Modern Fables.

There was once a steer that was wonder from the time of his childhood. When he was a yearling he out-weighed any 2-year-old in his township, and before he was 3 he could make a steer that weighed a ton look like 30 cents. Then a man bought him and took him round to a country fair and exhibited him to the people at 10 cents per look. And still the steer cor ued to get bigger and bigger until it was necessary to knock out the side or a barn to let him in. And the steer grew proud and haughty on account of all this public notice and concluded as he chewed his cud that he was about the best thing that ever came down the pike. Finally his owner concluded to go out of the show business and decided that he would sell the steer at auction. There was a rattling big crowd at the sale, for everybody in the state had heard of the steer. The crowd, in fact, was so big that it blocked the street so that it was necessary to call the police to clear the road for the street cars. As the fat steer looked around on that crowd and heard the bids he said to himself, "I am certainly a very warm number. The governor couldn't attract half as big a crowd as Finally he was bought by a local butcher and led carefully away to a stall in a cattle shed. In the next stall was an undersized runt of Texas parentage which would weigh about 650. The great steer sniffed at the runt as he was led into his stall, but the runt only said as he gathered in another wisp of prairie hay, "You think you are a great many ust now, by beauty, but unless I am badly off my trolley, I can see your finish within the next 24 hours." And within 10 hours after this the carcase of the great steer was hanging up on exhibition in front of the I often die soon, tho' I sometimes live butcher shop with a tag attached stating that the choice cuts from this carcase could be had for $1 per lb. Then the runty Texas steer tossed its head in triumph and said, "What did I tell you?" In less than two months the runty Texan was filling tin cans and being devoured by an unsuspecting public under the impression that they were eating choice reast beef.
