ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Receipts of farm produce were light and prices unchanged for grain and hay. On account of the horticultural show in the arena, the farmers with loads of mixed produce had to sell on the streets. Fortunately the weather was favorable and every one seemed well pleased, having met a good market. On the basket mar-ket there was a fair delivery of butter, eggs and poultry, which sold at fair prices all round. -Receipts large, with prices easy

Many complaints from customers who had bought eggs that had been in storage for weeks and possibly months, and musty at that, have been related to The World. These eggs, some of them, would do for ordinary cooking purposes, but were no better, nor as good, in some instances, as can be bought at the wholesale stores at 2sc to 29c per dozen. We know of one woman who bought eggs at 40c per dozen that were musty, altho told that they had been laid within two weeks. That customer has used half of them, but did not get one egg that was fit to eat. Farmers have been getting high prices all summer.
