C 18717

during the summer of 1904 a special investigation was conducted by the factory inspectors of Pennsylvania into the mill with a view to seeing if such conditions existed as would warrant the asking for legislative measures to adjust if not abolish the tenement-house work in that State. A special law on the subject passed at the time ~~was~~ <sup>marked</sup> the fruit of this investigation. (18)

One of the results of legislative enactments in certain of the States was to cause the firms or corporations affected to have their goods manufactured in other and adjoining States, where they were not subject to the restrictive measures obtaining in the original State, and where
