

HELPLESS FOR MONTHS

AN ATTACK OF LA GRIFFE FOLLOWED BY PARTIAL PARALYSIS.

Such Was the Experience of Frank Menger of Ferguson—The Details of His Recovery Related.

From The Pergus News-Record.

The many friends of Mr. Frank Menger, son of Mr. George Menger of the Dominion Hotel, know that for over six months he was all but helpless from an attack of paralysis and that he has again recovered the entire use of the parts affected. Mr. Menger was questioned by a reporter of The News-Record regarding his recovery, and while not anxious for notoriety, candidly admitted that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was the first medicine due to start him on the road to recovery. "Three years ago," said Mr. Menger, "I was a telegraph operator at St. Joseph's in Waterloo County. I was taken down with an attack of la grippe and became so enfeebled that I was forced to quit work and return to my home, at that time in Alma. I was then stricken with partial paralysis and was unable to move my limbs. I remained in this trying condition for over six weeks, and was well-nigh giving up in despair, when my father brought home Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I began taking, and soon felt an improvement. I continued the use of Pink Pills until I had taken 20 boxes, and daily found strength and energy returning to my limbs. Only those who have been attacked as I was can understand the feelings of joy occasioned by a renewed sense of health and activity, and you can rest assured I shall always speak in warm terms of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

The News-Record can add that Mr. Menger is a thoroughly reliable young man, and a total abstainer both as regards stimulants and the use of tobacco.

ANNUAL RAY POLLUTION.

Said Against the City Dismissed Without Costs.

James and Nora Murphy sued the city of Toronto yesterday for permitting the pollution of Ashbridge's Bay, to the injury of the health of the plaintiffs' family and the detriment of their ice business. The plaintiffs own some lots at the foot of Carlaw-avenue, fronting on the bay. Another action by James Murphy against the city and Gooderham & Worts was brought in June, 1892, and a settlement was arrived at, it was claimed by the city that the two actions were practically for the same cause of action. During the cross-examination of the plaintiffs, an offer was made and accepted for a dismissal of the action without costs. Mr. Nelson D. Mills was counsel for plaintiffs, and Mr. Fullerton, Q.C. (City Counsel), and Mr. Chisholm (Assistant City Solicitor), represented the city.

The Rector Wins.

James A. McIlwain, the real estate agent, sued the rector and churchwardens of St. James' for damages for not giving him free from building restrictions a deed of land on the cemetery property in Amelia-street. The original agreement between the two parties was in 1889, and the deed was given two years later. It contains building restrictions and the plaintiff alleged that the transaction had been finally closed some time ago, and that the defendant, without his being aware of the restrictions, had sold the land to a third party. The witness included Mr. Rost, the solicitor for Mr. McIlwain, and Mr. A. R. Sullivan, the rector of St. James', and Mr. T. A. Rowan, solicitor for the rector, who were also parties to the agreement. The case necessitated frequent reference to the entries in the lawyers' dockets. Mr. McIlwain's entries were very full, and on the facts Mr. Justice McMichael decided in favor of the rector and churchwardens, but the case is reserved for further consideration on other points.

BOYCOTTERS OF WELLMAN

Will Try to Prevent His Admission to the New York Bar Association.

There is a tumult in the New York Bar Association, says The Sun, over the candidacy of Francis L. Wellman for counsel for the defence in the Hyams case which will open at the York Assize Court to-day for membership, and a faction is doing its best to defeat him. The only list containing Mr. Wellman's name was sent out some weeks ago a great many protests were sent in immediately, giving indications of a regularly organized opposition. The friends of Mr. Wellman rallied, and both sides have been working to win over the members who had no feeling in the matter one way or the other.

The Committee on Admissions held its meeting on the evening of April 28. What action was taken on Mr. Wellman's name cannot be learned. The only indication that a name has been dropped is its failure to appear on the list of candidates when posted.

A member of the association gave as the reason of this opposition to Mr. Wellman that he was unpopular with lawyers, and that that alone accounted for all the trouble. It is stated, however, on good authority that the real reason is a long-standing quarrel between Mr. Wellman and a young lawyer, who rightly or wrongly, attributes his own blackballing at a social club a year ago to Mr. Wellman.

The opposition against Mr. Wellman is said to be very well organized, and the attack is being made systematically and not a point is being lost by it to attain its end.

ENGLISH AND AMERICAN BETTING

"The" Thompson, Who Was Lately at Newmarket, Tells of Old Country Methods.

(From The New York Herald.)

As to betting under the Percy-Gray bill, Mr. Ike S. Thompson, the well-known bookmaker, said last night that he thought in time some satisfactory plan might be evolved that would conform to the law. Mr. Thompson has just returned from an extended visit abroad and his views as to English betting are therefore pertinent at this juncture.

"There is one impression I should like to correct at the outset," he stated, "namely, that the betting in England is heavier than it is here. On the contrary, nothing like the volume of business is done there that is transacted at our big meeting here. Of course, a good deal of heavy betting is done in future books by the big events, but the system of betting is not favorable to the transaction of heavy business.

"There is no fair and equitable market like we had here under our old system. This is a big disadvantage, especially to Americans unaccustomed to the English plan. Men like Mr. Croker and Mr. Dwyer, who can profit by the facilities of this big London club, would not find so many drawbacks to the system, but the average man who made his first visit to an English course would be at all sea. The only prices that are cried out publicly are the favorite and the field. If a man wanted to bet on a particular horse not a favorite he would need to ask a bookmaker for a price. The bookmaker would probably say, 'Five to two on you, sir, when a fair price would be likely to be 15 to 1. I think we can improve upon English methods here, so that we may ultimately have some sort of a market. If not, I am afraid the public will not take kindly to the change and racing will suffer.'

Mr. Thompson attended the Newmarket Caven meeting and saw Dan Galle, the Crawford Plate. "The Englishman made a big lullaby over Dan Galle. They seemed to think him a second-rate horse. Mr. Croker and his high opinion of the colt, but Mr. Dwyer, from whom there are a few better judges, told me that he did not consider Dan Galle in the ring, above selling plate form. Mr. Croker won $15,000 on the race and Mr. Dwyer won $500. Mr. Dwyer bet $200, a monkey as they call it over them, at even odds, two, three and $500 at 4 to 1. The money was paid out at 6 to 1, and by one of Tattersall's commissioners, who made a mess of it. He showed his hand too soon in the ring and knocked the bottom out of the market at the start. Instead of 6 to 1 he should have got 10 or 12 to 1."

Continuing, Mr. Thompson spoke in very enthusiastic terms as to Sims' riding. "It is his own game and a circular track, where there is a lot of crowding and jostling and a chance for generalship. Sims can give the English jockeys cards and spades and beat them. Nearly all the courses at Newmarket are straight. Even on a straight course Sims can hold his own with them. But wait until they get to Alexander Park, which is a circular course, where there are short turns similar to Tottenham corner, and then there will be something for the English critics to enthuse about over Sims' riding."

Where Are the Dog Catchers?

The attention of the City Commissioner is called to the fact that there are hundreds of unlicensed dogs running loose through the streets of Toronto, especially in the northern end of the city. Complaints are numerous as to the depredations caused by these canine pests. If the City Commissioner would send out his dog catchers without delay he would confer a great boon on a long-suffering public.

JOHN NEWTON WILLIAMS.

Eminent Inventor of the Williams Typewriter Owes Strength and Health to Paine's Celery Compound.

The old-time visionary inventor has given place to the practical, red-headed professional inventor of to-day. The successful inventor must now be a business man, as well as a man of mechanical ideas.

The high tension of the nervous system, often kept up for months and months, makes tremendous drafts on the health of those busy brain-workers. Many succumb to nervous prostration when they seem just on the point of accomplishing every difficulty.

Of all the countless recent useful inventions, none has passed through so many or so rapid a course of improvement as the typewriter. To-day, the latest perfected machine is undoubtedly the Williams Typewriter, which represents a vast amount of cumulative invention.

Many of the best commercial houses and large corporations in Canada are now using the Williams Typewriter. This fact alone is evidence of its superiority, as it is adopted by some departments of the British and Canadian Governments.

John Newton Williams, its inventor, was born in 1845, in Brooklyn, N.Y. He spent his early manhood on the western frontier. Subsequently he settled in Kentucky, where he became known as one of the most successful stock breeders in the state.

But it is an inventor that he has won his national reputation. Several most useful and important inventions were made by him before he produced the Williams Typewriter, a machine that probably excels all others in the important features.

Mr. Williams, speaking of the labor expended in bringing the machine that bears his name to its present perfection, says: "Some four years ago, when engaged in experimental work on the typewriter, I was putting in about 16 hours per day of hard work and worry, and came near breaking down. Although very particular and regular in my habits and careful about eating, my stomach troubled me. It was difficult to eat, and more difficult to digest and assimilate my food, my stomach acting in sympathy with an overworked brain."

A friend had sent some Paine's Celery Compound to one of my business associates, and, knowing him personally, and seeing what it did for him, I thought I would try it. I commenced taking it before meals, and it at once stimulated my appetite and aided digestion. I took two bottles and was much benefited.

"Again, two years later I was troubled with nervousness and indigestion, and again took Paine's Celery Compound with great benefit. My wife, after her long illness last summer, and severe nervous prostration, and some trouble from indigestion, concluded to try Paine's Celery Compound, and a tonic and restorative. Several of my friends have taken it on my recommendation, and I have now practical believers in its great restorative powers. I have found the Celery Compound a tonic and restorative that I can lean upon with confidence in time of trouble."

Paine's Celery Compound makes people well as a spring remedy it is unsurpassed.
