

ALLIES ADVANCE BETWEEN LA CLYTTE AND KEMMEL

FRENCH IN POSSESSION OF ENTIRE VILLAGE OF LOCRE

British Push Their Line Ahead East of Village of Bretonneaux on Front Before Amiens—French Thrust Enemy Back—Germans Sustain Severe Reverse in Flanders—Bombardment of Paris Resumed Yesterday.

British Headquarters in France, April 30—(via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—The Allied line has been advanced between La Clytte and Kemmel. There has also been some progress south of that region.

With the British Army in France, April 30—(By The Associated Press)—This morning the Allied line in Flanders was to all intents the same as when the Germans surged forward yesterday. In front of the defending positions gray-uniformed men lay in great numbers, representing the awful price paid by the Germans.

At one time yesterday the Germans appeared to have had some men on the lower slopes of both Mont Rouge and the Scherpenberg after they had succeeded in driving a small wedge into the French lines between these two elevations.

Things looked critical, but the French counter-attacks determinedly and re-established virtually all the old positions.

The artillery was increasingly busy this morning from Vimy northward.

Thus far the German capture of Kemmel Hill has done them little good, for the Entente Allied artillery has kept the crest so smothered in shell fire that it has been impossible for the enemy to occupy it in force.

London, April 30—The French now hold the entire village of Locre, west of Kemmel, says the official statement from the war office today.

During the night the British advanced their line east of Villers-Bretonneaux, on the front before Amiens. In the vicinity of Locre the French by counter-attacks yesterday afternoon and evening drove the Germans from the remainder of the ground they had gained in the morning.

The Germans have been heavily repulsed all along the northern battlefield, the night passed in comparative quiet. The text of the statement reads: "Successful counter-attacks carried out by French troops yesterday afternoon and evening drove the enemy from the remainder of the ground gained by him during the morning in the neighborhood of Locre, and captured a number of prisoners. The whole village is in the hands of our allies."

After the heavy repulse inflicted on the enemy yesterday the night passed comparatively quietly on the northern battlefield.

"We advanced our line slightly during the night east of Villers-Bretonneaux.

"On the remainder of the British front there is nothing to report beyond artillery activity on both sides on certain sectors."

Paris Bombed.—Paris, April 30—Heavy artillery fighting occurred last night north and south of the Aves, in the sector of Noyon and along the Oise the war office reports.

The long range bombardment of the region of Paris was resumed this morning.

Some Sidelights on Y.M.C.A. War Work

The "Walking Wounded"—A Village Without a Y.M.C.A. Can the Need Be Measured?

"I think of the Y.M.C.A. emergency work when a great push is on," writes Francis B. Sayre in "Harper's," "and the wounded soldiers are streaming back from the front literally by the thousands, maimed, and torn and bleeding. The numbers are so vast that the stretcher-bearers can only attend to the prostrate wounded.

"All those who can manage to walk or crawl, known as the 'walking wounded,' must make their own way as best they can to the first aid stations. By the side of these first aid stations the Y.M.C.A. takes its place, and all the walking wounded who come in are given hot coffee and made as comfortable as possible while they wait, sometimes for hours."

Referring to the Y.M.C.A. huts, the writer says: "I have seen the halls so crowded on the occasion of some religious talk that after the benches were all filled and the standing room taken, soldiers kept crowding in through the windows to sit on the floor of the platform, and others remained outside to listen to the speaker through the windows."

A Village Without Y.M.C.A. Here is the writer's picture of a French village without a Y.M.C.A.: "With only evil ways in which to spend money burning in their pockets, with nothing to relieve the dull monotony of idle evenings, many of them began to get lonely and homesick, or to drift along dangerous paths.

"It was not many days before officers began to send hurry calls for the Y.M.C.A.: 'For God's sake come down before it's too late and do something for my men.'

Death of a Y.M.C.A. Secretary "One shell, dropping not ten feet from the dug-out, churned up the earth, the next went crashing through the steel sheeting. A party left the battery to search for the Non-Combatant (Y.M.C.A. secretary). Clambering through the shell-hole, they saw the fruit cans gashed as if by a hundred chisels; the stocks scattered and destroyed; the mugs broken; the cocoa-urn overturned; and when they had thumped the debris aside they found the Non-Combatant (Y.M.C.A. secretary), with a dark red stream oozing from his head, still smiling, but sleeping his last sleep."

BISHOP FALLON OF LONDON NOT SPECIALLY SUMMONED TO ROME

Roman Catholic Head of Ontario who Favors Conscriptio, Called to Ireland by British Government to Use His Good Offices with His Fellow Churchmen There, According to His Personal Friends.

London, Ont., April 30.—Close personal friends of Bishop Fallon, Roman Catholic bishop of this diocese, with whom he discussed his trip overseas, declared that the visit is being made entirely because of the situation in Ireland and not, as has been reported in special press despatches from Ottawa, because of the differences between the French and Irish wings of the church in Canada.

Bishop Fallon says his friends, who are all opposed to conscription, believe in the present crisis the Irish people must put their heart in the struggle for humanity. Bishop Fallon believes in conscription, but would have the enforced service act applied by an Irish parliament after home rule has been granted.

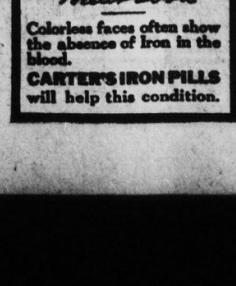

It is understood here that the bishop was met by the British ambassador at New York prior to his departure, his willingness to serve to the full extent of his power having impressed the government.

Another Version. It was announced last week that Bishop Fallon had been called overseas in connection with the chaplain service, he being the head of the Ontario Catholic chaplains and responsible for their selection for overseas duty.

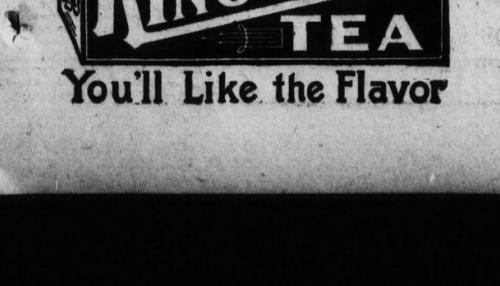

STOP HEADACHES BEFOREHAND

You never had a headache when you were well. To keep well is to keep clean, inside. To relieve headache, and to prevent it, keep the liver active and industrious and the bowels as regular as a clock. Two generations of healthy, vigorous people have done this by taking one pill at bedtime, regularly—a larger dose when nature gives the warning.
