A RATHER LARGE PARISH

LAST week the head of one of the largest advertising departments in Canada telephoned this office:

"My brother, three years at the front, wrote me the other day to say that he saw my name in your paper in a report of a minstrel show given at an art club in Toronto last March. He says he saw it on a page of the Canadian Courier tacked up on a post in a dug-out. He appropriated the page, a whizz-bang struck the neighborhood of the dugout, he left suddenly, kept the page, sent it to England—and I want a copy of that issue, please."

Next day a subscriber in Havana wrote: "I am making up a list of some of the ridiculous-ities of this war from the beginning—an impossible task to make really complete, of course—and I wonder if I could get those numbers of your paper in which it was stated that the British-Canadian Navy people had almost opened fire on a submarine (bought from the U.S.) as it entered Esquimalt harbor—and the number in which there was an article about the number of spies in Belgium among the Belgians? I sent this number to the London Times, as they asked me for it."

The Interpreter

In relations between peoples speaking different languages, especially when such peoples are joined as allies, competent interpreters are requisite for intelligent co-operation.

Qualifications for an interpreter consist largely in a correct knowledge of the language, the different points of view, and the mental habits of each people to whom he acts as interpreter.

With its news bureaus, its advertising offices, and its circulation all over the world, The Christian Science Monitor is able to gather and express correct knowledge of all peoples, and all viewpoints, and, speaking the language of Principle understandable to all peoples—it is the interpreter of those ideals toward which the world is being so rapidly impelled today.

Intelligent co-operation in the exposition and solution of the world's menacing problems can be extended by encouraging the reading and circulation of this daily interpreter.

The Christian Science Monitor, 3c a copy, is on general sale throughout the world at news stands, hotels and Christian Science reading rooms. Yearly subscription by mail anywhere in the world, $9.00, or one month trial subscription for 75c.

The Waltham Watch

A GOOD case often holds a watch movement entirely devoid of merit. But this shouldn't be, because a good movement is the prime essential of a time-piece. The Waltham 19 and 23 jewel movements, cased in gold-filled or solid gold of various weights, form the ideal combination of beauty in exterior and complete reliability of mechanism. Buy your watch on the reputation of the maker—that's the safe way. And remember, the Waltham reputation was established more than sixty years ago, since which time Waltham movements have earned the confidence of several succeeding generations of exacting watch buyers.

Ask your jeweler to show you his range of high-grade Waltham Watches.
