MR. Bowell's STATEMENT.

OTAWA, Sept. 29.—The chief point of interest in the proceedings of the Public Accounts Committee yesterday was a statement made by Mr. Bowell in regard to the Printing Bureau scandals. He stated to the committee that early last April after he had been informed by J. R. Barber, of Georgetown, of the exactions of Senecal and Bronskill, he went to Sir John Macdonald and told him what Mr. Barber had told nim. Mr. Bowell suggested to the late Premier that he, as head of the department, should speak to Mr. Chapleau about it. Later Sir John Macdonald told Mr. Bowell he had spoken to Mr. Chapleau, who had told him he had investigated one of these charges and found there was nothing in it. Mr. Bowell and Sir John had some further conversation about it and Sir John said it would have to be investigated under oath, but his sickness came, Mr. Bowell and ded, and the investigation was not held. Mr. Bowell never spoke to Mr. Chapleau about it. He thought the matter should be fully investigated because, he knew it was a scandal and would be sure to come out some time, but he thought it was the duty of the late Premier, as the head of the Government, to speak to Mr. Chapleau.

THE PUBLIC WORKS SCANDAL.

The THE THE WORKS SCANDAL.

The committee took up the public works scandal, and Fred Hayter, of the auditorgeneral's department, was called. He had been ordered to make an examination of the books of A. C. Larose. The evidence against Talbot was undeniable. As to Dionne, there was a doubt because of the absence of a check for $125, the indorsation of which may implicate him. He could have made the loans to Larose out of money for Government pay lists. Dionne told him, however, that at the time of the lears be had not entirely severed his con.

M'CREEVY EXPELLED. New Election Ordered for the Division Represented by Him.

An Extra Sessional Indemnity of $500 Voted Members of Parliament.

OTTAWA, Sept. 29 .- Sir John Thompson OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—Sir John Thompson said: It becomes my duty to make a motion to the House which naturally follows the adoption of the report of the Privileges and Elections Committee. Naturally one is inclined to heaitate before taking action which involves not only the reputation of a fellow-member but the severe censure of the House with regard to his conduct. At the low-member but the severe censure of the House with regard to his conduct. At the same time I think that the conclusions the committee have come to and which have been adopted by the House, and the conclusions which were come to by the minority committee as well, leave no alternative but to ask the judgment of the House upon the honorable member for Quebec West. It is true that one of the paragraphs of the report of the committee suggests that a prosecution should take place of the persons who were connected with the extensive frauds which were found to have been committed on the Government, but the prosecution should take place of the persons who were connected with the extensive frauds which were found to have been committed on the Government, but the practice of the House and the precedents which exist in regard to it likewise fully justify the judgment of the House and the pronouncement on the part of the House of the severest penalty which can be applied to such a case by the House itself. It is impossible to overlook the fact, likewise, that, irrespective of the offense for which the criminal law might apply a remedy or punishment as regards any one of the persons implicated in these frauds, the member for Quebec West was found guilty of an offense against this House apart from those that fell within the cognizance of the criminal law. Under these circumstances, without further dwelling upon the details off the case which must be thoroughly familiar to the House after the elaborate debate which took place upon it a few days ago, I feel it my duty to move "that Hon. Thomas McGreevy, member for the electoral district of Quebec West, having been guilty of contempt of the authority of this House by failing to obey its order to attend in his place therein, and having been adjudged by this House guilty of certain offenses charged against him on the 11th day of May last, be expelled from

The motion was seconded by Hon. Mr. Foster and unanimously agreed to.

Sir John Thompson then moved that Mr. Speaker do issue his warrant for a new writ for the election of a member for Speaker do issue his warrant for a new writ for the election of a member for Quebec West in the place of Thomas Mc-Greevy, expelled from this House. The motion was agreed to.

was adopted by the House without discussion. The address maintains the right of Canada to legislate in regard to copyright and prays for an imperial law to remove every disability.

Mr. Foster submitted to the House estimates for the payment of $500 additional indemnity to the members. He said the Government had decided to do this for these reasons: The session had been unuaually long, having occupied five months, with very heavy duties; the session has usually long, having occupied five months, with very heavy duties; the session has been at a time of the year when business men and professional men and farmers had to leave their homes at great inconvenience and loss to themselves. It had for these reasons been strongly urged upon the Government by members of both sides of the House that it would be only fair to allow the strongly described in the strongly and the strongly are the strongly and the strongly are strongly described to the strongly are strongly and the strongly are strongly and the strongly are strongly as the strongly are strongly and the strongly are strongly as the strongly as the strongly are strongly as the strongly are strongly as the strongly are strongly as the strongly as the strongly are strongly as the strongly are strongly as the strongly as the strongly are strongly as the strongly as the strongly are strongly as the strongly as compensation for the loss which members had sustained by their absence from home at this time, but it was a compensation for the increased personal expenses of living away from home during the five months of the session. Mr. Foster invited an expression of opinion by the leader of the Opposition and by Sir Richard Cartwright.

Mr. Laurier said he was prepared to prove and index. The murderers who committed the daring act of piracy at Huadinong were defeated by the civic guard in two engagements. Within 36 hours 47 pirates wore killed. The band was beaten back to the mountains where they are blockaded now, and at the mercy of the authorities.

Near Swartow a boat containing six persons was attacked by pirates, who stole $4,000 in money.

and by Sir Richard Cartwright.

Mr. Laurier said he was prepared to approve and indorse what Mr. Foster had said. He was sure the public would realize that the members of the House with very few exceptions are men who depend upon their labor for their living and have no capital except that which their labor brings them. Under these circumstances it was impossible to do the duties of a session which lasted as this had for five months without serious loss to them. This increase, he said, was not to be a permanent increase. This was justified by the unusual length of This was justified by the unusual length of the session, and it was to be remembered that taken with the general election through which members had passed, it meant the absolute cossation of their business for six months this year.

Sir Richard Cartwright said the expressions which the Minister of Finance had made would be approved on both sides of this House, whether they may be outside ness for six months this year.

Mr. Mulock regretted that the members of the House were to vote money to them-selves. He told Mr. Foster that the Gov-ernment should feel the responsibility of the inconvenience of the season at which this session had been held.

Dr. Ferguson-Pull down your vest and sit down.

and a session such as this fell with especial severity upon them. He believed there should be legislation that would provide for exceptional sessions, and he hoped the Government would introduce at the next ession a measure which would not effect the members of this Parliament who would make such a provision. The House had a rule that no member should vote for money in which he was interested, and that rule would debar every member from voting for this additional indemnity.

Mr. McMullen said he was sorry the condition of affairs necessitated Parliament sitting for five months. He hoped the members would not again be called upon to vote an additional indemnity, but that a statute would be brought forward next session by the Government. He sympathized with what the member for North York said. He realized that when the session stretched out to five months the $1,000 indemnity would be required to pay for the incidental expenses of living here Speaking of the expense of Parliament, he said it would be well to reduce the number of representatives by one-half. (Hear, hear, and laughter.) He found that Australia paid its legislators £500 a year, that New York paid its State representatives $1,500 and traveling expenses, and United States Congressmen and Senators received $5,000. He hoped the House would not be again called upon to sit a whole summer to investigate such things as had kept them here, and that they would never again unearth such infirmities in the administration of the affairs of the country.

Mr. Mills (Bothwell) said he believed the proposition was reasonable and in the public interest. He would make no apology for supporting what he believed to be proper. (Hear, hear.) He said he had no right to represent a constituency if he was not as ready to defend his own rights as those of his constituency. It was necessary in a country like this, where millionaires were not sitting in Farliament, but men who must follow some avocation for a livelihood, that there should be a reasonable indemnity. He advocated a per diem allowance for the days a session lasted longer than 90 days.
