Mrs. H. M. Hansrote, of Magnolia, Morgan Co., W. Va., in a letter to Dr. Plerce says: "My husband is a locomotive engineer. He came home about a year ago and just dropped in the doorway. He was burning up with fever and he commenced with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery according to directions and in two weeks he was able to go to work, without having a doctor. I commenced to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription something over two years ago, and am glad to testify that it is a God-send to womankind. I have been out of health for years, and am now able to say your medicine has cured me entirely. The three children who were born before I commenced to take your medicine did not live long, they were very delicate, but those born since (three in all) are very hearty, and that convinces me that your medicine is just what it is said to be and a great deal more."

fact that a large part of the province is under prohibition, should be taken listo account.

Liberals Against 1t.

In many places the friends of the Liberal party were strongly urged to vote against prohibition on the fround that a favorable vote would embarraas the Liberal Government and party. In the Province of Quebec a number of Cabinet Alliesters and many other leading Liberal politicians came out in opposition to the proposed reform. The French people, whose admiration and affection for Sir Wilfrid Laurier are great, were told that a majority for prohibition would injure his position and influence. It is certain that the Quebec vote was largely influenced by this political consideration.

The claim is made that it would be wrong to deny the other provinces what they wanted because Quebec objected.

A Few Quotations.

Prohibition was expected. It was believed the Government would be governed by the results of the vote. Hon. Princess Carini had a business agent named Canella, a lawyer, who gradually obtained such an ascendancy over her mind that he was able to obtain absolute control over her property. Then, after inducing her to execute a will in his favor, he had the unfortunate woman shut up in a hovel on her own estate, where she was found after many monuse in a miserable condition, whist Canella and his family were living in the Princess mansion. The Quebec Vote.

In regard to the Quebec vote, the leaf-let declares that the fact that outside the few English-speaking countles it was prac-tically all against prohibition; and the fact that a large part of the province is under prohibition, should be taken into ac-see light. On another occasion, "If the see light the support of a majority of the people, those who find them selves in the minority will have to concur in the verdict of the majority."

The Executive's Reply To which the executive replies: "The statements made could not be fairly construed to mean anything short of a promise of prohibitory legislation in case of a favorable majority in a reasonable vote."

It is declared that the vote was taken on the strength of a belief that the Government was in earnest, and desired to the contrary, if the disease had not spread beyond its original and apparently circum-

mit."
In conclusion, Parliament is asked "to enact such legislation as will fairly embody the will of the people as expressed at the polls."

the contrary, if the disease had not spread beyond its original and apparently circumscribed site, there is no telling how long the patient might have lived. Certainly the conditions for a twelvementh or more were favorable to the continuance of necessary nutrition for an unlimited period.

"So far, then, the results would appear to indicate the utility of the operation as a promising relief measure. Beyond this, however, we can scarcely go, when we take into account the inevitable tendency of the disease toward dissemination. Especially is this the case with these particular operations, which can be necessitated only when the entire organ is involved in disease. We can scarcely expect to be guaranteed against neighboring infiltration of cancerous deposits, when the original disease is of the duration and extent indicated. Evidently the rule was followed in this present instance, and, although life was prolonged but little over a year, from such a standpoint alone the operation was a great success and the daring operator is to be congratulated accordingly."
