A Short Talk on the Fashionable—

DRESS STUFFS

There is a marked improvement from season to season in the weaving of fabrics and this improvement has been going on for centuries. This year has surpassed all previous records in the art of weaving, and after many unsuccessful attempts, the French manufacturers have at last been successful in placing the richest of fabrics in the fashionable markets of

Of difficult weaves they are the most difficult yet attempted by the great French weavers, and in the large fashion centres there is a great demand for

They are namely the Zebeline, the Canvas and the Deerskin, along with many other popular weaves for this season's wear.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen, Your obedient servant, ROBERT PARK,

Public School Inspector The report was adopted and the con ncessions asked for were granted. Mr. McCorvie, chairman of the Kin-1-That Miss Schwemler's resigna ion be accepted and go into effect the first day of December. This clause

2-That after careful consideration he committee have recommended Miss Morrison for the position, which will be vacated by Miss Schwemler. Mr. Robertson thought it unnecessary to make the appointment, Both Mr. Plewes and Miss Green, however, reommended the appointment and so it was made. 3-That a system of regulating the salaries of the teachers in the kindergarten be introduced, the same as is one with the teachers of other school vork, whereby Miss Green and Miss Aylesworth are placed on the same basis as their associates. This clause also carried. In speaking of this last motion Dr. McKeough paid a very high tribute to Miss Green, both as a teacher and "I think this clause," said he, "is now for ten years and I think she ought to come under the same cate-gory as the other teachers. Her work has progressed more than any other department in our schools. She is certainly successful as a kindergaren teacher, being ever conscientious and faithful, and I think it only right that her salary should be increased." Several members of the Board spoke very highly of Miss Schwemler's past services and expressed sincere regret that she had decided to withdraw from the kindergarten work. Miss Schwemler has now been assistant di-rectress of the Central school kindergarten for a number of years and alefficient teacher.

Mr. Cornish brought up the matter of the overcrowding of the junior rooms in the Central school. It was left with the managers, inspector and principal to provide some means of relieving the teachers of these rooms.

Another teacher may be added. Several minor improvements, such as protecting windows, etc., were suggested to the managers of McKeough school, and the matter was left to them with power.

The line fence on the west side of the Central school will be repaired.

Mr. Cornish brought up the question of the principal of McKeough school. He said :-

"Mr. Bensen made a motion som time ago that the Board advertise for a principal for McKeough school. Who is responsible for this motion not being carried out?"

Dr. McKeough-At the time the motion was made I myself thought it too soon to advertise.

Mr. Cornish-I called Mr. Bensen's attention to the matter about a month ago and I hold him directly responsible. Mr. Bensen-When it is time for a change it will be soon enough to ad-vertise for another principal for this school. At the present time, however, I think the Board will bear me out when I say that Miss Abram is filling the position as well as it is possible to be filled.-Here, hear! Mr. Cornish-It is not a question of Miss Nichol is at present teachng in the Central school for Miss Snell, who is attending Normal, but it was understood at midsummer that she should get the vacancy in the Mc-Keough school, Mr. McCorvie spoke very highly of Miss Farquharson's work while teaching in the McKeough The teachers of the Central school were also re-engaged at the same salaries, Miss Snell, of course, receiving the customary increase of $25.

According to an understanding ar rived at by the Board at midsummer, Mr. Plewes, the principal of the Central, was given the regulation increase of $100 per annum.

Several members of the Board spoke very highly of Mr. Plewes' work, and recognized the fact that they had as principal of the Central school probably the brightest and most energetic school teacher in the province. Owing to the increased duties of the McKeough school janitor his salary was increased to $430 per year with no
