London, May 28.—A despatch to The Post from Budapest, dated May 19, says an official proclamation which has been issued there indicates that 25 per cent of all bank savings will be taken for a war loan, and that a government decree will authorize the banks to use one quarter of their deposits for subscriptions.

BIG GERMAN LOSSES

London, May 28.—The Times Petrograd correspondent says that he learns that the German casualties in the West Galicia drive total 106,000. An army organ in Petrograd, the correspondent adds, declares that Prince Joachim, a son of Emperor William, and the Prince of Lippe narrowly escaped capture on the northern front when the Russians suddenly stormed the Kurzyan position with the bayonet. The princes, it is asserted, fled to their staff in the rear of the position.

Jack, the eleven-year-old son of Charles Finkbeiner of Seaford, was almost instantly killed when he lost his balance while bird-nesting in a tree on Goderich street, and fell to the pavement below.

In the seizure of a number of vacuum cleaners, which, it is alleged were being smuggled from Detroit to Windsor inside the hood of an automobile belonging to a well-known local man, it is believed an extensive smuggling game has been uncovered.

Excellent Show of Public School Work

The excellent exhibition of public school work at the Conservatory was opened for inspection yesterday afternoon. Several of the senior girls poured tea for the guests after they had conducted an examination of the fine work of the school children.

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE

The first section of the exhibition was that of household science in charge of Miss MacNally. A large table of delicious looking cooking and refreshments had been made by the young girls themselves under the direction of Miss MacNally of course. It was plainly evident by the quality of the cooking that the girls had received perfect instruction and teaching during the work. About two hundred models of the school children were also the work of the ingenious girls. A splendid array of white caps and bags, all carefully sewn and embroidered, was also the work of the household science classes.

Returning for a brief moment to the attractive cooking table, the lunch basket and invalid tray are worth special mention. This was the first year that the girls had been allowed to be congratulated, as well as Miss MacNally, for the splendid showing made.

MANUAL TRAINING

Then came the boys' manual training exhibition, under the direction of Mr. A. Styles. It was a very large and excellent showing of the boys' work. Only the very best of the work could be exhibited, and Mr. Styles had taken great pains in inspecting and arranging the work. About two hundred models could not be shown for lack of space. An almost unbelievable fact was that all the work had been done since last October, only a few months ago.

Several pieces of work are worthy of special mention. Undoubtedly the best was a beautiful electric lamp and medicine chest, done by Norman Andrews. Several other splendid pieces of workmanship were done by George Adams, Bruce Kerr, Morley Beckett, Bruce Irwin, Norman Armstrong, Howard Matthews, Richmond Sutherland and Jack Duncan. China stands, mirrors, plate racks, electric lamps, a rustic bench, book stands, rustic bird houses, shoe boxes, stools, tabourettes, sewing baskets and countless other fine exhibits were shown.

Then came the mechanical drawing, also done by the boys of Mr. Styles' classes. Only about a tenth of the drawings were exhibited, and among these the work of Silverthorne, Baden Powell, Clement Harris and Arthur Hart was especially good.

In the last few years the work of Mr. Styles has taken wonderful strides and leaps forward. His classes have been greatly enlarged necessitating much extra work from him in his spare time. In spite of this great increase on his time, he has taught his boys with such skill and patience that this year's exhibit has been greater and far superior to any previous exhibit.

This is saying a great deal, for during his term as manual training instructor Mr. Styles has turned out some excellent work from his school. The splendid exhibition held at the old V. M. C. A. several years ago, may be well remembered as one of them.

ART. The third section of the exhibition was the art and drawing of the classes in Dufferin School, taught by Miss Shannon. This art was done by pupils of the second, third and fourth grades, and made a very excellent showing. The work was divided into sections in which nature work, landscapes, object drawing, figure and animal poses design work from plants, etc., were all shown in great art and made a very excellent showing. ## PRZEMYSL IS THREATENED WITH SIEGE

Austro-German Armies Have Driven Wedge Through Galicia.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, May 28.—The fortress of Przemyśl, garrisoned this time by Russians instead of Austrians, is once more threatened with investment.

Just as the Russians, after surrounding Przemyśl and starving out its Austrian garrison forced the surrender of the fortress on the 22nd of last March, so Austro-German troops, who have driven a wedge through Central Galicia, are now attempting a double flanking movement, and with growing intensity of attack, are seeking to encircle Przemyśl from the north and the southeast.

According to Vienna reports progress is being made in both directions and if the advance is not checked Przemyśl will either be isolated from the rest of the Russian army, or the Russian army, which fell back to the San will be forced into further retreat.

This situation in Galicia is unquestionably of great strategic importance at the present time and even the British press concedes that the position of Przemyśl is serious. It is described as the key to the whole Russian position in Galicia, and its fall will mean that the railroad running eastward to Lemberg, the main artery of the Russian supplies in this region will fall into Austrian hands. Reports that this railroad line already has been severed are still without confirmation to-day.

Fighting along the Austro-Italian frontier still is in the development stage. There is virtually no change on the western front, and the British and the French admit that the Turks are so strongly entrenched on the Gallipoli peninsula that only siege warfare can be waged there.

GEORGIAN MINSTRELS GAVE A RATTLING GOOD EVENING

Splendid Artists and Excruciatingly Funny Songs and Hits.

The Georgian Minstrels held their audience last night with laughter. Cork black and charming, chatty but clean humor, they made another hit. Few could resist Happy Luscumb or withold delight at Andy Ferrell's playing on the violin, while the entire circle gave a unique display of versatility. The vocalists were Bill Scott, Earl Woodley, Steve Twyman, Bert Bennett, Gil Short, Bert Lynn, and the comedians, Earl Luscumb, Art Lynn, Ed Hutchings, Bill Murray, Letercouer, Mr. Jack Cook, the whole being under the able direction of Mr. D. Forbes Thomson. Mr. James Cook was superlatively anything in his song, the "Garden of my heart," and his dusky comrades rolled with the moving refrain from side to side.

Way Back Home sung "Happy" and his tearful melody would have melted "pig," its refrain had such a wealth of real tenderness, but he was followed by "When the lighthouse rings ding dong," by Bill Scott—and Bill has tuneful limits—not excess—"Garland of old fashioned roses," warbled Bill Garland, and "Black faces and stubby noses" was the echo from the acoustic arrangements.

Jas. Goodson sang "He loved her since she was a baby," and still they love, and "Jimmy's" appeal might have caused their affections to warm up and spill over.

"When you are a long way from home," sang Jack Cook, and the trembled with the surcharge of homesick hearts—there's an angel sits up aloft to watch "Poor Jack" was told. Ed Hutchings had a "Scotch"—yes, but it was a Scotch song, not a "liver," and he poured his melody of Highland Laddie into Doric ears with lifting ease.

"I want to go back to Michigan," sung Geo. Barker, and he is waiting still, even the applause refused to try and make the "midnight special."

Art Lynn sang that "He was all dressed up and where to go," but his costume scarcely suggested local boulevards, so it was well he remained.

Bill Murray appealed for "Mercy on a married man," and the male section of the audience made the air resound with moans. Mesdames and maidens looked on and were silent.

"Dear old Girl," sang Bill Stewart, and big tears tumbled down his physiognomy, tears of grief and of pain.

Signorina Piccola, in mandolin selections, featured by Mr. Jas. D. Ansell; Georgian Minstrel quartet; and Ferrell, violin soloist; the silver-toned tenor, Mr. Jas. Goodson; Earl Luscumb, in his own creation of wit and humor; Masters Jack and Freddie Johnson, the youngest exponents of the many art appearing before the public was a splendid piece of combined humor, and reflected creditably, and indeed there are few entertainments in Brantford at which a greater degree of enjoyment could be had. Every artist did well, and the general manager is to be congratulated.

BLEW UP AND LEFT NO TRACE

C. P. R. Steamer Irene Blown Into Atoms by Explosion.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, May 28.—No trace has been found of a harbor steam launch which was moored alongside the Princess Irene, or its crew of five or ten since the explosion which destroyed the big steamer, and it is assumed five more names must be added to the list of dead.

One possible survivor of the explosion is in a hospital suffering from shock. He was picked up in the water some time after the explosion, but it has not been learned whether he was a member of the Princess Irene's crew or was blown out of some small boat near by. Only one body has been recovered. Two barges which were also alongside the Irene were demolished.

A naval officer who witnessed the explosion, said in describing it: "The ship was moored seventy yards from the point on shore where I was standing. Suddenly I noticed a little whisp of smoke aboard and called out, 'Is there a fire there?'"

"Before the men could answer there came an explosion like a volcanic eruption. Then a great cloud of dust, coal, smoke and flame rose a mile high. Amidst the smoke the eye could discern huge pieces of the ship bursting into smaller pieces as they rose."

Lemberg, down, she went it up, distributing her remains in dust and jagged fragments over a radius of many miles. The smoke cloud of the explosion lasted, I think, only a moment or two. I rubbed my eyes and saw clear air where the Irene, barges and launches had been a moment before.

"The explosion seemed to stun everyone for a few minutes. The ship came the order, 'away all boat crews to pick up survivors.' But when I got into a boat and sailed past the spot where the explosion had occurred, there was nothing but a singling fragment of mast to mark the place. Farther away, however, the water was dotted with pieces of wreckage."
