A REMARKABLE STATEMENT

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill.—"While going through the change of life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the insane hospital."—Mrs. E. Sheldon, 5607 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, but with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

DALHOUSIE.

Dalhousie, Oct. 22.—The teachers of Restigouche Co. attending the Institute, which met in the Superior School here on the 18th and 19th took up the question of "Salary." Finding that their present salaries were entirely insufficient to afford even a moderately fair living, in consequence of the increased cost of living and other causes they took steps to place their grievance before the proper authorities in line with the other Institutes in the Province.

The following resolution: That a committee of this Institute be appointed to co-operate with committees of other Institutes in an endeavor to secure an increase allowance from the Provincial Government.

HEROIC ACT OF J. NORTON GRIFFITHS

How Courtesy Bay Work Contractor Destroyed Romanian Oil Wells Under Noises of German Troops.

(London Chronicle)

A dramatic story of how the Romanian oil-wells were destroyed was related yesterday by Watson Rutherford, M. P., at the meeting of the Romanian Consolidated Oilfields, Ltd. He also made the welcome disclosure that despite the feverish exertions of German engineers, the enemy had not yet found a means for the outlet and exportation of the oil.

The Romanian outlook for centuries to come was one of the most assured, said Mr. Rutherford. The destruction of the petroleum works was so complete that, in spite of the feverish exertions of the German engineers, little petroleum had been taken out, and that could not be successfully used until means were found for refining and storing it.

Only 50,000 Russians—and those a month late—came to the aid of the Romanians instead of the promised 200,000; this was due to the bureaucratic corruption of the Russian government at that date.

Sir J. Norton Griffiths' mission to destroy the oilfields was an inspiration of intelligence. Hundreds of thousands of tons worth millions of the enemy, were destroyed under the very noses of the German troops and within a few hours of their patrols—in more than one case, within a few minutes.

The means of getting the petroleum and using it were also destroyed. The wells were smashed up beyond hope of being worked. Derricks and refineries were burnt and blown up, machinery was smashed to atoms, pipe lines were cut, tanks exploded and buildings knocked down. Their claim against the British government amounted to £1,370,724.

Mr. Rutherford's description of the destruction was supplemented by a report which stated that the Romanian official plan of destruction would not have prevented the Germans from reopening the wells, and Colonel Norton Griffiths complained that he was getting no practical help from the authorities.

Risk to Volunteers.

The risk to volunteers to wreck the wells being shot if not in uniform, should the enemy capture them, caused Colonel Norton Griffiths to give temporary commissions in the British army to three of the company's officials.

There had since been decorated, Captain Masterman with the D. S. O., and Lieutenants Hayward and Simpson with the M. C.

When 40,000 tons of oil were burned at Moreni the conflagration "formed a black pall overhead, and it was almost as dark as night, the only light being a lurid glow from the burning oil through the fog of smoke." The wells had also caught fire and the whole field was blazing.

At the Astrak works the party were continued that the power house was full of gas, and might explode at any moment. Col. Norton Griffiths would not hear the word "danger," and took a lighted fuse of lay, entered the building, and set fire to the oil, which had been pumped into the basement.

The gas at that time was so strong as to asphyxiate anyone after a few minutes.

It was a miracle that no one was killed. Col. Norton Griffiths was only slightly burned. Included amongst the tanks fired was the largest one in Europe. It collapsed quietly.

He: "The artists whose paintings show that angels are all women certainly didn't know women."

She: "That is perhaps true. It may be that they only knew men."

And, madam, you should just smell the fragrance of crushed coffee after it is brewed. And the flavor of it! Well, you never tasted ground coffee with a flavor just like Red Rose.

Coffee critics, those who have travelled far and wide and tasted coffee in various climes, tell us they have never started more delicious coffee. Some have even said—but we will refrain from printing such high praise. We prefer you to try Red Rose Crushed Coffee without revealing anything further as to its quality. We don't want to take all the edge off the surprise in store for you when you try it. And the same price it was three years ago.

News has just been received by Mrs. Mitchell, of the death of her brother, killed in action in the fighting east of Ypres on Sept. 20th, in which the South African contingent was engaged.

As a volunteer in "Strathcona's Horse" Mr. Grant went through the latter part of the Boer war, coming out of the several actions, in which he took part, unscathed.

When the present war broke out, he offered his services to the South African Govt., and fought in the successful operations against the Germans there. Last November he went to England as one of the S. A. contingent, and since January of this year, had been in active service on the western front.

Deep sympathy is extended to relatives of the deceased.
