FOURTEEN YEARS IN BED.
Aged Indiana Woman, Although Not Ill, Refuses to Get Up.

WARSAW, Ind., July 13—Her head concealed with a sheet and seldom uttering a sound, Mary Grim, aged sixty-six years, has lain for fourteen years on a cot in the Kosciuszko county infirmary, near Warsaw, with nothing whatever the matter with her so far as her physical condition is concerned. Time and again different county physicians have examined her in search of some defect, but without result. During the fourteen years she has reclined on the cot she has had medicine only once, and that was a head-ache remedy.

A GREAT GERMAN INVENTOR.

The story of the inventor who sacrificed everything in pursuit of an idea is always interesting—particularly if his efforts at last attain success. Count Zeppelin, whose new airship is arousing so much interest, has a remarkable record of devotion in the search.

He is over seventy years of age, tall, broad and with flashing eyes that belie his white hair. Comparatively soon after he began his experiments on Lake Constance ten years ago he expended his whole fortune of $150,000. An old man, his whole heart was still in his experiments and he went on. He was so convinced of the practical nature of his ideas that he convinced his friends also, and they formed a syndicate to continue the experiments.

Although the Kaiser conferred the Order of the Red Eagle upon him, no government help was forthcoming, and his experiments ceased for a period. In 1904 the Zeppelin Balloon Fund was opened by public subscription, and work began again.

Last autumn the "Zeppelin No. 2" was completed. This airship made such remarkably successful trials—on one voyage manoeuvring round the Lake of Constance and steering round the town halls of its five principal towns—that the German government determined to buy his invention.

PATRIOTIC GERMAN.

The price was $500,000, and there were several conditions. He was to build another airship, "Zeppelin No. 4," which should be able to start and alight on the ground instead of as the previous airships on the water, and which should make an uninterrupted voyage of twenty-four hours' duration. The new airship represents Count Zeppelin's attempt to fulfil these conditions.

Count Zeppelin is German by birth and a soldier by profession. He holds the rank of general. His patriotism has even overcome the ambition of the inventor, for, while the German government failed to recognize his efforts he refused to solicit the patronage of any other.

His career as a soldier includes the Franco-German war in which he is reputed to have been the first German to enter France. With three officers and seven dragoons he started on the now famous patrol ride of July 24 into the enemy's country. On one occasion he was dismounted by a French lancer, but he cut down the man, and mounting his horse continued his investigations.

Finally his little company was cornered in the courtyard of an inn at Reichshofen and all but one surrendered. The exception was the Count. He succeeded in stealing another French horse, and made his way through a woody, mountainous country which was infested by the enemy back to his own army. During his adventurous and lonely ride he hid for two days in a wood surrounded by the French troops and ultimately managed to evade them and get through with his valuable information, seven years earlier he had gone to America, where he engaged as a volunteer in the American war, having a very narrow escape in the battle of Fredericksburg. His interest in the military airship dates from that time, when he made his first ascent in a captive balloon belonging to the Southern army.

HIS AMBITION.

Not satisfied with his training in the engineers, when his mind turned towards aeronautics, he thoroughly studied mechanics, working himself in the shops and practically studying electricity and sailmaking.

He described his aims at that time as follows, and it is interesting to see in how far they have been successful: "I intend to build a vessel which will be able to proceed to places which cannot be approached—or only with great difficulty—by other means of transport. To undiscovered coasts or interiors, in a straight line across land and water where ships are to be sought for; from one list station or army to another, carrying persons or despatches; for observations of the movements of hostile fleets or armies—not for active participation in actual warfare.

"My balloon must be able to travel several days without renewing provisions, fuel, or gas. It must travel quickly enough to reach a certain goal in a given number of days and must possess sufficient rigidity and non-flammability to ascend, travel, and descend under ordinary conditions.

The distinctive feature of his experiments since 1885 has been the use of an aluminium cylinder or gas container instead of the customary silk bag.—A. M. B.

WATCH BURIED 14 YEARS RUNS.

DERRY, N. H., July 13—A rare find is reported by Arthur E. Leighton, of Chester. He states that fourteen years ago this summer he was leading a horse to plow in his home field, and while at work lost his gold watch, gold chain and gold charm, the latter in the shape of a boot. He and his friends hunted long and diligently for the lost articles, but they failed to find them. Every year since, when that particular field has been plowed and planted, he or others have looked carefully for the watch.

Thursday, while he was assisting by leading the horse to cultivate that field, he was, as usual, looking for the watch, and, much to his surprise, saw something glister in the sun. Stopping the horse, he picked up the missing watch and chain, but the charm had become detached, and was not to be found.

Mr. Leighton opened the watch, and found it in good condition. He started it and it ran, and he says it is keeping good time now. After its burial in the earth for fourteen years this seems to be a remarkable fact.

AMUSEMENTS.

NICKEL OPENED BIG AGAIN.

It was a merry muslin and straw-hatted summer crowd that filled the Nickel's big interior yesterday afternoon, but particularly the evening, and each and every member of it saw a great show of pictures and listened to a couple of remarkably good songs. One of the features of the day was the debut of Jack Gurney, the robust tenor, whose rendering of the seaside novelty, Sweet Rosie May, was received with unstinted plaudits. Miss Foley's new song, That's What the Daisies Said, was perhaps the most tasteful and catchy thing this talented mezzo has yet sung here. In the pictorial department the Man in the Overalls made the biggest hit. The scenes in the saw-mill and furnace room wrought the on-lookers up to a state of considerable excitement. Bill the Billposter and Pete the Paper Hanger was a continuous round of laughter, and The Silver Foiled a pretty love ruse. Altogether it was a great show for the happy July St. Johners, and the orchestra rounded out a five cent's worth of entertainment unsurpassed. Same show to-day.

HAPPY HALF HOUR.

"You promised us something good and you have more than kept your word. I don't know where you got such excellent singers, or how you can afford to do it at the price." The speaker, a leading musician of this city, made this remark last evening after hearing Holmes and Buchanan, the great singing act that opened an engagement at the Happy Half Hour yesterday. To say that they made a hit would be putting it mild. Encores were demanded at every performance, and last night standing room was the rule from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. Gertrude Bennett Holmes is the possessor of a beautiful mezzo-soprano voice of splendid quality, fully the equal of any that has ever been heard here, not omitting the opera companies. Robert Buchanan has a tenor voice of wonderful range, and many compared him favorably to Herbert Johnson of the famous Ruggles Street Quartette of Boston. The selection was the beautiful one of Back to Our Mountains, from Il Trovatore, which permitted of both solos and duets, and in the latter the blending of their voices was very favorably commented upon.

FULL HOUSES AT THE UNIQUE.

Every evening no matter how warm it is, finds the Unique Theatre packed to the doors with well pleased patrons. The pictures today are much above the average, and that is saying a great deal. The leading film is called The Husband's Revenge, or the Poisoned Pills, and tells the dramatic story of a fond and loving husband wrecking his revenge on the head of a false friend who tried to steal the love of his wife. Another picture is called "The Magnetic Eye," and is one of the best comedies ever produced. It shows to what extent the eye is capable of exerting its influence. The next on the list is a comedy-drama called "The Salt Dill," or if you want to catch a bird put salt on its tail, and shows the experience of a little girl whose bird escaped, and who endeavors to recover it in this manner. The last picture on the list is entitled, A Gallant Knight, and is one of beautifully costumed pictures, whose scenes are laid in the drawing room of the royal palaces of Europe. Miss Outon, of London, Ontario, will be heard tonight in that New York hit, "Take me Around."

This charming singer was repeatedly encored at every show yesterday. Mr. Will Harrison, of Halifax, is singing that beautiful little song, "How'd You Like to be My Wife?" Matinee every day at 2:15.

NURSERIES TO RESTOCK

ONTARIO FORESTS

TORONTO, July 13—The provincial government has decided to establish forest nurseries throughout the province in the neighborhood of lands which are not suitable for agricultural purposes. These nurseries are to be made the centres of reforestation for the particular areas in which they are situated.

With this object in view they have purchased 100 acres in the township of Wainman. The plot is believed to be particularly suited for forestry purposes, as it adjoins several thousand acres which has already been declared unfit for agriculture.

The government are also arranging to utilize the services of students of the university who are taking courses in forestry.

ONE FAMILY FILLS A SCHOOL.

As he was the only man with young children in a district of Lake County, Oregon, Mr. John Larkin formed a school committee, of which he was elected chairman and his wife clerk. Mrs. Larkin was installed as teacher by the chairman and the five little Larkins now go to school to their own mother, who is remunerated by the state.
