"LITTLE WILLIE" TALKS

The Crown Prince is taking a little rest as a commander, and has entered the ranks of the German publicists. In a very short while, the way things are going, Little Willie may be suffering an enforced rest in a place where interviews are unknown. All the same his talk to a newspaper was refreshingly frank.
It seems that he has known all along that, with Britain in the war, there was no hope of success for Germany. He has, however, managed to keep this information to himself for four years, and it is only since his much vaunted drive to Paris turned into a hasty retreat to the Aisne that he has admitted as much. His august father, the Kaiser, in his first published reference to the British forces, held them up to ridicule to his supermen, whom he exhorted to march over the contemptible little British army. That is four years since, and even with the assistance of little Willie the Kaiser's men have not yet cleaned up the British fighters. The Crown Prince from his place in the rear of his massed divisions says that individually, the British soldier fights tenaciously, but of course he is badly led. At all events the British Tommy, with their allied comrades have exploded the myth that the German trained soldiers were supermen. They have stood up to them at untold odds, and with an even break have never failed to beat them. And just now the Allies are beating the Germans so badly that the Crown Prince has taken himself off for a rest. He is right in saying that the Germans are waging a purely defensive battle, but it is certainly not of their own choice. Now will they be allowed to hold what they have. Their days in France and in Belgium are numbered, and when that point has been settled there will be further adjustments to make in Russia, in Poland, in Roumania, and in the Balkans. The Allies are quite aware of the task before them, but they have not fought and bled for four years merely to hold the Germans off. They are fighting for the liberties and freedom of the world, and as long as Germany remains the menace to these liberties and freedom she has been and is, so long will the Allies go on with their task be the cost what it may.

THE FOOD BOARD

The Canada Food Board is working overtime to justify its existence.
Every week there issues from the office of the board fresh orders concerning the buying and selling of foodstuffs. No trouble is taken to bring these orders to the attention of the people affected. They may or may not appear in the columns of the press, but those affected are expected to govern themselves accordingly.
The latest order touches the quantity of sugar to be used in hotels and eating houses, and in certain factories. It cuts directly at many industries, and will affect the livelihood of thousands of Canadian citizens. Only a month's notice is given, and seeing that the order only applies to factories and public eating places, it is based on injustice.

Just how long the Food Board will be allowed to continue grinding out orders like these it is impossible to say. In the last week of so local milk dealers have been advertising another rise in the cost of milk to their customers. Let no one imagine that the local dairymen have joined the rank of war profiteers. With the several increases they have made in the price of their milk they are today worse off than they were when the war began. They are themselves the victims of increased prices. To continue in business they have to buy feed for their cattle, and the price of the feedstuffs they have to buy has been going up for the last four years.

Another rise has just taken place, and hence the increased price of milk to their customers.

Here is where the Food Board could have done good work and saved the public money. It could have done the same thing in respect to flour, to bacon, to sugar and to many other necessities of life. Instead of which it has contented itself with issuing orders, restricting the use of various articles of food in public eating places. Until it gets the authority from the Government, or borrows the courage to tackle the question of the cost of living at its foundation, then it is wasting its own time and squandering public money in issuing these orders. Milk would not have been the price it is today to local consumers if it had not been for the increased cost of cattle feed. And why should there have been such inordinate increases in the cost of these products, or in the cost of flour? This is the question the Canadian public has been asking for the last four years, and all the answer it receives is some silly and vexatious order from a highly paid Food Board. Most assuredly there is something rotten somewhere.

There is much encouragement in the report from the Okanagan that the fruit crop will show a marked increase over that of last year. Apples, it is stated, will fall short of last season, but this will be more than made up by the heavy increase in shipments of other fruits, such as cherries, apricots, peaches and pears, while cantaloupes, citrons and tomatoes will also show a great increase.
Cran apples will be a remarkably heavy crop in all parts of the district.

BELGIAN DEPUTY DIES

of Deputies. Heart disease was the cause of death.

PAID DEARLY FOR BREAKING GAME ACT

In the Provincial Police Court yesterday morning Joseph Fontana, of Extension, was fined $150 and costs for an infraction of the Game Act and $50 and costs for having a bottle of whiskey in his possession, in contravention of the Prohibition Act.
Fontana appeared before Magistrate C. H. Beevor Potts, and from the evidence adduced it appears Chief Constable Bert Stephenson ran across Fontana on Black Jack Mountain armed with a rifle and carrying a pit lamp attached to his hat. A search of the motor car in which Fontana travelled from Extension to the lakes uncovered a bottle of liquor. In addition to paying the heavy fine Fontana had his whiskey and rifle confiscated.
