- (3) By applying the refund against a debt of the customer providing the co-operative has statutory or written authority from the customer to do so;
- (4) By retention by the co-operative as a loan from a member providing the member or customer has given a written authority to the co-operative for this purpose;
 - (5) By applying the refund on account of a loan or purchase of shares pursuant to a by-law which requires the member to make a loan or purchase shares and authorizes the application of the patronage dividend thereon, if the statute under which the co-operative is constituted provides that all by-laws of the co-operative are binding on all members.

There are, however, limitations on the amount of refund which is allowable as a deduction from income. A co-operative, having complied with the requirements as set forth above, cannot claim as an allowance a refund to members which is greater than the income arising from member business. All refunds paid to non-members may be deducted from income.

Furthermore, the amount of refund cannot reduce the taxable income below 3 per cent of the capital employed in the business, with the exception that such capital includes all borrowed money other than money borrowed from chartered banks and credit unions. However, the 3 per cent of capital employed may be reduced by any interest paid on money borrowed from sources other than chartered banks and credit unions.

(2) The co-operative model with it months after the texation year, allocate the refund to cli customers at the same rate except for non-weigners who may be disdiced with a different rate. These may be different rates also for different layment of celement be dede within the bexation year or within twelve months ofterwards to se deductible in the baxation year. Conclude and payments are assuctible when year tayment includes the following live methods:

(2) By dertify aves of indebteduces or result of shares

pecember 7, 1950.

RP/A visegnous and deror blost eval ages severescoo (1)