

Homes needed in July for visiting students

The Experiment in International Living of Canada needs Mississaugans who will welcome French Canadian students into their homes. The young exchange-students will spend two weeks at Erindale College arriving July 3, but it is hoped that local families will host the young people on the third week of the program (July 16-23).

During their stay on campus, the students will concentrate on improving their use of the English language and cultural orientation. But it is hoped that the third week when they will stay with a local English-speaking family — will be the week they will remember.

The experiment has been successful in past years and both departing students and their hosts have been enthusiastic about the program.

It is particularly valuable if the host home has teen-agers who also can benefit from the experience.

If you can help, call 494-7873.

RHODODENDRON SOCIETY PRESIDENT
Kathy Leishman of Mississauga was elected president at the sixth annual meeting of the Rhododendron Society of Canada held June 4 at the Civic Garden Centre, Don Mills.

A native of Vancouver, Mrs. Leishman comes from a family of enthusiastic gardeners. In her Arrowhead Road garden she has many examples of hybrid deciduous azaleas produced by her late father.

SUMMER Y CAMP
Y day camps begin July 4 at Camp Kelso and Albion Hills. The two-week camp starts July 4, July 18, August 1 and 15 with a one-week camp starting August 29. To register call 451-1400 (if west of Highway 10) or 231-2297 (if east of 10).

WHEELCHAIR DAY
To give the public a brief first-hand experience at what it is like to go up and down curbs and through narrow doorways, the Peel Association for Handicapped Adults is inviting the general public to Square One shopping centre Saturday, June 18 to go through a wheelchair obstacle course.

The obstacle course, to be set up in the Dominion Court between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., is a series of ramps and pylons designed to simulate many of the daily obstacles encountered, not only by wheelchair users, but by a great many other physically disabled people venturing out into the community. The course is open to anyone wishing to try it and wheelchairs will be available.

bulletin board

For the residents of Peel a wheelchair clinic will be set up in the mall to make minor repairs.

The Peel Association for Handicapped Adults (PAHA), is the Peel representative of the Ontario March of Dimes which is supported in the region by the Peel United Way.

Mayor Ron Searle will be attempting the course sometime around 2:00 p.m.

crafts so they can demonstrate them to the public.

Finally volunteers are needed to promote the gallery to various art groups and to set up tours.

Interested persons should contact Bill Barber at the museum at 451-9051.

NEW COURSE FOR COUNSELLORS

Hundreds of vacancies currently exist in Ontario in the field of working with the mentally retarded according to an estimate by the ministry of community and social services. To help meet the need for skilled mental retardation counsellors, Sheridan College will offer, beginning this fall, a one-semester certificate program in developmental care for the retarded.

The 17-week program, approved by the mental retardation facilities division of the community and social services ministry, is the first of its kind to be offered by an Ontario community college.

To be held at the Oakville campus, it is designed primarily for persons already working with the retarded or who are graduates of a post-secondary program in the special education, social or health sciences areas and who plan to pursue a career in this field.

For this reason, the program has been kept short and intensive, concentrating only on the essential skills needed to work with the retarded in a developmental care setting.

A flexible entry schedule also enables students to begin the program in either Sept. or Jan. and complete it either full-time or part-time during days or evenings.

Persons who are not employed in the mental retardation field but have at least one year of post-secondary education will only be admitted if class size permits.

The Mississauga North Theatre gave their first public performance on the weekend in the new Malton Community Centre. Here Gerry Campbell who directed the play as well as playing Henry gets a slap from Veronica Fisher who played Vicky while James Gurrrie, playing James, responds. If anyone is interested in joining the new group call Campbell at 826-1612.
