Most people rise still unrefreshed, and dreading the strain of the day's labors. CANADA'S NEW-OBSERVATORY. What An Observent Pressman Saw

What An Observant Pressman Saw During Recent Visit.

Of what pessible use can it be to the farmers of Canada to have a few scientists in Ottawa gasing through telescopes at the stars, and why should Canada ge to the expense of a fine new observatory in order to house these star-gazers better? These were doubtless some of the thoughts in the minds of a party of newspapermen who on Saturday evening. April 29, accepted an invitation of Chief Astronomier King and his assistants, Dr. Klotz and Mr. Plaskett, to visit the new observatory into which they have just moved in the past few days. The new building which is of Nepsan stone like the Parliament Buildings, is situated on the Experimental Parm, about three miles from the Parliament Buildings, Ottawa. It was built at this point to secture a clay foundation and to avoid the vibration which prevails wherever there is a rock foundation. The building is fitted with all the apparatus for observators.

New, as to the practical work of this great institution, which has already made a record which is worldwide. In the first place, the institution gives fixed points for the surveyers who go out to determine the boundaries of Provinces, and the international boundary itself. Next, the Department fixes the location of islands and capes, by which the Maries Department makes litter charts, and every new island, roof and shoal sharted reduces the cost of marine insurance, which in turn reduces, the cost of transportation. Lastly, the astronemers hope to be able by the study of the sun, the centre of our solar system, is elevate meteorology to an exact series. What this would mean to the world averyons can see who know what great service the present susteer-clogical system is performing. There are many other things of the meet vital importance, connected with the keeping of a standard time and the measuring and weighing of the action which this observatory is design, no measuring and weighing of the earth which this observatory is doing, no which this observatory is doing, not only as a part of the world-system of observatories, but for Canada itself, a country so vast that it cannot as a small country like, say Belgium, be considered as a plain surface, but must be divided into appropriate sections. As showing how Canada's work stands, it may be stated that when she took her part in drawing a British astronomical werld girdle, and when the astronomers of Canada met those of Emgland in Australia, these two parties binding the world-girdle together were but one-tenth of a second apart in their measurements, a difference so elight as to amount almost to perfection.

Canada'o Rights in Border Waters.

Among the several questions new pending between London and Washington Ferming to regarding Canada, one of the most important affects, the interpretation of the River and Harber Act of 1902, providing fee an American-Canadian Commission to investigate and report on the problems of water level, water supply and navigation of the waters adjacent to the boundary line, including all lakes and rivers whose natural outlet to by the St. Lawrence River.

Some question has arisen as to the scope of the commission of six, which already has been appointed, the Washington Government having taken the tentative position that its jurisdiction did not include the St. John River, where certain obstructions have been placed to the annoyance of Canadians. It is the wish of the Canadians that this river be included in the investigation, and they held that such was the intention of the act. A similar interpretation was placed on the law by Mr. Choate, the American Ambassador at London, when he presented the invitation for the appointment of the commission. In view of this fact, the representations of the London Government on the subject will be again taken up at Washington, and given careful consideration.

Crown is Said to Be Imperilling the People's Rights.

People's Rights.

Vienna, May 29.—The political situation in Hungary has passed within the last few days from the passive state of recent months into a comparatively acute stage that is threatening really berious consequences.

Count Tisza, it is said, will be removed from the Premiership this week, and in his stead will be appointed, if he can form a C:blinet, Gen. Baron Ferjervary, formerly Fungarian Minister of National D.F. nee, which office he had to resign because of great unpopularity arising from his extreme partisanship to the Crown in matters within his jurisdiction.

The rights guaranteed Hungarians under their constitution, leading men of that country say, are upon the ewe of being threatened by the Crown's action, and Hungarians are preparing to contest these infringements in a manner in which holds the possibility of bringing serious results the mirror of the periods.

tion, and Hungarlans are preparing to contest these infringements in a manner in which holds the possibility of bringing serious results to the mutual itie of the dual monarchy.

The possibilities with which the present situation is pregnant may lead to a state of affairs meaning practically revolution, especially as Baron Ferjervary is thought to be a man who will carry out the Crown's wishes, irrespective of Hungarian national demands. The situation has not been so threatening as it is to-day since peace was established between Austria and Hungary in 1867.
