AT THE CAPITAL.

The Tarde Committee Again at Work.

Some Startling Evidence Given by Owen Murphy.

(Special to the ADVERTISER.)
OTTAWA, June 19.—At the Railway Committee this morning Mr. Bowman's bill respecting the Berlin and C. P. R. Junction Company passed.

The Tarde committee reassembled and received some very startling evidence from Owen Murphy. He described once more the going down into McGreevy's lower office "through a trap door" and making five notes of $5,000 each for Thomas McGreevy. The contracts for the cross wall were made in this same office. The letter withdrawing Gallagher's tender was a confirmed forgery, he thought. It was written by Michael Connelly. In connection with the supplementary tender for the Lewis graving dock, he said that it was agreed between himself and Hon. Thomas McGreevy that they should put in a tender for the job at $74,000, and Mr. McGreevy was to have all over $50,000. A dispute subsequently arose over a trifle of $2,000, and Mr. McGreevy finally accepted $22,000 for his share. In 1887 he was asked to go to Thomas McGreevy's house, where McGreevy stated to him that he wanted to raise $25,000 for election purposes. He proposed to do this by giving Murphy's firm $90,000 yards of dredging in river basins at increased prices, viz., 25 cents. He put in the agreement of the firm to this proposal in Michael Connelly's handwriting which has already been published widely. The elections referred to were Dominion elections in 1887. The above document was taken up to Thomas McGreevy's house by himself and Robert McGreevy and given to Thomas McGreevy, when he declared it satisfactory.

"FILLED UP WITH WHISKY."
Fierce Fight Between Sailors at Amherstburg—Several Men Seriously Injured.

AMHERSTBURG, Ont., June 20.—The lumber barge Jane Cook, with nine men aboard, tied up here Thursday, and nearly all hands came ashore. They filled the whisky and did not return on board until night. Two of the men were put on shore bleeding from holes in their legs and arms. Only three men were uninjured. Capt. Dupont's and Peter Ruppelle's wounds were serious. The injured men sent a couple of doctors, who made them out of the hospital. They made sail and crossed to Hickory Island on the United States side so as to avoid arrests by the Canadian authorities.

"Fritz's" Funeral.
ALBANY, June 19.—As the sun sank out of sight behind the rain clouds Wednesday afternoon the curtain fell upon the life in the life drama of Joseph K. Emmet, known so long to the public by the simple title of "Fritz." The last scene was in the little mortuary chapel of the rural cemetery located at the foot of the very ridge on which the actor placed his fantastic villa residence. It was but a small funeral cortege that followed the dead comedian to his tomb in which were taken his son, Joseph K. Emmet, jun., Miss Helen Sedgwick, Dr. Geo. W. Cox and ex-Senator Hamilton Harris, his legal adviser. The floral pieces were numerous.

A Means of Recognition.
Recent news unexpectedly met his old friend, Sir Henry Bishop, had having the most forgotten his name, after puzzling and stammering for some time he at length took him by the hand and sang a few lines to prove he identified him through Bishop's beautiful song, "Blow, Gentle Gales." Ladies who have been fortunate enough to make Diana's friends their servants know too well ever to forget the name. The name is so firmly engrained on the memory, and the results so well known, that it is impossible to forget it. From this point on some other brands of soap have come before a discerning public for recognition, but to-day their names are forgotten. A few are imitations of the well-known Diamond are still trying to maintain an existence, but their names and reputation are almost unknown. Diamond soaps are known from ocean to ocean, and their success has been unprecedented. They are true friends to sailors and workers and never deceive the Indian. In this way they have been elevated to a position in public favor never attained by any other article of household use.

London Gossip.

Lady Brooks Furnishes Food for Scandal.

Openly Accused of Causing Cunningham's Ruin.

Her Name Unfavorably Coupled With That of the Heir-Apparent.

Her Career as a "Plunger" and Leader of "Fast Sets."

LONDON, June 19.—A week did not close without the gossip-mongers having the best of it. For several days rumors have been about the Princes of Wales and Lady Brooks in connection with the baggy scandal, and that the Prince and the Princess had already been taken against the Prince and herself. Sir William Gordon Cumming's friends accuse her openly of having been the cause of his ruin. The relations between the Prince and Lady Brooks have been the topic of social gossip on several occasions. As yet nobody has openly accused the pair of any undue intimacy, but it has been repeatedly hinted that if Lord Brooke were not so busy going on his long expeditions he would long ago have put a stop to the repeated interviews between his wife and this fair lady.

A few years ago rumor had it that Lady Brooks had become smitten with the handsome Guardsman, but that Sir William Gordon Cumming, being aware of the close relations between the Prince and the lady in question, met her advances coldly. Lady Brooks has always been known among her friends and at court as an old maid.

She is considered a woman who will never rest until she has brought ruin upon any person she hates. Her past has been such as to give color to the most unfavorable comments made on her character. Her London life was not so uninteresting as it is generally supposed to be. Lord Brooke has always been an insignificant man, who has no other merit except that of having been a colleague of the late Prince Leopold, Duke of Albany.

Lady Brooks before her marriage was Miss Jessie, the daughter of Maynard, an enormous fortune, of which only the smaller part went to his widow, who soon after her death became the wife of the Earl of Warwick, of Warwick Castle. He is undoubtedly the poorest peer in the United Kingdom, and consequently when Lady Brooks married she was a very rich woman. It did not take long to spend her money in the most dissipated manner. A few years after their marriage rumors became about a certain imminent opportunity of which the names of several prominent statesmen, officers, etc., were connected with that of one of the wealthiest and most beautiful ladies of the English aristocracy. It did not take long to see these rumors assumed greater consistency, and it became an open secret that Lady Brooks's reputation was at stake. No less than Lord Brooke is the name which was mentioned, as usual, the gay Prince, the Duke of Marlborough, and even Lord Randolph Churchill. The affair was hushed up, and the matter was buried in the oblivion of the past.

Another interesting fact is that Lady Brooks was an intimate friend of Lady Colin Campbell, who has since died. The facts of the circle of her intimate acquaintances and the unwhimsical of her lord and master have certainly much to do with the story of her life.

Ever since this beautiful and in some ways talented woman became prominent in society she has been the public leader of a "fast set," and has made the name of "Fritz" a byword in London. Some years ago she spent the season at Monte Carlo, and there, too, she was said to have lost a large amount of her father's wealth. It is not likely that her "fast life" was so profitable. She is said to have never been known, but it was hinted that the old Earl of Warwick objected to having his name connected with her.

Apart from this, Lord Brooke's next brother, Capt. Fulkie Greville, was acting as bearer to the Prince of Wales' eldest son, Prince Albert Edward, on his recent visit to Canada. The name of Fulkie Greville was brought to bear upon the heir of Warwick Castle from that quarter. Further, more, Lady Brooks's stepfather, the Earl of Roslyn, was captain of the Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms, and he is one of the most conspicuous figures of London society. An excellent sportsman and an excellent rider, he has the highest opinion of himself. He is, however, not popular, and is often sneered at. His sister is married to Count Munster, the German ambassador to Paris. Lord Brooke was in his seat at the House of Commons Tuesday night for the first time in months. His presence was commented upon in view of the prominence of his name in late current gossip. Simultaneously with his lordship's reappearance in public life comes the announcement that his wife, Lady Brooks, is indisposed and will abandon all her engagements for the near future. People who believe that Lord Brooke is at last to bring suit for divorce, naming the Prince of Wales as co-defendant, are pondering over these developments, and are curious to see if they reflect any probability of the rumor of divorce proceedings.

BLOODY WORK IN HAYTI.

A Reign of Terror Prevails at Port-au-Prince.

Men Massacred by the Scores—A Protest from the British and German Consuls.

NEW YORK, June 19.—A letter from Port-au-Prince dated June 8 says there was at that time a reign of terror there which had been lasting for nearly a fortnight. Men were being executed every day by the score in the squares and streets of the city, and nobody knew when the massacres would end. On May 30 Hippolyte's soldiers entered by force the Mexican consulate and dragged out of the house Gen. Soutil, Mr. Rossier Legier Casvin, recently Minister of Justice under Hippolyte, and Casvin's brother. These men were shot under the cathedral walls.

The diplomatic corps demanded an audience of the President. Mr. Tweedy, acting consul for the British Government, demanded an explanation, and wanted to know what security the other consular houses had. The President lost his temper, and said: "It is this country that has no security of this kind." Saying this, Hippolyte turned his back and bounced out of the room. Finally the President was induced to receive the French consul. The French consul accepted it. The German consul said he would certainly refuse to give credence to his Government. The English consul supported his German ally. The consuls then retired.

The real leaders of the insurrection have not been captured. Only the rank and file have been made prisoners and ruthlessly shot.

Disastrous Storms in Various Districts of Country.

Nebraska Experiences the Heaviest Storm in Twenty-Eight Years—A Number of Lives Lost—Terrific Effects of Cloud-Bursts.

TIDEWATER.
TIDEWATER, Neb., June 19.—Three children living in Emick township were drowned during the storm which tried to reach the house from about yesterday.

Additional particulars of the terrible catastrophe which occurred near the mining city of Colorado, Mexico, are to the effect that the cloudburst occurred in Concepcion Mountain and a great steam pointed down the mountain side, sweeping everything in its course. The habitations occupied by the miners were swept away, and the town of Guadalupe mine filled with water, drowning several men who were working inside. A number of people living in cliff dwellings were buried alive.

NEBRASKA.
NEBRASKA, Neb., June 19.—The heaviest rainfall experienced within 28 years in Nebraska fell here yesterday. John Lor. Laucres and El Petrel, on one side of the mountain, and Los Catorce, on the other, fifteen dead bodies have been recovered. Hundreds of animals were drowned.

AN AWFUL DEED.

Blenheim Startled by a Terrible Tragedy.

Mrs. David Clarke Drowns Her Two Children and Herself.

BLENHEIM, Ont., June 19.—A shocking tragedy occurred this afternoon at Rouseau Railway dock. The bodies of Mrs. David Clarke and her two children, a little boy and girl, both under 4 years of age, were found alongside of the dock in about three feet of water. The eldest son, 12 years of age, had left his mother with the children about half an hour before the bodies were found, his mother having sent him to deliver a parcel to his aunt, who lived near by, evidently with the object of getting him out of the way.

The bodies were found close together, the youngest child being in its mother's arms. The following words were written on a piece of the dock:

Do not blame Garney, I did it.
(Signed) MAGGIE.
Garney was the oldest boy's name. Mrs. Clarke's husband left her last fall with five children. This is supposed to have caused her to commit the rash deed.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

The Government Side—Tracks the Opposition Leader,

And Gives Him No Opportunity to Inquire About His Policy.

OTTAWA, June 19.—Mr. Davin introduced a bill to amend the Railway Act. It contained a clause applying what the member for Assiniboia described as an omission from the Railway Act of last year, the result of an excision made by the Senate, a provision prescribing precautions to be taken against prairie fires. It proposed to compel railway companies to make a fire guard six feet wide within 100 feet of their line wherever it passed through uncultivated ground. Another clause related to the provision of automatic air brakes, and another provided for the building of fences on each side of the line in settled districts. The bill was read the first time.

On motion of Sir Hector Langavie the House agreed that Government orders have precedence on Thursdays for the remainder of the session.

In Committee of the Whole a resolution was passed declaring it to be expedient to amend the Inland Revenue Act and to provide that the person in whose name a license is granted to act as a compounder shall upon receiving such license pay to the collector of inland revenue the sum of $150.

Sir John Thompson moved the second reading of the bill sent down from the Senate respecting the settlement of accounts between the Dominion of Canada and the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and between the Provinces themselves. The number of arbitrators of judicial rank, three in number, one from each Province and one from the Dominion. The second reading was passed.

Mr. Tupper's bill to amend the act respecting the Niagara Grand Island Bridge Company, and to incorporate the Vanover Dock and Shipbuilding Company, respecting the Central Counties Railway Company, respecting the Grand Trunk Railway Company, to incorporate the Vancouver Dock and Shipbuilding Company; to enable the Victoria and North American Railway Company to run a ferry between Bechar Bay in British Columbia and a point on the Straits of Fuca in the United States; to incorporate the Burrard Inlet and Westminster Valley Railway Company.

A bill from the Senate introduced by Sir John Thompson for the settlement of certain questions between the Governments of Canada and Ontario respecting Indian lands was read the second time and passed through committee. The bill embodied the agreement arrived at, which agreement was read by the chairman. The third reading of the measure was agreed to. Several other bills were advanced a stage and given a second reading.

The House next went into committee to consider a resolution declaring it to be expedient that an annual grant of $100,000 be made to aid in the development of the seal fisheries and the encouragement of the seal industry and the improvement of the condition of sealmen. The resolution was agreed to and reported.

Just as the House was on the point of rising Mr. Laurier complained that no opportunity had been given him of discussing the policy of the Government. He understood that the Minister of Finance would have given him facility for bringing forward that question of which he gave notice on the previous day, and as he had not done so he would ask for that opportunity on Tuesday.

Mr. Foster replied that as the honorable gentleman had not given him notice of the amendment he intended to move in connection with it. On Tuesday next he intended going on with the budget speech. Sir John Thompson interjected that the honorable gentleman never said this question.

Mr. Laurier—When the Minister of Public Works stated to the House that the Government intended to pursue the policy of Sir John Thompson, that he had already made his departure from it, and his only endeavor to slow that to-morrow.

Sir John Thompson—But he never gave any indication that he was to bring forward a motion.

Mr. Laurier—I thought that it was

Most Talked Too Much.
NEW YORK, June 19.—Herck Mose, the Anarchist, was to-day sentenced to one year in the penitentiary for delivering an incendiary speech.

Verdict of Suicide.
Nothing of importance was brought out at the inquest before Coroner Smith Tuesday night on the death of Augustus Freudenthal, who hanged himself on Talbot street Tuesday morning. The widow of deceased testified that her husband was a doctor in San Francisco, but had not practiced medicine since coming here. He was in Canada only to look after a farm near St. Marys left to her by her father, and which her mother was trying to take from her, but which had been decided by the courts a week ago as witness' property. The lawsuit over this matter was all that troubled the suicide's mind to the end of his life. Verdict that deceased came to his death by his own hand was brought in.

A Pastor and His Vacancy.
A well-known pastor of an evangelical church not one hundred miles from Montreal for years has had the privilege of taking a summer vacation. Last summer as vacation time was coming on he found that owing to overwork in connection with his fast increasing congregation, and a too close application to study, his nerves had become weak and unsteady; his head trembled somewhat, and his bodily strength had failed. Owing to these troubles his rest at night was not as usual, and refreshing as it once was.

Heard of "Paine's Compound" through one of his church elders he commenced its use, and by the time his vacation term came off in every way he visited the home of his boyhood in the West, and thoroughly enjoyed with his family his vacation of a month.

Paine's Celery Compound should be used by all at this season when they feel out of sorts; it tones up and revives the weak and languid, and gives to the ailing one a vim, energy and freshness of life that nothing else can give.

We would recommend its use to all ministers and pastors in Canada, especially when they are overworked and study too much.
