Our Girls and Boys

Beth's May Basket

Little Beth came home from school one night looking very sober. The big sister looked up with a smile from the little pink apron that she was making.

"What is it, dear?" she asked, as she saw the grave little face, instead of Beth's usual merry one.

"Well, you see, sister, to-morrow is May basket hanging day, and all the boys and girls at school were telling how many they expected to get. And I don't believe I'll get even a single, tiny one, 'cause we haven't been here only 'bout most a month. You see, so nobody knows me well enough to hang me one."

"That's too bad, dear, but never mind, don't fret and maybe someone will hang you one after all," said evening and the three elder scholars were in the dining room supposed to be studying, when a rousing rap sounded at the door of the sitting room, where Beth sat with papa, mamma and big sister.

"Run to the door, Beth," said mamma, who was in the secret.

Beth obeyed, just in time to see a scurrying form run around the corner of the house.

"There's nobody here," she began. "Oh, it's a May basket," she cried, as she took something from the knob and carried it carefully into the room.

Beth was kept flying to the door all evening, sometimes one door, sometimes another, but never once could she find out who it was.

A happier little girl than Beth was when her bed-time came it would be hard to find, for there in a row on the lounge sat, not twelve, but fourteen May baskets. Two of her little playmates had also remembered the little stranger girl.

MAY DAY SPORTS

Not every "Queen" can have a royal steed. The little girls fortunate enough to have one, should decorate him with flowers and ride in state, at the head of the May Day procession. The little calf enjoys the fun as well as the rest.

which a paste brush is thrust. If you dislike the odor of carboic acid use salicylic acid in the same quantity, and add ten drops of oil of cinnamon.

Is there any way of making rancid butter, so that it can be used?—Flora, Hastings Co., Ont.

Bad butter, it is claimed, can be made tolerable, for kitchen use by working it over in ice water in which a little soda has been dissolved. After this it should be wrapped in a salted cloth with a lump of charcoal in the outer fold.

sister cheerfully. "Now, supposing you go and put away your cape and hat and then hunt me out some buttons to put on your new apron."

When Beth was snugly tucked in bed that night, this sister unfolded her plan to the other big sister and the two brothers, all of whom were out in the cosy dining room, studying their lessons for the morrow. An animated discussion followed, the result of which was the appearance of a box of bright tissue paper, of the maculate bottle and several pairs of scissors.

After an hour's merry labor, one dozen "perfectly bootiful" May baskets stood in a row on the dining room table, and four tired workers surveyed the results of their labor with great satisfaction.

Some were filled with paper flowers, while others awaited their filling of real flowers on the morrow's eve. In the bottom of one basket was tucked a tiny gaily dressed penny doll, another received a stick of gum, a third a handful of peanuts from one of the boys' pockets, and still another a pretty paper doll. All of the others were to have a filling of candy and blossoms, to be procured on the morrow.

It was just growing dark the next

And that's the story of how Beth came to have the most May baskets of any child in town that year. But neither she nor any of her little mates knows to this day how it was all made to happen. And they never will unless you go and tell.

The Magazine Farmer

I used to like the old place But now it ain't no use;

It's laid out inartistic, And it's tacky as the deuce;

You see I've been a-reading, Till envy makes me green,

Of artistic agriculturians. In a farming magazine.

It tells you how your pig pen Should be on aesthetic lines;

And your Looey Fourteen henhouse Should be draped in ivy vines;

I'm going to sell the old place— It's architecture's bum,

And I'll buy one of them dream joints In that magazine, by gum!

I'll raise no crops plebeian, But I'll put in plants and shrubs;

I'll do no harvest sweatin'— Leave that for old time dubs!

I may not last a season, 'Fore I meet the sheriff man, But I'm going to be a farmer On the magazinist plan!
