Rare Chance to Secure a College Education.

We have made arrangements that enable us to place within the reach of a limited number of deserving students, opportunities for securing, on easy terms, a classical or commercial education. A little work during the vacation season will secure this for the one worthily striving for such a boon, but who may not be in possession of sufficient money to realize his heart's desire. The facilities at our disposal enable us to offer a year's board and tuition at of Charlottetown. A full course in this excellent Commercial College may be won by any four young men or women, in town or country, who will fulfill the easy conditions we require. Whenever anyone satisfies the requirements in either of the cases enumerated he or she will be given a certificate entitling the holder to the educational advantages offered. A rare opportunity is here placed within reach of those desirous of acquiring a good education, and no time should be lost in taking advantage thereof. Only a little work is required in order to secure the coveted boon, and all can easily be accomplished during this summer's vacation, so that the winners may enter either college at the opening of the next academic year.

Letter-Writing.

FROM "A GENTLEMAN"

There is no art so important in the conduct of our modern life, after the art of conversation, as the art of letter-writing. A young man who shows a good education and careful training in his letters puts his foot on the first round of the ladder of success. If, in addition to this, he can acquire early in life the power of expressing himself easily and gracefully, he can get what he wants in eight cases out of ten. Very few people indeed can resist a letter well written.

In olden times when there was no Civil Service and Congress made their appointments to West Point at their own sweet will, an applicant's fate was often decided by his letters. There is a short story told of Thaddeus Stevens, a famous statesman of thirty years ago, that he once rejected an applicant for admission to the military school. This applicant met him one day in a corridor of the Capitol and remonstrated violently. "Your favoritism is marked, Mr. Stevens," he said—"you have blasted my career from mere party prejudice."

The legislator retorted, "I would not give an appointment to any ignoramus who spells 'until' with two 'l's' and 'fill' with one." And the disappointed aspirant went home to look into his dictionary.

Such trifles as this make the sum of life. A man's letter is to most educated people an index of the man himself. His card is looked on in the same light in polite society. But a man's letter is more important than his visiting-card, though the character of the latter can not be altogether neglected.

It is better to be too exquisite in your carelessness about your letters than in the slightest degree careless. The art of letter writing comes from knowledge and constant practice.

Your letters, now, ought to be careful work of art. Intelligent—remember I say intelligent—care is the basis of all perfection; and perfection in small things means success in great. In our world the specialist, the man who does at least one thing as well as he can, is sure to succeed; and so overworked are the avenues to success becoming that a man to succeed must be a specialist and know how to do at least one thing better than his fellow-men.

Items of Interest.

Those who feel that they know the Rev. George Angus through his articles, both gossip and learned, in the Tablet, will rejoice with him in the conversion of his brother Colonel William. Mathew Angus who was lately received into the Church by the Benedictines of Fort Augustus. Father Angus himself is one of the priests of the Oxford Movement. Colonel Angus is fifty-two years of age and has been an officer of volunteers since he was eighteen years old. He has large business interests in the North of England, and has been a Freemason of high standing. He was made a Companion of the Bath in 1902. At the same time with Colonel Angus was received Dr. Gordon Watson, a South African physician at present residing in Scotland.—Oskot.

The new volume of Lord Acton's letters, just published, seems to clear his memory of the serious imputation, based upon some words of Mr. Gladstone, that he had co-operated with the latter in the production of their pamphlet on the Vatican Decrees and their bearing on Civil Allegiance. It appears from a letter of Acton to Richard Simpson that the former did everything in his power to prevent the publication of the pamphlet, but found Gladstone " deaf to all political, spiritual, and other obvious arguments against it."—Casket.

"The manner in which the Holy See's attitude toward the French Government has been misrepresented by the secular press throughout the world has been amazing," says the Catholic News. "Apparently the load of the more biased of the French papers has been systematically followed. From the moment that the Temps made its monstrous charge that the Pope had been deliberately misled by Cardinal Merry del Val, as to the decision of the French Bishops on the new law, many American and English papers have carried on a lying campaign against the Church. No style of trickery has been too despicable to blame on the Vatican authorities. The Pope and his advisers have been pictured as stooping to every low kind of unning in order to gain a point for the Church's side. As a matter of fact it is the enemies of the Church in France who have been guilty of reprehensible conduct. Whenever the occasion demanded it they have maliciously slandered the Church. Forgery and robbery and every species of oppression have been tried by them. Everyone who has thought it worth while to study the warfare upon the Church in France could not help but be aware of this. And yet so-called great journalists have gone on repeating day after day the false charges against the Pope manufactured by the French anti-Catholic press."

Says the Catholic Citizen: "So many divorces and marriage failures are due to the man's desertion of the woman, that this cowardly shirking of the duties of life should be strongly reprobated. May all such mean fathers come in for the same notice that greeted Henry Sherkit, of Oswego, N. Y., who ran away from his family a year after his marriage. That was about 1883 and a few months ago taking up a local paper in Chicago, he read in the 'personal' column: 'If Henry Sherkit, who, twenty-three years ago deserted his poor wife and babe, will return home, said babe will be glad to knock the soffit out of him.'"

"The French Radical statesman" says the Catholic Transcript, "like the wolf in the fable, see evil in everything that is done or left undone at Rome. The Black Pope just elected, is a German. He is a subject of the old enemy of the republic and his elevation is a covert blow at the welfare of the nation. The fact is, Father Wernz has been a long-time resident of Rome, where he has been for many years a valued counselor of the Congregations and where his vast knowledge of canon law has been turned to the best account. That he was born in Wurtemberg and no figure in his election. He will have no more to say in fashioning the policy of the Vatican in its dealings with Paris than if he had never been selected as head of the great Jesuit order."

Commenting a week or two ago, on President Roosevelt's warning to the Cubans not to acquire the "habit of insurrection," we said that the Cubans had that habit when they were under Spanish rule but nobody in authority here in the United States warned them against it. Our esteemed contemporary, the Ave Maria, emphasizes still further the point we made, by saying: "Warned them against it! They were encouraged in it. It was the help received through the Cuban Junta in New York that enabled the rebels to hold out against Spain until the United States declared war against her. The leader of the Cuban insurrection declared, in a letter to which the Spanish minister in Washington once referred to, that he would have laid down arms were it not for the aid and sympathy of this country. The history of the Spanish-American war has yet to be written."

Right Rev. Mgr. Canon Mannix, president of Maynooth College, has been appointed a member of the Senate of the Royal University of Ireland, in the room of the late O'Connor Don. The new Senator, who has had a remarkably brilliant ecclesiastical career, is only forty-two years of age.

His Grace the Archbishop of Dublin had an unpleasant experience during a recent holiday. On August 21, in heavy fog, the steamer Amsterdam, among whose passengers was the Archbishop, with his chaplain, Rev. Father Ryan, and Rev. Father Walsh, of Clonliffe, struck on the rocks in the Hook of Holland and was held fast, all efforts to get her off being unsuccessful. There was very little confusion on board, and when a large steamer was signaled and came to the rescue his Grace and other passengers and crew, with their belongings, were taken off without difficulty and safely landed.

In addressing a number of English pilgrims to Ireland, Cardinal Logue, after expressing his sympathy with the fight going on in England in the cause of education, in comparison with which "no other cause was so sacred and so important," said: "Our Irish members have fought this battle, I think, with greater persistence, with greater energy and greater skill in the House of Commons than ever I knew them to fight any battle even for the temporal interests of Ireland."

The Benedictine monks of Buckfast Abbey, Devon, England, have electd Father Ansohar as abbot in the place of Abbot Natter, who was drowned in the wreck of the Sirio in the Bay of Biscay. The new abbot was born in Germany in 1875, and is probably the youngest abbot in the world. He was at one time professor of philosophy at St. Anselm's College, Rome.

During the year 1870 Father Wernz, who has just been elected general of the Jesuits, distinguished himself by devotion and courage in assisting the wounded in the Franco-Prussian War.

Reports are again current in Rome that Archbishop Bourne, of Westminster, will be elevated to the Cardinalate at an early date.

Irish exchanges chronicle the death of Very Rev. James Canon Vaugban, P. P., Kildyart, County Clare, one of the oldest priests of the Diocese of Killaloe.

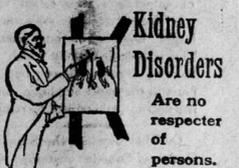

The Rev. Francis Xavier Wernz, the newly-elected Superior-General of the Jesuits, is a native of Wurtemberg, Germany. He is sixty-one years of age, has been for the last twenty-five years a professor in the Gregorian University at Rome, and at the time of his election was rector of that institution. Father Wernz has written several works on canon law and is recognized as an authority in that branch of ecclesiastical learning.

Commenting on the Holy Father's recent blessing to all friends of dumb animals, the Catholic Union and Times say: "All the saints loved God's creatures. St. Francis called wild beasts and they followed him for food; he beckoned the birds of the air and they alighted on his head and shoulders. The holy one of God knew that animals were given us for service, not for suffering, and that God who made them loved them and set us a lesson of kindness towards them."

The statements respecting the comparative honesty of the Chinese and the Japanese, which we published at various times during the war, have received fresh confirmation from the report of the claims agent San Francisco of the Atlas Insurance Company of London. This agent says he found the Chinese so honest that not a single dispute arose over a Chinese claim, but he found the Japanese "utterly unreliable and full of trickery." We do not publish this statement for the sake of depreciating the Japanese as a people, but for an answer to those who are disposed to argue that the rise of Japan proves that a nation can reach its full stature without Christianity.—Casket.

Will Crooks, M. P. for Woolwich, and a member of the Labour Party, appeared recently at what is called in London "a smart function," and was numerically snubbed by the fashionable people present, who liked neither his politics nor the cut of his coat. While he was wandering through the rooms trying to brave it out, the Duke of Norfolk arrived and took in the situation at a glance. Probably the premier peer of England likes the politics of the member for Woolwich as little as any of the other guests, but instead of the traditions of the great public schools where an unpopular student is "sent to Coventry," or sometimes so badly ill-used that he returns home a cripple for life, the Duke of Norfolk remembers the teaching of his great preceptor of the Grotory School, who wrote that it is almost a definition of a gentleman that he is one who does not give pain. So his grace approached Mr. Crooks, greeted him heartily and said: "Have you found your way to the supper room? Come and let us have a cup of coffee." So England's Earl Marshal and the ex-cooper who was born in a work house, spent the rest of the evening together. Mr. Crooks tells the story himself.—Casket.

Discussing this the Providence Visitor says: "Some excuse themselves for not subscribing to their Catholic weekly because it does not measure up to their standard of merit; others declare it is not 'newy' enough, that they have no time to read it; others that they do not need it. If the question were sifted out, however, it would be found that in all cases the reason why such Catholics do not subscribe for a Catholic paper is that they do not care for Catholic reading. They have been weaned away from a deep live of their faith by Godless education or by non Catholic surroundings, or corrupted in their tastes by the sensational accounts of murders and scandals which are served up to them day after day by the secular
