cause of this was not the lack of means but of men. The professor also referred to the need of the church paying greater attention to college work, not merely seminary education, but training for the ministry. The report was adopted.

Professor J. Campbell, D. D., acting principal of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, submitted the report of that college, and in doing so he referred feelingly to the death of the late Principal MacVicar. He also spoke of the lack of sympathy existing between McGill and his own and other theological colleges in that city. Professor Gordon, of Queen's University, moved the adoption of the report. Dr. Bryson seconded the motion. He suggested that the value of the work done by Montreal College was not fully realized.

On suggestion the motion was amended so that the report be received and the recommendations therein be considered seriatim. The recommendations were:

- 1. That the board of management be authorized to continue its inquiry for a suitable person as principal and professor.
2. That they be authorized, if necessary, to rearrange the chair of Old and New Testament Exegesis, Dr. Scrimger being willing to take the chair of systematic theology if necessary.
3. That a commission of the assembly be appointed with authority to confirm the nomination of the board if made before January 1st next.

Acting Principal Campbell strongly opposed clause 4. It was the assembly and not the board that had control of the college. He regarded the suggestion respecting the appointment of a new principal, etc., as a slight upon himself, a professor of 30 years' standing, and upon the other professors in the college who were to be shelved for some unknown person obtained from elsewhere.

The report was finally adopted. Dr. Scribner then moved that the assembly make the appointment and named the moderator, Dr. Fletcher, the two clerks of the assembly, Drs. Warden and Campbell, and also the commissioners to the assembly from Ottawa and Montreal to be appointed to act on the commission. Dr. Duval seconded the motion, which carried.

Dr. D. M. Gordon introduced the draft bill in which it is proposed to meet certain constitutional changes in Queen's University. The changes, in the main, were that the college be made wholly un denominational and that the theological section be formed in Queen's Theological College and be affiliated with Queen's University. There were several reasons for this suggestion, commencing with the foundation of the college. It was founded on October 16th, 1841, and, in some degree, a protest to the action of King's College, Toronto, which was then so distinctly under the Church of England, going so far as to require even its students to subscribe to the 39 articles. The history of the college showed that the trend had been for the gradual removal of denominational lines and towards widening its university influence in all classes. The general tendency and trend of the Presbyterian church in its educational work were to have such un denominational and increasingly national. The stand of the church on the public school question was recalled in support of this statement. The action of the government, in 1869, in withdrawing all grants from denominational colleges showed the trend of public and government opinion on the subject, and it was incidentally mentioned that by taking the proposed course the university would indirectly put itself in the way of receiving financial support from the Ontario government. In conclusion Dr. Gordon pointed out that by carrying out the plan suggested the university would widen its sphere without reducing its influence. The Theological College would remain under the jurisdiction of the Presbyterian church. The bill had also been most carefully considered and approved of by the university trustees, senate, etc.

The introduction of this bill caused a long and eagerly contested debate, many present opposing the contemplated change on the grounds that it would practically mean alienating the university from the church and that it would possibly become a stepping stone to the church inasmuch as, under the proposed conditions, it might become the stronghold of atheism, or of other heresies. The hour of adjournment having arrived the further consideration of the matter was deferred for the day.

Evening Session. At the evening session the subject of consideration was home mission work. The Rev. E. A. McCurdy submitted the report of the home mission committee, Eastern division, the adoption of which, moving Professor Macdonald seconded the motion, which carried.

Dr. Warden moved the adoption of the report of the superintendent of home missions for the synod of British Columbia. The report shows that there are 101 mission fields within the synod this year as against 87 in 1902, including 16 in the Westminister Presbytery, 14 in Kootenay, 27 in Edmonton, 18 in Calgary, 17 in Kamloops and 9 in Victoria. Six have been added to the Westminister Presbytery, viz., Acacia, Loggers' Mission, North Vancouver, Sapperton, Steveston and Whonnock. The Loggers' Mission is the first of its kind undertaken on the Pacific coast by the church and is being financially supported by the Mount Pleasant, Vancouver church. Its purpose is to send a young missionary to hold services at the logging camps along the coast line for 100 miles or more north. The valuable assistance rendered the work by Dr. Findlay in New Ontario, Rev. S. Childerhouse, Parry Sound, Rev. D. G. McQueen, Edmonton, Rev. G. A. Wilson, Vancouver, and Rev. Leslie Gray, of Victoria, as Presbyterian superintendents was also referred to. The speaker stated that there were 457 fields and 13,700 families among which the work was carried on. For its maintenance the church had last year asked for $122,000 and had received $125,000. This year it would need $110,000. Reference was made to the growth in the West, the speaker stating that he believed Winnipeg would be the future centre of population of the Dominion. Reference was made to the small salaries of the missionaries, and it was urged that an increase should be made in these starting with $50 this year, a clause to that effect being added to the motion for the adoption of the report.

Rev. Dr. McLaren seconded the motion, and in doing so spoke eloquently and forcibly of the great field and its need. Dr. Herdman also spoke of the work among the variety of people amongst whom his agents ministered. He referred to the vast territory as yet untouched by the church's missionaries which was, nevertheless, occupied by the agents of other churches. This thought, he considered, should make them less proud of what the church had and was achieving.

Dr. Carmichael, of Regina, superintendent of home missions for Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, reviewed the many difficulties of his district, one of the chief being the scarcity of missionaries. Rev. J. J. Wright, of White Horse, Y. T., spoke regarding the treasure store of the Dominion, whose area was ten times as large as Nova Scotia, and whose population of some 25,000 included some of the best and some of the worst men the country possessed. While Skagway was the storm port, White Horse was the front door of the Yukon. Dawson offered a grand field for Y. M. C. A. work. The church had tried to open a recreation room, but help was urgently needed in this work.

The assembly then adjourned. AN EXCELLENT PERFORMANCE. "Our Regiment" Presented Before Large House Thursday Night—Capable Cast.

A large house enjoyed the presentation of the amusing comedy "Our Regiment" at the Victoria theatre Thursday night. Aside from the worthy object for which the performance was given, the fact that the cast included amateurs acknowledged some of the best and some of the worst men the country possessed. While Skagway was the storm port, White Horse was the front door of the Yukon. Dawson offered a grand field for Y. M. C. A. work. The church had tried to open a recreation room, but help was urgently needed in this work.

MONTHLY MEETING HOSPITAL BOARD

REFERENCE MADE TO LATE DIRECTOR'S WORK

The Isolation Question Again Discussed—Annual Meeting Will Be Held on June 30th.

The directors of the Provincial Jubilee hospital met Thursday. H. D. Helmecken, immediately after the reading of the minutes, said that he thought the usual order might be departed from in order that the board might place on record its esteem for the late director, Joshua Davies.

The following resolution was passed unanimously: "Be it resolved, That this board desires to place on record its deep sense of the loss it has sustained in the death of Mr. Joshua Davies, who departed this life in this hospital on Friday, June the 6th, A.D., 1903."

Previous to the incorporation, the late director had been associated in the active management of the Royal hospital; took a leading part in obtaining the financial aid necessary in the erection of the Provincial Jubilee hospital; was one of the incorporators and first directors of the hospital, which was incorporated by act of the provincial legislature on the 26th April, 1890; was president of the hospital during the years 1892, 1893, 1895 and 1896, and presided over the most worthy part of that high position and especially during the most critical portion of the existence of the hospital, and had the proud satisfaction of witnessing the hospital flourish and prosper.

The late director was most devoted to the interests and welfare of the hospital, whether on the board, or as chairman of any standing committee, or acting on any special committee, or in anything which was connected with or for the benefit of the hospital, and during his lifetime was a large benefactor to the hospital. He was always studying how best to increase the usefulness of the hospital and extend its influence so that all could share the blessings of the hospital and its treatment. He himself on several occasions gratefully experienced.

The late director, while a patient, actually presided at the regular weekly meeting of the house committee held in the hospital on the 2nd instant.

Be it further resolved, That the heartfelt sympathy of this board be extended to the relatives of the deceased director, and a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the same.

Be it further resolved, That as a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, this board obtain a portrait of the deceased to be hung in an appropriate place of the institution he loved so well, and for which he labored so zealously.

Drake, Jackson & Helmecken wrote stating that the hearing of the appeal in the case of the late director had been adjourned till the next Victoria sittings of the Full court.

The city clerk wrote stating that the matter of arranging a conference between the board and the city council had been left in the hands of the Mayor.

The doctor's report for the month was read. It showed the following: Number of patients admitted, 73; number of deaths, 117; total days' stay, 1,476; the daily average of patients, 44.18.

The finance committee approved of the payment of accounts to the amount of $1,708.92, and the salaries amounting to $260.32. The total days' stay for the month: Mrs. Angus, under 40 years, was 1,476, and the salaries paid and accounts payable give an average per diem cost per patient of $1.73.

The following donations were reported to the board and in some way, Mrs. W. W. Wilson, old linen; A. Friend, old linen; Mrs. Few, 20 pounds of butter.

The house committee reported that P. Emerson having tendered his resignation as male nurse he should be reported a suitable testimonial. They also reported a proposal from the police force as follows:

"We have had under consideration a preliminary proposal from Mr. George Perdue, representing certain members of the police force. It appears that they have a fund of about $800 to provide for assistance in case of sickness. The question your committee have been considering is what concessions could be made by the hospital in the event of the $800 being turned over to the hospital, and used in the proposed extensions. Your committee are not yet prepared to report upon this matter pending receipt of further information, and would therefore ask for further time."

The resignation of Mr. Emerson was accepted, and a testimonial ordered to be given him.

A report was read from the special committee dealing with the question of the conduct of the Isolation hospital. The chairman, C. A. Holland, said that this seemed too important a matter for the board to deal with at this its last meeting.

Mr. Helmecken thought it should be recommended to the next board. J. Forman said the city council was anxious to have this matter settled. They should do it in some way. W. Humphrey wanted a special meeting held at which this could be dealt with, and at which the addition to the hospital could also be discussed.

PLANS FOR LIBRARY STRUCTURE ALL IN

It is Probable That Not More Than Six Architects Competed—Character of Building Contemplated.

At 1 o'clock Saturday another development in the celebrated Carnegie library question occurred when the time for the receipt of competitive plans for the structure expired. At the time of writing it is impossible to state definitely how many architects are competing, but it is not believed that there are more than half a dozen. One of them this morning expressed the opinion that four would be the number. Among these it is known that Thos. Sorby, Hooper & Watkins, and W. Rideway Wilson are in the ring, and it is also said that Mr. Bodley is trying his fortune. On Monday morning the plans will be submitted to the committee of judges, consisting of W. W. Northcott, building inspector; John Adam, of the city engineer's department, and William Henderson, of the Dominion Public Works.

This committee will at once get down to work, and will probably have their verdict ready in the course of a few days. The first prize, of course, will be the acceptance of the plan which, in the opinion of the judges, is the best, and the awarding of the work to the successful competitor. The second is one hundred and fifty dollars, and the third half that sum. Having accepted the plan, tenders will be invited, and after a fortnight's notification the contract will be awarded. Active operations in the erection of the building will then be commenced, and the Carnegie library will be no longer a place in the air, but an edifice composed of a more material substance than fancy.

As is generally known, the ratepayers decided by ballot that the building shall be erected on the corner of Yates and Blanchard streets, the vote being overwhelmingly in favor of that site. This is a full-sized lot, sixty by a hundred and twenty feet, the sixty feet frontage being on Yates street. The building is to be of two stories and basement, and the ground floor is to be at least five feet above the sidewalk on the same street. The building must be flush with the line of Blanchard street, and set back five feet from the line of Yates. Its Yates street frontage will be fifty feet, and its Blanchard street frontage one hundred and fifty feet. The main entrance is to be on Yates street.

In the specifications the janitor is not forgotten. He is to have proper accommodation in the basement. It is especially stipulated that the total cost of the structure, including book racks, heating, ventilating and lighting apparatus, plumbing and gas-piping, electric wiring and fixtures, mantels, in fact everything but furniture, is limited to $45,000. This should provide for an imposing affair, and will do credit to the attractiveness of the district, and tend to divert building activity in that direction. Certainly there is ample room for other pretentious structures in a locality which is undoubtedly one of the very best in Victoria. Those who agitated for the selection of the site near the post office, and who felt aggrieved because most of the ratepayers decided otherwise, will have the most potent beam for their wounded feelings, a magnificent, tourist hotel unsurpassed by anything of the kind in the Northwest.

The exterior of the library building on Yates and Blanchard streets is to be of stone, while the roof will be of slate and copper. The circular streets says: "The interior is to be finished generally in first class style." This gives the competing architects wide enough scope to permit them to vary their designs, and the task of the judges becomes the more delicate in consequence. The building is to be lighted by electricity, but provision is to be made for gas. The authorities are determined that the eccentricities of the mystic fluid shall not keep the premises in Stygian darkness on occasions when light is urgently required.

The architect of the plans considered best by the judges shall be placed in charge of the work, and shall be entitled to a commission of 5 per cent. on the cost of the work; provided, however, that if on tenders being called for the construction of the work, it shall be found that no responsible tender is within the sum of $45,000. Then the plans shall be discarded and the architect thereof shall have no claim upon the council for and in respect of such plans, specifications, or at all.

The competitors have to submit, with the drawings, a typewritten letter containing a brief description of the building and calling attention to any points of interest in the design or in the construction, or in regard to the methods of heating or ventilating it, not obvious in the drawings. The amount of money to be employed in decoration and painting the number of cubic feet in the building, as shown, and its supposed cost per cubic foot, and the total cost, which as has been said, must not exceed $45,000.

Capt. Olive Phillips-Wolley is confined to the Jubilee hospital, where he underwent an operation Friday. He will be there for a fortnight.
