A. E. PLUMMER, Manager

had been trapped, and it was not until the disclosures in his work in connection with the Pitzel murders were made that her friends began to fear the lives of herself and child had been taken.

Conner, who was a jeweler, was ordered to conduct the jewelry store and moved, with his family, into a flat above it. When Holmes had perfected his plan of robbing his creditors, he pretended to make a sale of the store and stock to Conner.

Conner promptly abandoned his wife, and she, it is alleged, became a partner in the nefarious schemes of Holmes. In this capacity she soon learned of the character of the work he had in hand, and to a degree had him in her power.

The theory of the people who have been investigating the case is that they were murdered to prevent exposure. If Mrs. Conner and her child are dead, as now seems almost certain, the list of murders which Holmes is charged with includes eight, viz.: B. F. Pitzel, the three Pitzel children, the two Williams girls, and Mrs. Conner and child, and there is a plausible theory for the crime in each case.

Holmes had intrigued with four women at this time, and so clever was he that each believed she was the only one. Mrs. Warner was a handsome woman, and she was the first to be seduced. Holmes caused proof of Mrs. Warner's frailty to fall into Mr. Warner's hands.

During the summer the Englewood premises, formerly occupied by Holmes, three men, who were digging in the cellar, were seriously injured by an explosion of some sort of chemical. The first thing the plumber noticed was the smell of gunpowder, and he was running a tunnel towards the street when they encountered a well that gave a hollow sound.

These incidents created great excitement in the neighborhood. There were more volunteers, and one tank was thoroughly searched, but nothing more was found. This tank was formerly in the centre of the cellar.

More bones were found in the stove to-day, but they are so small, and the original outlines are so nearly destroyed, that they don't offer much of a clue.

A woman's shoe was found closely pressed into the crevices of the firebrick of the stove, and several buttons partly charred turned up in the ashes.

Some years ago Chicago was startled by the bold kidnaping of little Annie Hedmond, daughter of a South Side blacksmith.

later was arrested for the crime and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. Mrs. Gurley refused to talk much about the case at the time, but threw out hints about having done the job for the police to be done merely for effect, and no organized effort was made to look up the woman's associates.

The rib-like fragments found in the ashes under the stove in the room of the Holmes building at 63rd-street, and supposed to be the remains of the two missing Williams girls, were late last night subjected to a chemical test by Dr. C. P. Stringfield, and pronounced by him to be bits of fire clay.

Twenty men to-morrow morning, under the direction of detective sergeants Henry and E. Menary were expelled, J. Burckard suspended and J. Menary given a chance to show why he should not be expelled.

Not a Different Question to Settle. Editor World: The Dominion Parliament acted with great wisdom when it resolved to refer questions relating to the grievances of minorities in the different provinces of Canada in regard to education to the courts. It is a pity the courts or some judicial body outside of Parliament had not been appointed to decide the extent of the grievance in each case that may arise, and to suggest the proper and just remedial course to be followed.
