PHOTOS OF VOICE ON MOVIE FILM

New York, Nov. 13.—More particulars of the new device invented by C. A. Hoxie of the General Electric Company, which the inventor hopes will make possible the "talking" moving picture as well as a vast improvement in radio broadcasting, are at hand, following the visit recently of Thomas A. Edison to inspect the machine.

L. T. Robinson, engineer in charge of the laboratory in which the machine was designed, thus explains its operation:
"This is a device for the purpose of recording sound upon a photographic film so that the sound may afterwards be reproduced in ordinary telephones, loud speakers, etc.
"The record is made by causing the sound waves to produce vibrations on an exceedingly minute and very delicate mirror. A beam of light reflected by this mirror strikes a photographic film which is kept in continuous motion.
"The film when developed shows a series of white with delicate markings on the edges, which correspond to the sound which has been reproduced. On account of the exceedingly small size of the mirror, its low inertia, it is possible by this means to produce a sound record which includes the very delicate 'overtones' which give quality to speech and musical sounds. This has not been so successfully accomplished by any other method of recording sound waves.

"The reproduction of the sound from the film is accomplished by moving the film in front of an exceedingly delicate electrical device which produces an electromotive force which varies with the amount of light which falls upon it. In the past attempts have been made to produce these results by means of selenium cells, but a selenium cell, though it responds to the changes in the amount of light

Prices Bombed Again!

Merchants have come to the sale to buy below wholesale. The savings are such as call for rather emphatic description, but our policy is conservative and the goods and prices can speak for themselves. So we just ask you to come and be critical. Here are brief reminders.

SENSIBLE SUITS
$12 to $25
First you get Fashion—the materials are lots and—Sergeants, Tweeds, Worsteds, Cheviots and Serges. The prices are $8 to $15 less than anyone quotes and the colors are conservative. We could talk a lot about them but prefer to await your personal inspection—judge for yourself.

SPARE PANTS FOR EVERYBODY.
Close to half comes off the price of both Men's and Boys' spare trousers.

$1.25 SHIRTS ARE REAL FINDS.
The variety of stripes and color tones, fastness of dye, worth of material and fairness of price in our $1.25 shirts halts you as you enter. We don't deny you get better shirts at higher prices further along in the store, but you'll be well satisfied at this expenditure.

A BEWILDERING ARRAY OF EVERYTHING
Caps, hats, mufflers, socks, gloves—all are consistently reduced and the character of each is to say the least, the best that any far-sighted merchant would carry. The selection is democratic—you can have as smart as you please and utility is always an important principle.
