

WILLIAM LYON MACKENZIE

56 ; on the legislative council, 57 ; on the executive council, 58 63, 64 ; says Reformers are justified in demanding responsible executive, 59, 67, 68, 69 ; points out powerlessness of assembly, 60 ; on the Family Compact, 62, 65 ; Clergy Reserves one of chief causes of rebellion, 71, 72 ; on evils arising from Constitutional Act, 75, 76 ; says representative government was guaranteed by Constitutional Act, 76 ; his report justifies Reformers, 77 ; Stuart J. Reid on the Report, 78, 79 ; analogy between Report and "Seventh Report on Grievances," 79, 80 ; Union Act of 1840 based on Report, 80 ; recommends responsible government, 81 ; authorship of Report, 82, 83 ; on Head's interference in election, 309 ; on the causes of disaffection, 402 ; the remedy, 403

E

ELGIN, LORD, governor-general, 480 ; assents to amnesty act, 480
Examiner, the (New York), Mackenzie publishes, 470
Examiner, the (Toronto), published by Sir Francis Hincks, 483 ; on the riots, 483 ; its estimate of Mackenzie, 484, 485

F

FAMILY COMPACT, the, their loyalty tested, 10 ; Durham's view of, 62, 65, 66 ; great influence of, 66 ;

lasting and extensive monopoly of power, 66 ; decides on Gourlay's destruction, 89 ; destroys Colonial Advocate, 115 ; incensed at Lord Goderich's concessions, 230 ; secures Head's sympathy, 302

Fitzgibbon, Colonel James, defeats rebels at Montgomery's farm, 379
 Fothergill Charles, attacks Mackenzie in U. C. Gazette 38 ; accuses Mackenzie of disloyalty, 99 ; moves to pay Mackenzie for report of debates, 102, 103 ; dismissed from position of king's printer, 110

G

Gazette, MACKENZIE's, published May 12th, 1838, 433 ; last issue of, 461
Gazette (Montreal), Mackenzie's obituary in, 514
 Gibson, David, organizes shooting matches, 342 ; rebels meet at his house, 360 ; opposes advance on Toronto, 362 ; his house burned, 375 ; objects to Mackenzie's plans, 376 ; escapes, 380
 Glenelg, Lord, colonial secretary, opposes responsible government, 20 ; on colonial self-government, 73 ; refers report of the committee on grievances to the king, 263 ; his reply to report, 280 ; on executive councils, 302 ; schooled by Head, 304 ; Head disobeys his orders, 307 ; non-elective legislative council, 324
Globe, the (Toronto), justifies the