

"In the last year, we have established the Canadian Centre for Foreign Policy Development to support discussion of foreign policy issues among Canadians. The Centre has already sponsored a number of events related to human rights, including roundtables of human rights experts, roundtables on China and research on Codes of Conduct for international business. These events provided me with an opportunity to hear the views of Canadians from many different segments of society."

*The Honourable Lloyd Axworthy
Minister of Foreign Affairs*

Address at the Consultations with NGO's, Spring 1997