flected the greatest credit upon Miss Ryan's splendid voice training method. The programme opened with a quartette "Greeting" by Miss Cotter, Miss Brookfield, Miss Sanford, Miss MacKenzie, and was followed by an aria "How long will thou forget Me" by Dr. W. H. H. Beckwith, who was heard a second time in a group of songs, "Dear Heart," "Popples" and "Cup of Life." In all his sympathetic tenor was effective, the audience voicing and "Cap of Life." In all his sympathetic tenor was effective, the audience voicing cordial appreciation.

Miss Edna Cotter, who possesses a very sweet colorature soprano, was very charming in three numbers, two songs and an aria "Chausson Provinciale."

Miss Mabel K. Sanford gave with pleasing effect, "A Tear from Heaven," with violin obligato charmingly rendered by Mrs. Affleck.

Mr. Fritz Schaefer, who was in splendid volce, was heard in a group, the last number being the popular "Vulcan's Song," to which he did full justice.

Miss Hildred Jones sang in charming style Gounod s beautiful aris, "Lend me your Ald." At the conclusion the number was enthusiastically ensored, but as encores were not permitted the audience had to be content with the singer's graceful acknowledgement of their appreciation.

Miss Dorothy Brockfield was very sweetly heard in two pleasing numbers, "The River of Life" and "Laughing Valley." In the latter song Miss Brockfield was particularly effective and received generous applause.

Miss Elia Courtney sang with superbeffect the magnificent aria, "Ahl d'estitud ancor," and again delighted the house in a group of songs, a duet with Mr. S. Farley, and in the contralto obligato of the motette. "The Three Kings." Miss Court-agroup of songs, a duet with Mr. S. Farley, and in the contralto obligate of the motette, "The Three Kings." Miss Courtney was in charming voice last night, her rendition of the aria "brought down the house," so to speak, while each song number received distinct appreciation, especially after the singer's exquisite interpretation of "Little Boy Blue."

Mr. S. Farley sang in pleasing style two songs, "The Crown," and "Trinacria's Isla."
