MEN OF SCIENCE

USE ALCOHOL

Sir James Crichton-Browne
Springs a Surprise.

Out of 84 Members of Association Present
94 Per Cent Took Spirits in Some Form.

LONDON, July 31.—The battle goes on over the question of the value of alcohol. Sir James Crichton-Browne raised it on Thursday night at the annual dinner of the Medical-Psychological Association. He took the company present as an object lesson in support of his views as a friend of alcohol.

With the friendly assistance of the manager of the dining-room where the dinner was held Sir James made a careful record of what they individually and collectively drank. Then when he proposed a toast to science he sprang the result of his observation with the following remarks:—

"We have at this table many of the highest authorities in the country on the alcohol question. The medical superintendents of lunatic asylums, who see much of the evils of alcohol, are strenuous advocates of temperance and have supplied testimonials with some of their strongest arguments. I thought, therefore, that it would be interesting to ascertain how far they have adopted the extreme views on the alcohol question which are now being promulgated."

"There are now at this table eighty-four members of the association. Of them 6 per cent. have declined alcohol, although all the rest, 94 per cent., have partaken of alcohol in some form, and a large majority in several different forms. I dined a fortnight ago at Sir Andrew Noble's table with eighteen of the leading men of science of the day, from the venerable Lord Kelvin down, and not one of them declined alcohol."

"These are facts," added Sir James, "and in view of such facts it would be a farce or obsession or gross hyperbole to speak of alcohol as a deadly poison. Those who declared alcohol to be a deadly poison should also state that we constantly carry about in our bodies more deadly poisons or toxins, but these human poisons are harmless and may be beneficial so long as they are kept in their right places, and our great aim should be to keep alcohol in its right place."

THE HIGHEST SALARIED MAN.
(Ottawa Citizen.)

The highest salaried man in the United States is said to be John Hays Hammond, the expert on gold. As a mining engineer it is understood Mr. Hammond derives an income of about $800,000 per year. He is a Californian, was born in San Francisco fifty-two years ago. In the course of his career he has travelled in every part of the world where gold has been found, or where its presence has been suspected. If he says "yes," financial kings will spend millions for purchase or development of gold mines. He has highly skilled assistants, who visit mines all over the world and report to him. It is understood that his present regular salaries come almost entirely from European capitalists interested in South African mines. Of course $800,000 a year is too big a sum to be called salary, but it is interesting to observe that so much can be made by an individual and quite honestly.

NOT POLITE AS THE NEIGHBORS.

Mrs. Noddy—Prof. Adagio called at our house yesterday and my daughter played the piano for him. He just raved over her playing.

Mrs. Peppery—How rude. Why couldn't he conceal his feelings the way the rest of us do.

THE CITY DREDGE WHICH SINCE ITS RETURN from up river has been at work at Indiantown, has completed work at the May Queen wharf and at Stetson & Cutler's and will be put to work immediately at the city dock at the foot of Main street.

SAID GOVERNOR COBB

DENOUNCED STURGIS LAW

A Lively Time at a Temperance Convention.
In Maine.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., July 31.—During a second day's session today of the Maine Temperance Society, a telegram was received announcing the passage by the Georgia Legislature of a prohibitory liquor law. The prayer and praise service which was going on at this time was changed into a meeting of general congratulations. The audience received the announcement with tears and handclapping while the leaders on the platform clasped hands enthusiastically. During the praise service yesterday a special prayer was offered for the passage of the Georgia law. Following the receipt of the news today congratulatory telegrams were framed and sent to the governor of Georgia, Smith, and to Mrs. Armour, president of the Georgia's Women's Christian Temperance Union.

An incident of today's session was the response of Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens, president of the National W. C. T. U., to one of the questions presented in the open parliament. The question had reference to the toast alleged to have been made by Governor Cobb at a recent banquet at Cape Porpoise. According to a published report of the incident, Governor Cobb proposed the toast:—"To hell with the Sturgis law."

Mrs. Stevens, speaking in reply to the question whether Governor Cobb had made the toast, said that she had read his only knowledge of the matter was from a Portland man who called Governor Cobb on the telephone on the morning after the publication. According to this Portland man, quoted by Mrs. Stevens, Governor Cobb said over the telephone, when asked if he had proposed the toast:—

"I didn't suppose anyone in Maine would think I was fool enough to do so. I consider it beneath my dignity to even make a reply."

The general opinion of the temperance workers seemed to be that the governor had been misquoted, in view of the statement of Mrs. Stevens.

Among the speakers today were Mrs. Anna Gordon, of Illinois; Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens, of Portland; Mrs. E. R. Richardson, president of the New Hampshire W. C. T. U.; and Mrs. M. E. Sanderson, treasurer of the World's W. C. T. U.
