British Occupation of Egypt. ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 31.—The question as to how far Egyptian occupation of the Soudan shall penetrate for the present, the Soudan shall penetrate for the present, has been settled by the British commis-sioner, Sir Gerald Portal. Sir Gerald will cause to be abandoned the two furthest floru forts and organize garrisons near Egypt. Sir Charles Closes.

PARIS, May 31.—Sir Charles Russell con-cluded his argument in behalf of the British case before the Bering Sea tribunal of arbitration. He said this was the first occasion upon which a nation had claimed property in a free, swimming animal. The property in a free, swimming animal. The contention was autenable and its advancement was derogatory.

The Queen at Balmoral.

London, May 31 .- The Queen has been occupied since her arrival at Balmoral in visiting tenants and cottagers on the estate and in driving about the domain. The and in driving about the domain. The dry, warm weather has brought on the flowers and trees so much that everything on Deeside is at least a month more forward than usual. The roads are very dinsty, and her Majesty has confined her excursions to the private drives, and the Danzig Shiel chalot in the rocesses of Ballochbuic Forest has several times been visited for afternoon tea. The red deer in the royal forests are very numerous and in splendid condition this season, and there are large berds of roe deer in the Birkhall and Abergeldie woods. Canadian Cattle Are Not Wanted at Glasgow.

GLASGOW, May 31.—The Glasgow importers of Canadian cattle have sent word by cable to the exporters to stop shipping, by cable to the exporters to stop suppus, as the delays owing to the requirement by the Board of Agriculture that the cattle shall be slaughtered upon arrival are ruinous to the trade.

Three vessels loaded with cattle are now waiting for the disposal of their cargoes; that no evidence of disease in the cattle has been developed, the shippers have again requested the Board of Agriculture to raise the existing embargo. The board has refused to grant the request.

LONDON, May 31 .- The Princess Victori Mary, to give her baptismal name, likes to be known by what the French call her non be known by what the French call her nom de caresse of "May," the title by which she is always addressed by her family, and by which she has always been spoken of by the public. It appears, however, that the Queen does not like this shortening of her name, and it is possible, also, that she desires her own name shall not disappear from the intimate connection it has for considerably more than half a century enjoyed with the British throne. As soon, therefore, as the young princess is married, she fore, as the young princess is married, she will, in accordance with the Queen's desire, be known as Princess Victoria, Duchess of Progress of the Home Rule Bill. LONDON, May 31 .- General Goldsworthy LONDON, May 31.—General Goldsworthy, Conservative, moved as an-amendment to the Irish Home Rule Bill to abolish the office of viceroy for Ireland and to substitute a secretary of state in place of that official. Gen. Goldsworthy said he hoped to see members of the British royal family residing in Ireland, and was sure they would speedily win the affections of the Irish people.

The Belgian Queen.

LONDON, May 31.—The Queen of the Belgians is probably one of the fluest harpists now living. A few days ago on the occasion of her lady-in-waiting, Countess Marie De Limburg Stirum, becoming tess Marie De Limburg Stirum, becoming a nun, she acted as sponsor, and, after presenting the postulant at the altar, played a solo on the harp to the great delight of the sisters of the Holy Heart, who througed the convent chapel. Queen Marie Henrictta is to receive the Golden Rose as soon as Leo XIII's special emissary arrives at Brusseis. The marble hall of the palace has been converted into an oratory, but very few persons outside of the Ministers and the royal household are to witness the ceremony. Her predecessors during the present Positificate are the Empress of Austria, the Queen of Spain, the Queen of Portugal and the Countess D'Eu of Brazili all of them curfically enough, press of Austria, the Queen of Spain, the Queen of Portugal and the Countess D'Eu of Brazil; all of them, curiously enough, being connected with her either by blood or marriage. The only English queens who have been objects of this honor were Queen Mary and the Consert of Charles I; but Henry VIII. enjoyed the unique distinction of receiving the Rose of Virtue three times, once from Julius II., once from Leo X. and once from Clement VII. Innocent VIII. sent it to James III. of Scotland.

The Duke's House.

London, May 31.—The interior of the Duke of York's house has been entirely London, May 31.—The interior of the Duke of York's house has been entirely reconstructed since the death of the Duchess of Cambridge, who lived in it 38 years. On the ground floor is a suite of apartments looking out upon Cleveland Row, consisting of a dining-room, library and smoking-room. The dining-room is the most comfortable, and has a decidedly old-fashioned appearance. The fireplace is in a sort of alcove, with two recesses at either side of it. There is a high white wooden dado, with primrose paper. The smoking-room is in dark green. Above are two fine drawing-rooms connected by folding doors. The walls are divided in panels, which are filled with crimson silk on one side, and on the other with gold and crimson silk bracade. This room contains some rare French furniture, which belongs to the crown, and is lighted by electrolier of cut glass richly gilded, as well as by several brackets on the walls. The smaller drawing-room, which in the Duchess of Cambridge's time was known as the Chinaroom, is paneled with green silk brocade, and at one end there is a fine piece of tapestry. The boundor has blue paper and hand-painted panels, with mirrors between each of the three windows. The draw-back to this house is that all the rooms hand-painted panels, with mirrors between each of the three windows. The draw-back to this house is that all the rooms look out on Cleveland Row, a dreary street, and not a ray of sunlight ever penetrates to the windows. The principal bedroom, which adjoins the boudeir, is furnished and decorated in white and blue.

The Royal Wedding. London, May 31 .- The Chapel Royal in St. James' Palace has been closed in order to be prepared for the royal wedding. The to be prepared for the royal wedding. The interior will be entirely dismantled, and the arrangements are to be, as much as possible, the same as they were when the Empress Frederick was married. It is probable that the Princess of Wales and her daughters will occupy the royal gallery during the ceremony. The floor of the chapel is to be entirely covered with crimson carpet, and the altar is to be draped with crimson voivet, above which the magnificent gold communion plate is to be placed. All the pews will be removed and the chapel filled with scats covered with scarlet cloth. The pillars are to be painted blue and ornawith seats covered with searlet cloth. The pillars are to be painted blue and ornamented with gold shields. The state chair will be placed close to the altar for the Queen, and her Majesty will be surrounded by the royal family and royal guests from abroad. It is hoped there will be room for about 450 persons in the chapel. A paragraph is going the round of the papers which states that at the royal wedding the daughters of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, the sisters of the bridgegroom, and Princess Victoria of Schieswig-Holstein will be among the bridesmaids. This is entirely wrong. The eight bridesmaids will all be daughters of peers.

CHARADE WINS THE METROPOLITAN HANDI

NEW YORK, May 31.—The meeting of the New York Jockey Club was inaugurated at Morris Park in a blaze of glory, and at least 20,000 persons were present when the event of the day, the Metropolitan handicap, was contested for. This race, which comes next in importance to the Brooklyn handicap and the Suburban, resulted in a hollow victory for W. R. Jones' Charade, who won by six lengths. A man named Harris, a sewing machine agent, went into the Tecumseh House barber shop on Sunday to get a shave. A commercial traveler was in the chair. This traveler owned a little dog. The animal fawned on Mr. Harris. He, however, had his Sunday clothes on and did not reciprocate the kindness. Indeed, it was said, he hurt the animal's feelings, and in doing so he hurt those of the traveler also. Angry words ensued, in which the barber, George Burrows, sided with the traveler. Shortly afterwards the call "Next" was heard, and Mr. Harris stepped forward.

"Have you an order?" said the barber.
"An order for what?" asked Harris.
"Why, to get shaved, of course. You have to get one from the clerk before I can shave you."

KEEP UP WITH THE TIMES And Put in Electric Conveniences-Where to Get Them-A "Felt Want" Filled.

Felt Want" Filled.

Electricity can do everything from starting the World's Fair to ringing a door bell. In the near future the business establishment that will not use it in some form will be as much behind the times as a tallow candle is to an electric light. In the household, too, it must also become an absolute necessity; it is the acme of modern convenience. As its adoption is now beabsolute necessity; it is the acme of modern and absolute necessity; it is the acme of modern convenience. As its adoption is now becoming so general, naturally the services of electrical experts will be in demand. It was this that induced Mr. W. H. Baker, the popular electrician of the Bell Telephone Company here, to sever an eleven years' connection with that institution and to embark in business for himself in this city. He has opened out at 214 Dundas street, over Edy Broa', with a full supply of everything in the electric line, and is already making contracts in the city and vicinity. Thave orders to equip a large number of stores, factories and private houses with electric bells," said Mr. Baker to a reporter who called on him the other day. They are much more convenient than any other kind because you can place the bell wherever you wish it to ring. They are chosen neat, and the batteries seldom require cover you wish it to ring. They are chosen the automatic bells entirely. I am also putting in burglar alarms, hotel annunciators, etc.; have a thorough stock of electric supplies and make a specialty of repairing."

Mr. Baker will also handle telenhouse

He is the sole agent for the American watchmen's time detector—a wonderful ina firm that a watchman is doing his duty, as it requires him to register at specified times during the night. If he is remiss the detector records it. Mr. Baker has already received instructions to equip several factories with the system.

Mr. Baker is well and favorably known in London, where he has resided all his life. As an electrician he has few equals; he is competent in all branches of the work. Those who want private telephones, electric bells, burglar and fire alarms, hotel annunciators or anything in that line, or those who wish repairing done will do well to call on him at 214 Dundaz street or ring up telephone No. 1. His residence is at 454 Oxford street and residence telephone No. 246. All orders are promptly attended to. Mr. Baker will also attend to work in outside towns, and with his ability and the widening field of usefulness upon which he has entered, he will doubtless succeed admirably. electric bells, burglar and fire alarms, hotel
