

OCTOPUS FASTENS ON ARTIST'S LEG

Sailor's Timely Intervention Saves Life of Seascaper Painter

LONDON, Nov. 28.—An Italian seascape artist, Mario Menichetti, was out early on the breakwater at Leghorn, Italy, painting a water colour of the outgoing fishing fleet. With his paper pad on his knees, he sat and dangled his legs over the side. He failed to observe a huge octopus creeping up and curling a tentacle around his ankle, but he began to notice when the devil-fish began to gain a hold on the calf as well.

Throwing away his pad, the artist tried to pull his leg away from the loathsome peril, but the octopus was in fighting mood, and now half out of water, brought into play all its eight tentacles in an effort to strangle the painter. Yelling lustily, and rolling over on to the stone break-

Italian Scientist First With Chemical

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 29.—The new chemical element, 61, named Ithium, discovered by three University of Illinois instructors last spring, was found two years ago by Dr. Luigi Rolla, of the Chemical Institute of Florence, Italy, but he failed to announce it then.

Dr. Rolla's discovery was accepted by the Congress of Scientists which met at Bologna, Italy. He named his discovery Ithium in honor of his city, while Prof. B. Smith Hopkins of the University of Illinois named his discovery Ithium in honor of the university and the state. Dr. Rolla now has agreed to relinquish all claims to its original discovery.

Wealthy Widow Elopes With Her Chauffeur

DEERFIELD, Mass., Nov. 28.—Mrs. Estelle Woodward, 68 year old widow of Joel Woodward, a retired capitalist, eloped on October 6, it was learned yesterday, with her chauffeur, Herman Latourneau, 21 years old.

Latourneau had been in Mrs. Woodward's employ at South Deerfield six months when early in October they took a motor trip to Kingston, N. Y., and were married. They kept the marriage a secret until yesterday when neighbors suspected it, whereupon they admitted it. Mrs. Latourneau, who is a cousin of Mrs. Arthur Curtis James of New York has three children, all grown.

Game Season Ends In N. B. On Tuesday

PETITCODIAC, Nov. 28.—Tuesday will see the end of one of the most successful hunting seasons ever experienced in this section. The last few days have seen a considerable number of deer shipped through the express companies.

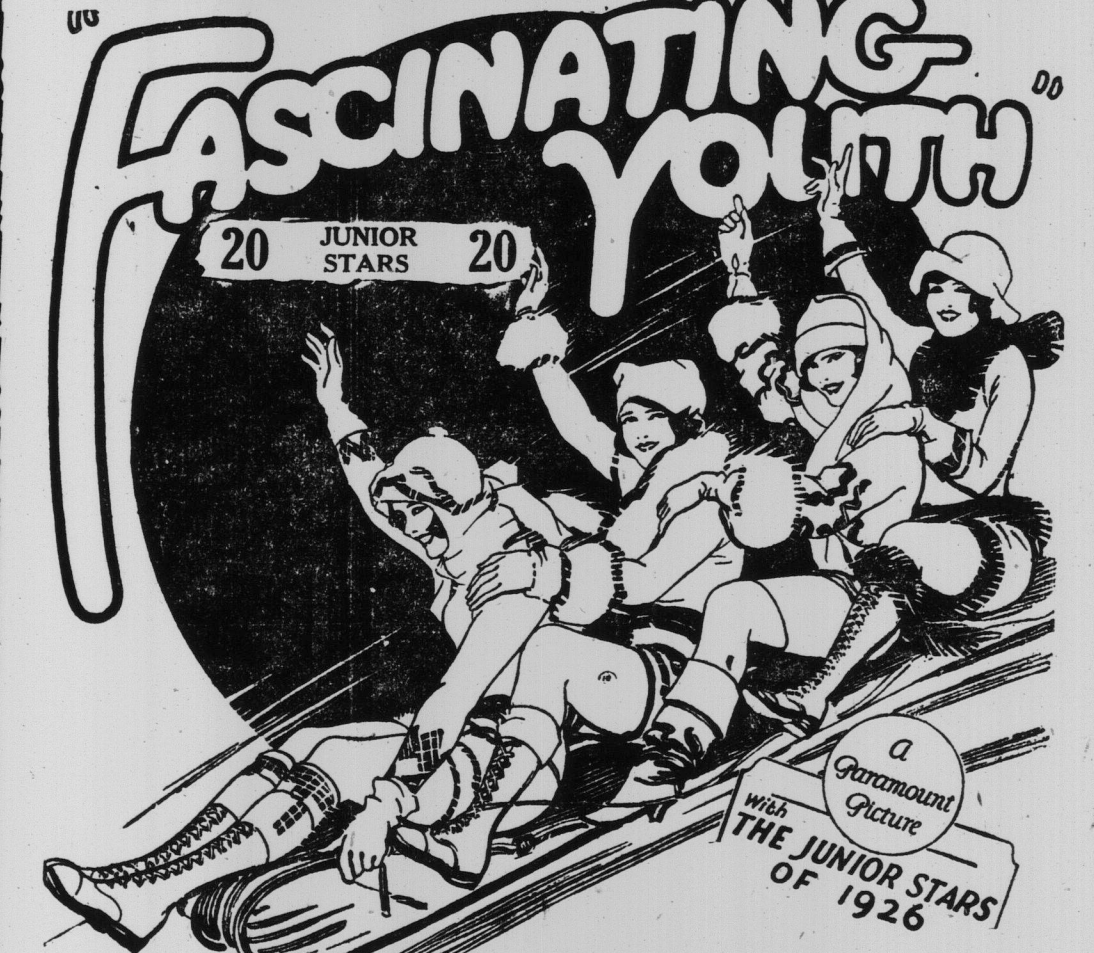

The Albert county section has been especially satisfactory this year. One party of Americans who spent a week in the Albert county woods reported sighting over 70 moose but only two were within the requirements of the game act.

Rumanians To Add To Naval Strength

BUCHARST, Nov. 28.—The Rumanian government has placed a new order for armaments in Italy, amounting to 800,000,000 lei. (The lei normally is worth 19 cents). The newspapers in making this announcement assert that the order was placed with a firm in Naples, and stipulated delivery within 26 months in Rumanian waters of two destroyers of 4 displacement of 18,000 tons each. These destroyers will carry five large calibre guns. Likewise the firm is to deliver the latest type of submarine with motherhood in 32 months. It is reported that the arrangements were made for additional armaments at the time of the visit of the Italian mission headed by Marshal Badoglio.

URGES AUTO FIRST-AID BOOTHS

That first-aid dressing stations or booths be established at dangerous points on highways to care for victims of auto accidents, was the recommendation of a coroner's jury in Selby, England, at the inquest of a motor crash victim recently. It further urged that a list of the nearest doctors be posted in every dressing room, and suggested that the plan be brought to the attention of the Minister of Transport of the British government.
