

BAD CASE OF ECZEMA CURED BY ZAM-BUK

Another case of the healing power of Zam-Buk, in cases of eczema, is to hand from Winnipeg. Mrs. H. Cross, of 176 McIntosh Ave., Elmwood, is the subject, and gives the following facts, with a view to leading other sufferers to a means of cure:

"For five years," she says, "I was terribly afflicted with eczema on my legs, and despite all the doctoring and numerous remedies I tried, I seemed unable to get relief. The disease first started with watery blisters, which itched terribly and when rubbed burst and smarted very much. The pustules then spread and formed sores. These were irritable and very painful. One blister was no sooner rubbed—or I might say touched—than another started."

"They soon spread over both limbs, and I suffered much inconvenience. I tried various remedies, as they were recommended, but could find no relief. Ordinary salves and ointments seemed unequal to my case. At last a friend suggested my using Zam-Buk. I acted on this advice and began the Zam-Buk treatment. A few applications gave me considerable ease, and the burning, smarting pains were reduced. I persevered with the balm, and in the course of a week the disease was under control and the sores healing. From that time forward I continued to improve, and the sores, too, became less and less troublesome, until in a wonderfully short time, considering the seriousness of my case and the long time I had been suffering, Zam-Buk worked a complete cure."

Such is the nature of the great cures which Zam-Buk is daily effecting. Purely herbal in composition, this great balm is a sure cure for all skin diseases, cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, blood poisoning, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ring worm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped cheeks, burns and bruises. All drug-gists and stores sell at 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse harmful imitations and substitutes.

DIAMONDS IN CANADIAN WILD

Many Precious Gems Found by Indians in District Said to Resemble Kimberly in Formation.

Port Francis, Ont., Feb. 7.—Old mining men and prospectors in this region do not need to be told by Dr. Ami of the geological survey that great diamond wealth undoubtedly lies hidden in that part of Canada between the Great Lakes and Hudson Bay. In the Rainy River district and in the auriferous valley of the Seine many "sparklers" have been obtained from Indians and French Canadian voyageurs, who had picked them up in their wanderings without any idea of their character and value.

At the hamlet of Mine Centre, in the Seine River country, George R. Douglass is resident agent and assayer for the Rothschild interests, which are buying large tracts of land in the district that give evidence of gold bearing quartz. Mr. Douglass was long a resident of South Africa. He says the geological conformation of the Rainy Lake and Seine territories is almost identical with that of the Kimberly district.

Forty miles from the mouth of the Big Fork river, which empties into the Rainy from northern Minnesota, are many ancient mounds the origin of which extends beyond the traditions of the Ojibways. Until recently these mounds had been inviolate, for they are in a wild region, little visited by white men and accessible only by canoe. One summer, however, scientists from the University of Toronto came out to explore them. From one of the mounds on which a sturdy oak was growing a large human skeleton, perfectly preserved, was exhumed. It was not that of an Indian, and in the cavity whence it was taken were evidences of prehistoric civilization, in the form of many articles of pottery, some stamped with unique and beautiful designs.

A Large Diamond.
Around the skeleton's neck was a band of pure copper and a curiously wrought necklace of the same metal, into which were interwoven shells and colored stones. What arrested the attention of the exploring party, however, was a stone which gleamed from the centre of a pendant to the necklace. At first it was thought to be nothing more than a clear piece of quartz, but closer examination and testing proved that it was a diamond. Although half a dozen mounds were opened before the party left the region and copper ornaments and pottery were taken with skeletons in all of them, no more diamonds were unearthed.

On going out a band of Ojibways was met, to whom the articles found in the mounds were shown, in the hope of obtaining traditions concerning their origin. As to the copper the Indians were ignorant, but they grunted disapprovingly when shown the pottery and the diamond. Specimens of the former, they said, could be obtained in almost any quantity from the remains of ancient pottery works that once existed on the banks of the Big Fork near the Big Falls, a few miles up the stream, while in the same region glittering stones of the sort the palefaced seemed to regard so highly and frequently been found.

Started by the information the Toronto party pushed on to the Big Falls, which marked in the old days the disputed boundary between the Hudson Bay Company and the American Fur Company. There they found an old hermit squatter, Dan Campbell. He took them to the ancient pottery and opposite his cabin, and where was more brought from a pouch which he carried, three stones of a purity and brilliancy that exceeded that of the one found by his visitors. These stones he had found during his 30 years of life by the Big Fork while scratching the surface of the pottery field with his hunting knife.

Old Dan had no idea that his finds were more than quartz, despite the care with which he had preserved them. So skeptical was he of his visitors' assertions that the stones were diamonds that he entrusted them to their care to be appraised in Toronto and their value sent to him.

Worth $2,500.

Nor were the party mistaken in their judgment. The four stones were pronounced to be real gems, weighing 12 carats and worth $2,500.

Mr. Douglass was sitting in the trading post at Mine Centre one afternoon when a young buck and his squaw entered to exchange pelts for provisions. They had come by canoe 50 miles down the Seine valley. Strapped to a birch bark frame the mother carried a papoose on her back. This she took off and leaned the youngster against the counter while she joined in her husband's dicker with the store keeper.

Mr. Douglass noticed that the young Indian held something shiny in his hand, which every now and then, after gazing upon it, he tried to put into his mouth, but was prevented by the vigilant mother. Curious to see what kind of a toy the Indian baby had, Mr. Douglass pried open his little brown fist, and there lay scintillating a diamond as large as a hazel nut. There was no mistake about it. In astonishment he inquired of the squaw where she found the gem.

"Oh, it," she replied contemptuously, in her guttural tongue, "my man picked it up when he was getting the poles for our tepee up the river."

Douglass pulled out a twenty-dollar bill and offered it to the squaw for the stone. But paper money has little value in the hands of the Ojibway. A gleam of avarice shot into the squaw's eye and tightened the corners of her mouth as she saw how anxious the white man was to get her baby's plaything. She shook her head and grunted a decided negation.

Douglass smiled, for he knew the Ojibway character. "Give me all the chickenfeet you've got," he said to the trader.

The storekeeper emptied the sack on the counter, containing about $10 in small change. The squaw's eyes and those of the buck glittered.

"Here," said Douglass, as he shoved the coins towards them, "give me the stone."

In a trice the mother snatched the gem from the papoose and tossed it over to Douglass. The diamond was taken to Toronto and appraised at nearly $1,000.

The man in the corner is Jas. Wynne, who was weighing cargo on the rig and was later taken out of the water unconscious. He said: "All at once there was a flash of flame, the little powder boat disappeared before my eyes. I felt myself being carried through the air. I did not feel any pain or shock, only surprise. The air seemed filled with pieces of flying plank and iron beams. It seems to me that I saw men's bodies being thrown in the air. Then I fell into the water."

Woodstock, Feb. 6.—The first meeting of the newly elected town council was held in the council chamber this evening. His Worship Mayor Ketchum presiding.

In his inaugural address the mayor made reference to the recent election and thanked the ratepayers for their support that enabled him to be mayor of a town that has been incorporated over half a century. Certainly one of the leading towns in the Maritime Provinces, he said, which on the whole had been governed well and the financial standing of which was high in the business world.

He hoped that the council in any extraordinary expenditure contemplated would be very sure of its ground as he thought the bonded indebtedness should not be increased except in some work of a very necessary and personal nature. He referred to the questions that may come before the board this year, chief of which were pavement of streets; the questions of the contract for supplying power to the town; the necessity of a careful assessment and the prompt collection of taxes.

The following committees were appointed: Finance, audit and printing—Jones, Mair, Bailey.

Water and light—Mair, Dibble, Gallagher.

Streets—Gallagher, Bailey, Dibble.

Poor—Bailey, Gibson, Gallagher.

Sewers—Dibble, Bailey, Gibson.

A lot of routine business was transacted, including the payment of returning officers and constables, after which adjournment was made until Friday night.

Mr. Stockton, in the discharge of his professional duties, and in his capacity of registrar of the exchequer court on its Admiralty side, in this province, as well as in such other positions as he was called on to fill, was painstaking, courteous and efficient, and by his genial and generous disposition won the respect and friendship of all of his professional brethren, but of those of the public with whom he did business and especially of his many personal friends. The society records its appreciation of his excellent qualities and extends to the members of his family its sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

Further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be entered in the minutes of the society and a copy of it sent to his immediate relatives.

Mr. Stockton's funeral took place at 11 o'clock from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. J. Verner McLellan, 95 Coburg street, and was very largely attended. After a service at the house conducted by Rev. Messrs. IN THE COURTS

Circuit Court.
The case of Robert Campbell vs. Donaldson Bros. was resumed before Mr. Justice McKenna in the Circuit Court yesterday morning at 11 o'clock.

Dr. Bentley was examined for the defendants. He said that he believed that Campbell was fit for work, and disagreed with Dr. Baxter, who testified on Monday that Campbell was in a weak condition. Mr. Baxter applied for leave to open the plaintiff's case, which was refused. Argument of counsel then followed, and at one o'clock the court adjourned sine die, judgment to be delivered at a day to be agreed upon.

County Court.

Before Judge Forbes, in County Court Chambers yesterday morning, final judgment was signed against the defendant in the case of the Dominion Express Company vs. Henry Morgan, for $40.00 and costs. The facts of the case are interesting. Some time ago T. Eaton Company, Ltd., of Toronto, shipped to one Henry Norman, of Plaster Rock, Victoria county, goods to the value of $40. By mistake the goods were delivered to the defendant Henry Morgan, who also resided in Plaster Rock, who accepted delivery but refused to yield up the articles as pay for them. This plaintiff was compelled to pay the T. Eaton Company for the mistake, and brought this suit against Morgan for the recovery of the value of the goods. Morgan did not appear and judgment was signed by default. J. Oscar King appeared for the plaintiff. It was intimated that other proceedings might be taken against the defendant.

LIBERAL AGENTS PAID TO BOOM RECIPROCITY

Charge May be Made in House
That Parties Were Accepted
From United States Sources
—Proof Forthcoming.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—The Mail and Empire today prints the following from Montreal: "According to information obtained here a big sensation is expected to be sprung before the present session of Parliament is much older. The charges that will be preferred according to this information, will expose one of the most sensational scandals that has been shown up for a long time. It is alleged that certain Liberal agents received large sums of money from interests on the other side of the line with the understanding that they would use their influence to have a reciprocity agreement passed through Parliament as soon as possible."

Proof to substantiate the charge, it is said, will be forthcoming when the opportunity presents itself.

OBITUARY.

W. Beverley Allison.

Sackville, Jan. 7.—A telegram today from Edmonton brought news of the death of W. Beverley Allison, of Sackville. Death was due to pneumonia. Mr. Allison was about 28 years old and a member of the law firm of LaSalle & Allison, Strathcona. He graduated with honors from Mount Allison in 1903, subsequently taking his master's degree. On graduation he went to Edmonton and began study of law, being admitted to the bar several years ago and meeting with much success. Last fall he was taken ill with congestion of the lungs, and his system was apparently weakened so that he could not withstand the attack of pneumonia. In addition to his parents he is survived by one sister, Gretchen, who has been visiting in the west and was with him when he died.

Thomas Lawless.

In Joliette this morning, Thomas Brown died, aged about 60. He was a well known and respected resident of Joliette, and was survived by his wife and several children. The latter include Mrs. Victor Dixon, of Upper Point de la Riviere, Miss Alberta Brownell, and Edgar Brownell of Joliette. Mrs. Brownell was formerly Miss Wry.

Thomas Lawless.

St. Martins, Feb. 6.—Thomas Lawless, who has been living alone at Little Beach, was found dead on Saturday morning by one of his neighbors, William Black, who went to his house with a load of wood. Not seeing any one about he entered the house and found him dead. He was about sixty years of age and had not been in very good health for some time.

William Gott.

Death was a grim race yesterday morning when Wm. Gott expired on the Boston train as he was being hurried to the hospital for treatment. The deceased, who was seventy-four years old, is a native of England, but has been in this country for a long time and in recent years has lived at South Bay. During the winter he has been employed with the Inglewood Pulp and Paper Company as assistant clerk in their lumber camp five miles back of Westfield. He was taken sick three weeks ago, but each day refused to be feeling better and refused offers to take him to the hospital. As he was not recovering the foreman, Wm. Cairns, decided on Monday that he would have to go to the city for treatment and detailed Archibald McMaster and Joseph Ball to accompany him. They drove to Westfield yesterday morning and placed him on board the train. He said then that he was feeling better but a few minutes later he was dead. Dr. Berryman was notified, but as he was not available, Dr. T. D. Walker viewed the remains at the station.

St. Patrick's Parade.

McHugh submitted a report of the proceedings at the meeting of delegates of various Catholic societies on Friday evening last, to arrange for the St. Patrick's day parade, and the members of the F. ANNUAL MEETING OF FORESTRY ASSOCIATION

George Y. Chown, Registrar of Queen's University, Chosen as Next President—Convention Winnipeg Next Year

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—At the annual meeting of the Canadian Forestry Association held here this morning, George Y. Chown, registrar of Queen's University, was elected president and John Hendry, Vancouver, vice-president for the ensuing year. A total membership of 2,700 was reported, with a balance on hand of $10,357. Owing to the Toronto train not arriving a number of members were detained from being present and from the same cause the annual meeting of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association was postponed until late this afternoon.

The committee on forest fires presented a report saying it heartily concurred in the work done at the recent Quebec convention and in addition suggested that a permanent head of fire protective work be appointed as well as patrolmen with full powers of making arrests without warrants. The districting the country under sub-heads was also mooted. The report was tabled for consideration by the executive. Winnipeg was decided on as the next convention place.

MONTCALM TRIP OPENS UP NEW POSSIBILITIES

Ice Breaking Steamer Reaches Anticosti in Midwinter After Making Calls Along North Shore of Gulf.

Quebec, Feb. 7.—The ice breaking steamer Montcalm reached Anticosti this morning after a two days trip from Quebec. On the way down she called at Pentast, Clarke City and Seven Islands. She will leave Anticosti tonight on the return trip to Quebec.

The success of the vessel reaching Anticosti in midwinter is enthusiastically received here by shipping men and the merchants as it looks well for winter navigation and will open up winter trade with ports on the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence which heretofore have been tied up and isolated for at least six months of the year.

In a body, W. J. Magee and E. J. Moran reported on the same matter at a meeting of the Y. M. S. of St. Joseph on Monday night, and the members, after expressing a unanimous desire to take part in the parade, decided to refer the matter to the executive of the society.
