

it, also his name, the following day, took him into the Fort, when I laid the necessary information. Supt Cotton immediately wired to the Constable in charge of the detachment at Lethbridge, had the man arrested and brought to Macleod. The man, McEwen or McEwan pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to six months imprisonment and to a fine of $300⁰⁰, I think Frank deserves great credit for the manner in which he worked up this case.

I am aware that I acted contrary to law, but I think you will agree with me when I say, "the end justified the means,"

Later on another white man, arrived on the Reserve to trade whiskey to the Indians. "Day Chief" one of the most influential Indians among the Bloods, seized the bridle of the white man's horse and succeeded in holding him, until assisted by friends, where
