BETTER THAN GOLD. Better than grandeur, better than gold, Than rank and titles a hundred fold, Than rank and titles a hundred fold, is a healthy body, a mind a simple pleasure that always please. A heart that can feel for a neighbour's woe, And share his joy with a genial glow, With sympathies large enough to enfold, All men as brothers, is better than gold.

Better than gold is a conscience clear, Though toiling for bread in a humble sphere, Doubly blest with content and health. Untried by the last or the cases of wealth. Lowly living and lotty thought
Adorn and encode the poor man's cot,
For mind and morals, or nature's plan,
Are the genuine test of a gentleman.

Better than gold is the sweet repose
Of the sons of toil when their labors close;
Better than gold is the poor man's sleep,
And the balm that drops on his slumbers deep
Brings sleeping draughts to the downy bed
Where luxury pillows his aching head;
His simpler opiate Labor deems
A shorter Road to the land of dreams.

Better than gold is a thinking mind,
That in realms of thought and books can find
A treasure surpassing Australian ore,
And live with the great and the good of yore.
The sage's lore and the poet's lay,
The glories of empires passed away,
The world's great drama will thus unfold,
And yield a pleasure better than gold.

Better than gold is a peaceful home,
Where all the fireside charities come;
The shrine of love and the heaven of life,
Hallowed by mother, or sister or wife.
However humble that home may be,
Or tried, with sorrows by Heaven's decree,
The blessings that never were bought or sold,
And centre there are better than gold.

Better than gold in silliction's hour
Is the balm of love with its soothing power;
Better than gold on a dying bed
is the hand that pillows the sinking head.
When the pride and glor; of life decay,
And earth and its vanities fade away,
The prostrate sufferer need not be told
That trust in Heaven is better than gold.

fects thereof. After Hoy had recovered from the effects of the poisoning, his son made another attempt upon his life, by shooting him while asleep in his bed. The shot took effect in his body, and though the man was living at last accounts, it was thought that he could not recover. As the case is a matter for the Assizes, the prisoner must await trial till that time.

The circumstances of this case are maccountable. Though it is said that difficulty will be experienced in proving the case against the boy, no one seems to doubt his guilt. Although every one seems to believe that he must have been instigated by some one to commit the crime laid to hi charge, no evidence has been obtained, which indicates in any way by whom he was instigated. A gentleman with whom the boy Samuel Hoy lived for some time speaks of him as a mild well-behaved youth—one of the last who could have been suspected of so barbarous a crime.—Cornwall Economist.

He had been up the Assiniboine visiting, and while returning to his quarters in Fort Garry sunk into snow-bank. In his struggles he lost his mit-tens and thus exposed his hands to the mer-ciless cold. About 10 o'clock he was observed by a man passing on the river, and was by him and others conveyed into the

There is no subject which appears to be so deeply involved in mystery as the nature and domestic economy of the honey bee—Unlike the culture and production of all other animate beings that pertain to rural life, something new in the features of this insect is constantly arising—something that we cannot comprehend. It seems to be one of the greatest difficulties, to lay down specific rules for the treatment of bees that will apply in all cases; so that all people, whether experienced or otherwise in the science, shall be able to manage them successfully. From some twenty years close study of the babits of bees, I have been able to throw some light upon the subject. I have also been aided by the experience of many apiarians in various sections of the country.

I have found that hives should contain about 2,000 cubic inches, in the clear to do best. The best shape is either square or slightly oblong. No chambers, but caps to remove at pleasure. The communication from the lower to the upper section to be through inch and a quarter holes, and the more of them the better. Any patent hive that professes any other qualities than right dimensions, shape and the simplification of managing bees, is a humbug. There is no value in any hive having its series of drawers professing to be valuable for receiving the combs, or changing bees from old to new combs by their own natural labors. Hives that divide in two parts vertically to form swarms artificially, had better be used for combs, or changing bees from old to new combs by their own natural labors. Hives that divide in two parts vertically to form swarms artificially, had better be used for kindling wood. Believe no man who comes forward with a tissue of representations that he has invented a hive, "moth proof." It will not be done in our day. The only proof against the moth lies in the strength of the family, and in our watchfulness in destroying this enemy to bees in any way possible. Bees cannot be kept with profit and success without care and attention. When they lack honey they must be fed. Feeding may be easily effected at this season by turning the hives over, and laying combs of honey upon the combs of the hive, or a piece of empty comb may be filled with liquid honey, and laid thereon. In April, when the bees come out freely, you may feed syrup of sugar made by heating sugar with water. Honey will set them to robbing. Be careful to keep the entrances contracted so that but few bees can pass at a time, lest a general robbery take place whether fed or not. You need never fear robbing if you attend to this point in the spring and fall.

The Montreal papers notice another instance of the bountiful liberality of the Moloson family. Some time since the three brothers—the Hon. John, William and thomas Molson endowed the chair of English Literature in Mc Gill College with a gift of £5,000. Now Mr. William Molson has intimated his intention of immediately constructing, at his own expense, the West Wing of the building of the same college, which, though a part of the Original plan, has, for lack of funds, never been erected.—This Wing will contain the Convocation Room and Library of the University, and is to be called the Molson Wing. TRAGEDY IN MOUNTAIN.

On Monday last, a young boy aged about ten years, was committed to jail in this town, on a charge of a most revolting and unnatural character. The boy's name is Samuel Hoy, his father William Hoy, resides in the rear of the township of Mountain. The mother of the boy has been dead for some years. The unfortunate young lad comes to the prison charged with a series of attempts to murder his father. He seems from some expressions of his which are reported, to have been brooding over the notion that if his father was dead, he would come into possession of the farm. Some time ago, the lad procured a viol of strychnine at Kemptville, by representing himself as the son of a French Canadian who had been in the habit

Mr Coulter, from the Committee on Contingencies submitted their 2nd report which was read and adopted as follows, viz. To the Warden and Council of the United Counties of Lanark and Renfrew.

Your Committee of Contingencies beg leave to submit this their second Report.

Having had before them the Petition of James Holiday, praying for the sum of twenty pounds as compensation for expense of survey maps, legal advice, damages &c., which he received in consequence of the repealing of a certain By-law passed in October 1858, and having fully considered the matter, your Committee cannot find that tober 1858, and having fully considered the matter, your Committee cannot find that ever this Council ordered such survey and expenditure to be incurred, and therefore cannot recommend the prayer of the Petitioner—But would recommend that the said James Holiday be refunded one Dollar being the sum paid by him to the Council.

2. In reference to the Petition of John C. Holiday et. al. claiming remuneration for expenses incurred in resisting the Action of James Holiday for trespass, your Committee are of opinion that this Council is in no way liable for the consequences of such proceedings on the part of James Holiday, and they they therefore cannot recommend the granting of the prayer of said Petition.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
