

Kellogg's advertisement: You will never realize how much ten cents can buy until you taste. Includes image of a cereal box.

SHIPPING

ALMANAC FOR ST. JOHN, AUG. 29. High Tide... Low Tide... PORT OF ST. JOHN. Arrived Yesterday. Canadian steam yacht Glencair, Herbert, from St. Andrews with James Ross and pleasure party.

LA MARQUISE de FONTENOY

Financial Troubles of Son of One of World's Richest Men—Stop War and Save Cathedral—Clergyman for London Sheriff.

Sir Derrick Werber, who, as noted in these letters at the time, recently went through the bankruptcy court in London only a few days before the death of his father, Sir Julius Werber, a famous South African multi-millionaire, has just been cleared by the French courts of all criminal intent in connection with the charges of fraud brought against him and a Bavarian nobleman, Hugo von Grunhert, by a couple named Marry, owners of one of the largest art furniture, tapestry and bric-a-brac shops in Paris.

They went to Paris and young Werber purchased there $200,000 worth of goods from the Marries, paying them with notes of $100,000 each. The dealers were only too glad to accommodate the eldest son of so great a capitalist as the late Sir Julius Werber, according to the arrangement between him and Derrick, understood to sell the goods at a profit of at least fifty per cent. to people who he knew in Germany and Austria, in time to take up the notes, and to divide proceeds. Instead of doing this, however, Grunhert, who is a captain on the reserve list of the Bavarian cavalry, disposed of everything for about $70,000 and disappeared. When the notes fell due, Sir Derrick, who had meanwhile succeeded to the ownership, and little else, for his father cut him off with an annuity of $6,000 a year, was unable to pay, and as soon as the Marries found that their goods had been sold at ridiculously low prices in Germany, they lodged charges of fraud against him and his partner.

Sir Derrick surrendered himself voluntarily, while Grunhert fled to London and London and extradited. The former, as stated, has been cleared of any intent to defraud, but Grunhert, 59, Edgely, from Boston, master, ballast. Schooner George W. Anderson (Am), 109, Lann, from Boston, master, ballast. Schooner Sarah & Lucy (Am), 92, Greenlaw, from Boston, master, ballast.

Cleared Yesterday. Schooner Harold B. Cowans (Am), 173, Linn, for City Island for orders, Stearns, Cutter & Co., 404, 1st street, Spruce deal. Schooner Eskimo, Pike, for Lynn, Mass., loaded at Apple River with lumber, was in harbor. Schooner Harry Morris, Longley, for Rockport, Me., Murray & Gregory, 200, 000 barrel staves. Sailed Yesterday. Schooner Moana, Smith, for City Island for orders (was in repair). Schooner Carrie B. Lord, for Lunenburg, 15 kds. lashing.

CANADIAN PORTS. Chatham, Aug. 27—Ctd, spr Progress 111, Loggerville, Aug. 28—Sch Gypsum Emperor, loading for New York. Moncton, Aug. 27—Sch Greta, Cole, Barbed, molasses for West Co. Quebec, Aug. 28—Artd, str Sicilian, London; Royal Edward, Bristol. Montreal, Aug. 28—Artd, str Lake Michigan, London and Antwerp. Corinthian, London and Havre. Sid—Str Ramona Head, Dublin.

BRITISH PORTS. Belfast, Aug. 28—Artd, str Fortonia, Nielson, Cape Town via Loughbor, London, Aug. 28—Artd, str Ansonia, Montreal. FOREIGN PORTS. Elizabethport, Aug. 28—Artd, sch Empress, New York. Perth Amboy, Aug. 28—Artd, sch Janie Shaker, New York. Boston, Aug. 28—Artd, sch John A. Beckerman, Maurer (N.J.); Onward, Annapolis; C. T. W. Plymouth. Ctd—Sch Ota Miller, Parrabro for Plymouth; Princess of Avon, Annapolis. New York, Aug. 28—Artd, sch B. B. Hardwick, Bear River; Oscar L. Gray, Tenny Cape (N.S.); Edward Stewart, St. John; Rebecca G. Whidden, Calcutta. Vineyard Haven, Aug. 28—Artd, sch Kambes, St. George for Calcutta, and sch Concord, Fort Kentville, E. Merritt, St. John for New York; James Young, Kennebec. New York, Aug. 28—Sld, sch Helvetia, western port; Hunter, St. Andrews. Vineyard Haven, Aug. 28—Sld, sch Portman, from St. John for New York; St. Anthon, from Miramichi for New York; Anne Lord, from Parrabro for New York. Calcutta, Aug. 28—Sld, sch G. M. Porter, New York.

Machias, Me, Aug. 28—Sld, sch Edna, James Slason, New York; Henry D. May, St. John. VERMONT IN PORT. Steamers. Manchester Shipper, 2,700, Wm. Thomson & Co. Steam yacht Glencair, James Ross, Montreal. Steam yacht May, from Bear Harbor. Ships. Margaret, 1,204, W. M. Mackay. Bark. Matiana, 97, C. M. Kerrison. Schooners. R. Carson, 99, A. W. Adams. George W. Anderson, C. M. Kerrison. W. E. & W. M. Tuck, A. J. Gregory. William T. Donnell, 482, consigned A. W. Adams. Ann Louisa Lockwood, 265, A. W. Adams. Calabra, 530, J. Spilane & Co. Ella M. Storer, 428, C. M. Kerrison. Elina, 239, A. W. Adams. F. C. Pendleton, 340, master. George D. Jenkins, 398, consigned to A. W. Adams. Hattie Dun, 363, consigned to A. W. Adams. Hattie H. Barbour, 296, A. W. Adams. Henry Morris, 98, C. M. Kerrison. Helen G. King, 129, A. W. Adams. Irma Bentley, 392, B. C. Ekin. Leah K. Rieton, 211, J. W. Smith. L. A. Pinner, 338, C. M. Kerrison. Minnie Slason, 271, A. W. Adams. Oliver Ames, 432, C. M. Kerrison. Ruth Robinson, 462, J. Spilane & Co. Roman, 111, F. McIntyre. Priscilla, 101, consigned to A. W. Adams. Ozonimo, A. W. Adams. Bright, 249, consigned A. W. Adams.

Tact

By RUTH CAMERON. Popularity Papers—Being the Fourth of a Few Little Talks on the Ingredients of Popularity. ONE of the most important characteristics for the person who wants to be popular is tact, which has been most cleverly defined as the fine art of picking things up by the handles.

What a very queer idea of luck some people have. "There, I forgot and spoke about Grace's marrying that divorced man," says one of these unlucky (?) people, "Oh dear, I'm so unlucky. I always say the wrong thing. I wish I were tactful, and I try to be, but somehow I seem to put my foot in it. I'm just unlucky."

When King George Took "Pot Luck". Intimate Details of Monarch's Visit to Duke of Devonshire. DANCING MAN WELCOME.

British Hostesses Pleased to See Revival of Interest—Canadians Now Essential to Success of Social Functions in Mother Land.

It is to be hoped that the valuable work done by Lord Strathcona's office and modified by British M. P. will be augmented in such a way that the Canadians who desire to mix in social circles here, and the Briton who is anxious to hold out the welcoming hand will be brought together. It is not sufficiently realized that over the walnuts and wine associations are formed which are of immeasurable value and which serve to link up well-known families on both sides of the Atlantic.

English hostesses are faced with a new worry, and one of our well known entertainers the other day, "and one which is difficult to meet. Canadian guests have come to be almost a necessity to a thoroughly successful gathering, particularly an affair such as a week end at a country house, where the men have leisure to talk over current affairs. The hostess who can secure representative Canadians for her functions supplies a demand which is becoming increasingly urgent in society circles.

The reason for this is obvious to those who appreciate modern social tendencies. Increasing numbers with each year, and people who visit Canada are now to be found in every circle and have introduced a new element into our life. The work of Mr. Borden and his ministerial colleagues and their entry into the most exclusive circles in the country have served to focus attention on this question. "Now it is difficult to 'capture' Canadian men, not because they are few in number, but for the reason that there are none of the ordinary avenues of introduction. Of course many of our men have commercial and other affiliations with Canada and it is true also that the Canadian friends frequently visit the metropolis. Still London is a very large social field to cover, and there are not enough Canadians to go round.

It was suggested the other day that in the matter of introducing men from the great dominion to English circles, the colonial office was very backward; and for the fact that valuable work of this nature is done through Lord Strathcona's office, Canadians would be seen in society even less frequently than they are. What is true of the Canadian man naturally applies in this connection to his women-folk. We have learned to love the French-Canadian with her delightful combination of old world French courtesy and Canadian independence. To the baysant woman from western Canada a ready welcome is always assured.

WHEN KING GEORGE TOOK "POT LUCK"

Intimate Details of Monarch's Visit to Duke of Devonshire. DANCING MAN WELCOME.

British Hostesses Pleased to See Revival of Interest—Canadians Now Essential to Success of Social Functions in Mother Land.

It is to be hoped that the valuable work done by Lord Strathcona's office and modified by British M. P. will be augmented in such a way that the Canadians who desire to mix in social circles here, and the Briton who is anxious to hold out the welcoming hand will be brought together. It is not sufficiently realized that over the walnuts and wine associations are formed which are of immeasurable value and which serve to link up well-known families on both sides of the Atlantic.

English hostesses are faced with a new worry, and one of our well known entertainers the other day, "and one which is difficult to meet. Canadian guests have come to be almost a necessity to a thoroughly successful gathering, particularly an affair such as a week end at a country house, where the men have leisure to talk over current affairs. The hostess who can secure representative Canadians for her functions supplies a demand which is becoming increasingly urgent in society circles.

The reason for this is obvious to those who appreciate modern social tendencies. Increasing numbers with each year, and people who visit Canada are now to be found in every circle and have introduced a new element into our life. The work of Mr. Borden and his ministerial colleagues and their entry into the most exclusive circles in the country have served to focus attention on this question. "Now it is difficult to 'capture' Canadian men, not because they are few in number, but for the reason that there are none of the ordinary avenues of introduction. Of course many of our men have commercial and other affiliations with Canada and it is true also that the Canadian friends frequently visit the metropolis. Still London is a very large social field to cover, and there are not enough Canadians to go round.

It was suggested the other day that in the matter of introducing men from the great dominion to English circles, the colonial office was very backward; and for the fact that valuable work of this nature is done through Lord Strathcona's office, Canadians would be seen in society even less frequently than they are. What is true of the Canadian man naturally applies in this connection to his women-folk. We have learned to love the French-Canadian with her delightful combination of old world French courtesy and Canadian independence. To the baysant woman from western Canada a ready welcome is always assured.

It is to be hoped that the valuable work done by Lord Strathcona's office and modified by British M. P. will be augmented in such a way that the Canadians who desire to mix in social circles here, and the Briton who is anxious to hold out the welcoming hand will be brought together. It is not sufficiently realized that over the walnuts and wine associations are formed which are of immeasurable value and which serve to link up well-known families on both sides of the Atlantic.

English hostesses are faced with a new worry, and one of our well known entertainers the other day, "and one which is difficult to meet. Canadian guests have come to be almost a necessity to a thoroughly successful gathering, particularly an affair such as a week end at a country house, where the men have leisure to talk over current affairs. The hostess who can secure representative Canadians for her functions supplies a demand which is becoming increasingly urgent in society circles.

J. Marcus, 30 Dock Street. Furniture, Linoleums, Rugs. Phone 1373. Includes image of a lamp and text: Stop! DON'T FORCE! Your Dollar.

Daily Hints For the Cook

SWEET MUFFINS. One-half cup sugar, one dessertspoon of butter, two eggs. Break eggs, sugar and butter into a dish and beat with eggs and butter one cup flour, one cup of R. I. meal, three teaspoons of baking powder, good pinch of salt, milk enough to make thick batter. Drop into gem pans and bake in quick oven.

For Home Bread Makers

Thousands of letters from satisfied users of White Swan Yeast Cakes prove that it is good reliable yeast. If your grocer doesn't sell them advise White Swan Spices & Cereals, Limited, Toronto, Ont., and ask for free sample.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear, there is no way to cure deafness, and that by constitutional remedial measures, the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube, which is the cause of the inflammation, can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be restored, which is nothing but an inflated condition of the mucous surface.

It's becoming the Canadian national enjoyment.

Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co., Ltd. 7 Scott Street, Toronto, Ontario. Includes image of a man and text: First they buy it by the package. Then they BUY IT BY THE BOX. It costs less—of any dealer.

PILEs

You will find relief in Zamb-Buk. It eases the burning, stinging pain, stops bleeding and brings ease. Perseverance, with Zamb-Buk, means cure. Why not prove this? All Druggists and Stores.

Among the most promising and likely suitors for the hand of the self-willed and pretty eighteen-year-old Grand-Duchess of Luxembourg, is Prince Francis Joseph of Thurn-and-Taxis, now in his twentieth year, the eldest son of the colonially wealthy head of that house, and heir to its titles, among them being those of Duke of Wurtz and Donaustrut. His mother is Archduchess Marguerite of Austria, whom I noted the other day in these letters as the victim of a sensational fever robbery at Ostend.

Among the candidates for the office of sheriff of Middlesex—means the half of London that lies north of the Thames—is the Rev. H. Carr Delafontaine, a clergyman of the Church of England, and as some objections to him were raised on the score of his death, lawyers have been consulted, and have declared that there are no legal obstacles to his election. True, it is necessary to go hundreds of years back in order to find a precedent. The last instance of an ecclesiastical sheriff is that of John de Bedewyde, a priest who was sheriff of Cornwall in 1312, Jocelyn, bishop of Bath, was sheriff of Somerset in 1223, Peter, Bishop of Winchester, was sheriff of Hampshire in 1232, and Richard de Marisco, Archbishop of Northumberland, was sheriff of Dorset in 1212.

Rev. H. C. Delafontaine's case is different from those ancient ones, in that it puts him in line for election, first as alderman and then as lord mayor. Should he attain the chair of chief city magistrate, he would be the first clergyman on record to hold it in all the thousand-year history of London. The provisions of English canon law, it is true, deprecate, though they do not actually prohibit, a man in Holy Orders from engaging himself with temporal affairs and business transactions to the detriment of his spiritual duties; but Mr. Delafontaine holds no benefice, has refrained from undertaking any clerical duties for some years and devotes his time and energies to the cause of education, as a member of the London county council.

Among the many reasons why a cessation of the war between Italy and Turkey is desirable is the alarming condition of the Cathedral Church of St. Sophia in Constantinople—the chief mosque of the city since its capture by Mohammed II. more than 400 years ago. Built in the sixth century by Justinian the Great, the venerable pile has been so weakened by looting and earthquakes, that it is in danger of tumbling to pieces. Last year it was subjected to a most searching examination at the instance of the Ottoman government, by the eminent Italian architect Marangoni, to whom Venice is indebted for the restoration of the Campanile. Marangoni drew up designs of reinforcing work which he regarded as necessary both for the superstructure and foundations, the cost of repairs being estimated at $800,000. He received an order to begin at once, in view of the urgency of the case, but before he could do so the war broke out, and until it is at an end nothing can be done, for the Turks are afraid to trust the restoration to other hands.

Among the candidates for the office of sheriff of Middlesex—means the half of London that lies north of the Thames—is the Rev. H. Carr Delafontaine, a clergyman of the Church of England, and as some objections to him were raised on the score of his death, lawyers have been consulted, and have declared that there are no legal obstacles to his election. True, it is necessary to go hundreds of years back in order to find a precedent. The last instance of an ecclesiastical sheriff is that of John de Bedewyde, a priest who was sheriff of Cornwall in 1312, Jocelyn, bishop of Bath, was sheriff of Somerset in 1223, Peter, Bishop of Winchester, was sheriff of Hampshire in 1232, and Richard de Marisco, Archbishop of Northumberland, was sheriff of Dorset in 1212.

Rev. H. C. Delafontaine's case is different from those ancient ones, in that it puts him in line for election, first as alderman and then as lord mayor. Should he attain the chair of chief city magistrate, he would be the first clergyman on record to hold it in all the thousand-year

WHEN KING GEORGE TOOK "POT LUCK"

Intimate Details of Monarch's Visit to Duke of Devonshire. DANCING MAN WELCOME.

British Hostesses Pleased to See Revival of Interest—Canadians Now Essential to Success of Social Functions in Mother Land.

It is to be hoped that the valuable work done by Lord Strathcona's office and modified by British M. P. will be augmented in such a way that the Canadians who desire to mix in social circles here, and the Briton who is anxious to hold out the welcoming hand will be brought together. It is not sufficiently realized that over the walnuts and wine associations are formed which are of immeasurable value and which serve to link up well-known families on both sides of the Atlantic.

English hostesses are faced with a new worry, and one of our well known entertainers the other day, "and one which is difficult to meet. Canadian guests have come to be almost a necessity to a thoroughly successful gathering, particularly an affair such as a week end at a country house, where the men have leisure to talk over current affairs. The hostess who can secure representative Canadians for her functions supplies a demand which is becoming increasingly urgent in society circles.

The reason for this is obvious to those who appreciate modern social tendencies. Increasing numbers with each year, and people who visit Canada are now to be found in every circle and have introduced a new element into our life. The work of Mr. Borden and his ministerial colleagues and their entry into the most exclusive circles in the country have served to focus attention on this question. "Now it is difficult to 'capture' Canadian men, not because they are few in number, but for the reason that there are none of the ordinary avenues of introduction. Of course many of our men have commercial and other affiliations with Canada and it is true also that the Canadian friends frequently visit the metropolis. Still London is a very large social field to cover, and there are not enough Canadians to go round.

It was suggested the other day that in the matter of introducing men from the great dominion to English circles, the colonial office was very backward; and for the fact that valuable work of this nature is done through Lord Strathcona's office, Canadians would be seen in society even less frequently than they are. What is true of the Canadian man naturally applies in this connection to his women-folk. We have learned to love the French-Canadian with her delightful combination of old world French courtesy and Canadian independence. To the baysant woman from western Canada a ready welcome is always assured.

It is to be hoped that the valuable work done by Lord Strathcona's office and modified by British M. P. will be augmented in such a way that the Canadians who desire to mix in social circles here, and the Briton who is anxious to hold out the welcoming hand will be brought together. It is not sufficiently realized that over the walnuts and wine associations are formed which are of immeasurable value and which serve to link up well-known families on both sides of the Atlantic.

English hostesses are faced with a new worry, and one of our well known entertainers the other day, "and one which is difficult to meet. Canadian guests have come to be almost a necessity to a thoroughly successful gathering, particularly an affair such as a week end at a country house, where the men have leisure to talk over current affairs. The hostess who can secure representative Canadians for her functions supplies a demand which is becoming increasingly urgent in society circles.