SELL SOUVENIRS FOR RED CROSS WORK

The Women's Institute has purchased a thousand flags, (a souvenir stick pin) representing the Allies, and are starting the sale of same at once through some of the school girls at 10c each. Proceeds for "Red Cross Work". We know that everyone who sees these souvenirs will want one for themselves and friends, and will be ready and willing to give 10c to help along with the good work. The work has been held back for lack of funds, and we feel sure that everyone who realizes what the boys are doing in helping to keep the boys at the front warm and comfortable, will only be too ready and willing to assist.

The workers who have any articles ready, will kindly send in same, as soon as possible, as a shipment must be made soon.

The Red Cross Committee wish to call your attention to the "Bean Contest" at McDonalds Drug Store. The two beautiful prizes are shown in this window, costing the lucky winner only 10 or 25 cents. Take a guess.

SMART BLOUSE IS OF FIT-FORM KIND

Tailored Waists, Basques and Bodices All Fashionable This Year

One of the most important accessories of a woman's wardrobe is the separate blouse. The vogue of wearing a waist and skirt came in many years ago, but it proved such a sensible, comfortable fashion that women refused to give it up, and it has defied time and the changes of fickle fashion, remaining popular through many seasons.

Every year, however, there are a few changes in the smart blouse. This year waists are not as blousy as they were last year, but tend toward more fitted forms which give a slight curve at the waist line. Instead of blouses we have tailored waists, basques and bodices, and—let me whisper it—front and back seams and darts. The long waist which hangs semi-fitted from the shoulder and is joined to the skirt at the hip line is a favorite waist. If loose effects are worn they are not as exaggerated as last year. Close fitting kimono or set-in sleeves are so long they nearly conceal the hand giving a singular look to the waist.

As yet waists are not boned, but it is not unusual to use silk lining to give that wrinkly look. Buttons! Buttons! What wrist does not boast of buttons? Silk or velvet buttons, oval or square-shaped galalith buttons, jet, two-toned glass and jeweled buttons are used considerably. The styles of 1870 are the keynote for the dresses buttoning down the front. One dress seen recently had the buttons in the back extending the entire length of the waist and tunic.

STATION AT LEVIS A MASS OF FLAMES

Intercolonial Buildings in Flames Beyond Control of Firemen.—Probable Total Loss

Levis, Que., Nov. 24.—Fire breaking out shortly before noon today in the rear of the Intercolonial, Grand Trunk and Quebec Central station in this city, got beyond the control of the local fire-fighters, and soon attacked the station. At twelve thirty the station is a mass of flames, and its doom is inevitable.

LETTERS FROM THE FRONT

Mrs. Steven Ferguson has received the following letter from her son Byron Ferguson with the Canadian Contingent in England.

Salisbury Plains, Nov. 4th, 1914.

Dear Mother:—

I have found time to drop you a few lines, how are you getting along, hope you are well.

I saw the King and Queen today. This time he looked us over when we were on the move. I was riding on the flank of the Battery, so got a good look at him. He is a small man, and the Queen is tall. Lord Kitchener was there too. He said to the Brigade Commander, "Those boys will give a good account of themselves." Its a proud boy I am today that I am a Canadian. You should have seen the 12th Battalion, (that's the infantry from N. B.) march by to the tune of the "Boys of the old Brigade", one of our camp songs.

They just marched like a machine, every man in step. They marched in battalion formation, two lines, each line six feet apart. The line was almost a quarter of a mile wide. The line just looked like a huge rope stretched across the field, so perfect was their marching. Heavens mother! I was proud of those boys. All I want to see is them up against just twice their number of Pot-Gutted Germans. They will make mince meat of them. Next came the Canadian Rough Riders. They rode past the stand at a gallop, n just as perfect a line as the infantry. Then came the Artillery, (that's what I'm in). We formed close intervals, just the same as we do when we go into action, and rode past at a hard trot. It was sure "some review". I do wish you could see it, mother. You would be blessed the day you were born a Canadian. One more short month, then look out Germany, Johnny Cannuck is coming. That is if we are not sent to Egypt to fight the Turks. Then its "goodbye Turkey." Of course, we know that some of us won't come back. But for every Canadian boy who goes down, there will be three or more of the enemy.

Give my best regards to every one, and mother don't worry about me. If I should "turn up my toes" it will be in a good cause. But let us hope for the best. All I want is to get out of them for their awful outrages. Even women and children are not safe. There haven't set every Canadian's blood boiling for nothing. Now, I must ring off. Love to all and mother don't worry about me.

Your loving son, BYRON
