

to the United States Government. We understand that they have received attention at the highest levels. This form of solemn parliamentary protest is unprecedented in Canada-United States relations.

Recently, the revival of the war in Vietnam has returned that subject to a high place on the list of issues complicating relations between Canada and the United States.

On the other side of the ledger, we have had a highly successful visit of President Nixon to Canada. In what he said while he was in Ottawa, the President showed a perceptive sensitivity to some of the issues that concern Canadians most. His clear acknowledgement of the separate identities of our two countries is one example of this; what he said about foreign ownership was another. The visit was capped by the signature of an important new agreement on a
