

Princess With the Golden Locks

Men of many nations have pronounced the Princess Henry of Pless the most beautiful woman they have ever seen. She inherited her charms from her mother, Mrs. Cornwallis West, who was regarded a famous beauty when in her prime less than a generation ago. The Princess Henry is a pronounced blond, of medium height, slender and graceful, gray eyes and a perfect complexion. In 1891, at the age of seventeen, she married Prince Hans Heinrich of Pless. The wedding caused a great deal of talk because she was simply a commoner. Bystanders immediately started to look up Miss West's family tree, and it was found that she was a direct descendant of King Edward III. of England. She is nicknamed "The Princess with the golden locks," is very fond of yachting, hunting and sport in general, and the German noblemen hold up their hands in horror when she rides to hounds and shoots pheasants in the park at Pustentstein. Prince Henry is of the Silesian nobility and at his father's death inherited a fortune of $20,000,000.
