The Best

IT PAYS BEST IN THE END Have you seen the catalogue of the CANADA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Chatham, Ont.

IT NOT, you are not yet familiar with the best Canada has to offer in the lines of BUSINESS TRAINING, SHORTHAND OF PERMANENCE. We have supplied more teachers for other business schools than all other Canadian business colleges combined.

Get our pupils have secured good positions during the past year. Send for list and hand-out catalogue. Good board for ladies at $2 per week, gents $2.50.

We pay railway fare.

If circumstances will not allow you to attend at Chatham, you can get instruction by mail, in BOOK-KEEPING, SHORTHAND OF PERMANENCE from Canada's greatest school of business, by addressing:

D. McLAUGHLIN & CO., Chatham, Ont.

ST. THOMAS Business COLLEGE

Four applications from other business colleges for teachers, in our request for last week. We cannot supply the demand on our school for such help.

We do not place 300 students in positions in one year; neither does any other Canadian College. No ONE Canadian College ever prepared 300 students for office work in one year. These are facts that cannot be contradicted.

We stake our reputation upon EDUCATIONAL RESULTS and will refund the money to any student who is not satisfied with the instruction given in our school, after a trial of one month.

Now is the best time to enter. H. T. GOUGH, Principal, St. Thomas, Ont.

EX-BANDIT AS ACTOR

Frank James Has the Part of Prosperous Westerner in "Across the Desert."

He Will Wear a Prince Albert Coat and Claims the Play is not "Blood and Thunder."

St. Louis, Nov. 21.—Frank James is going on the stage. His first appearance will be made at Zanesville, Ohio, Monday, Nov. 25. The play is entitled "Across the Desert," and the season will last ten weeks. The company will tour Ohio and other States east of Illinois and a part of Canada. It will not appear in St. Louis.

On the billboards and the theatre programs Frank James will appear under his own name. He will portray the character of prosperous Westerner and will be seen in a Prince Albert coat, creased trousers and a "Fedora" hat. He will open the fourth act, and the curtain will go down with Frank James in the centre of the stage.

NO LONGER A TICKET TAKER. He will be seen no more, this year at least, in his old familiar post as ticket taker at the Standard Theatre.

When seen to-night, Mr. James said: "The report is true. I have contracted to appear for a brief, and I hope, an inconspicuous part in a drama which already has made a good deal of money. I have said nothing about it here, not because I am blind to the advantages of advertising, but because the troupe does not come this far west and because advertising here would be without benefit, while it would provoke much inquiry and discussion."

"This move marks a radical change of purpose on my part, but the development of conditions has been such as to make my course a rational one. Now, without offense to public sentiment, I can do what I could not have done years ago before I had given indisputable proof by my conduct that the apprehensions of those who had no faith in me were groundless."

DOESN'T EXPECT TO BE AN ACTOR.

"I do not expect to become an actor, in the true sense of the word. I do not delude myself with the belief that I have any talent in that direction. I do not think that any of the many men who have offered me inducements to go on the stage did so because they thought I had the ability to act. Whatever value I possess as a theatrical attraction comes from the limited facts and the liberal fiction woven into the published stories about Quantrell's men and the James boys. My appearance on the stage, therefore, will be more of a personal exhibition than a dramatic performance."

NO "BLOOD AND THUNDER."

"This drama is not made up of 'blood and thunder.' I will not have anything to do with a performance which idealizes law breaking and makes a hero of the law breaker. It will require no phenomenal ability to draft or revise a play so as to serve the purpose of bringing me before the audience and gratifying their curiosity without teaching an immoral lesson or inviting applause for violence. Whatever I appear in will be clean and wholesome and my part will be a small one. Offers of all the way from $300 to $1,000 have been made to me, some of them from thoroughly responsible people, but all of them were based on my public appearance under conditions which I regarded as out of keeping with the record of citizenship I desired to make."

HOW HE EARNED A LIVING.

"My thorough knowledge of horses fitted me for an honorable place in connection with race meetings and that enabled me to piece out my income so that I was able to live comfortably, and provide a modest education for my boy. In the past three years, when I officiated at races in the smaller cities of Ohio and Kentucky, it was plain that a large number of those who attempted to come to the races were there to see me. I dined upon me finally that, as much as I disliked the idea of appearing on exhibition, I really was doing it in every case where I appeared as a race horse, and I was not doing it too without any financial benefit to myself."

PUBLICITY SHOULD BRING PROFIT.

"I reasoned this way: I am getting old and unless I build up a small surplus within the next few years I must find my way to the Confederate Home. I convinced myself that my future appearance in public ought to bring me a profit. When, a few weeks ago, a favorable offer came to me involving my appearance in one act of a clean play that was already earning good money, I was in a frame of mind to consider it favorably and finally I accepted."

"I am satisfied that my course will not be criticised by any real friend or by any one else except the limited class, whose ill-will has outlived my acquittal by the courts in the land and my nineteen years' record as an unoffending and self-respecting citizen of St. Louis."

A SENSATIONAL OCCURRENCE.

Decatur, Ala., Nov. 20.—Jas. Wynn, an Oxford blacksmith, narrowly escaped being buried alive to-day. After the funeral services the coffin was opened at the grave, when the body was seen to move. The casket was hurried back to the house of Wynn, where he revived and is now under treatment. Wynn had been pronounced dead by physicians, and he lay apparently dead for two nights and a day.

CAUSE OF DEAFNESS

The Most Common Cause Only Recently Discovered.

It has been stated on good medical authority, that nine-tenths of cases of deafness are caused from Catarrh or from sore throat trouble. The little tube which leads to the ear from the throat is lined with a sort of velvety structure called the mucous membrane. This membrane is simply a continuance of the mucous membrane lining of the throat. When disease of any sort attacks the mucous membrane of the throat it is very liable to extend into the eustachian tube and up into the ear.

The history of nearly all cases of deafness is like this: a cold is contracted and neglected, other colds are taken, the throat becomes sore and inflamed, which is aggravated by particles of dust and germs from the air. This condition causes the disease to spread into the tube that leads to the ear.

It seems a little far fetched to say that most cases of deafness are caused from catarrh, but it is certainly true, and anyone who has had a severe catarrhal course of the throat has noticed how the hearing was affected while the cold lasted.

With catarrh suffers this impairment of hearing becomes chronic and grows worse the longer the catarrh is neglected.

You can cure catarrh and deafness by the regular use of an excellent new preparation called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, composed of antiseptic remedies which act both on the mucous membranes, but principally and most effectually on the blood, elimination the catarrhal poison from the system.

People whose hearing is defective may think it a little remarkable that a simple and harmless tablet would very often remove all traces of deafness, but when it is remembered that the catarrh is easily cured by the regular use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets there is no mystery about it.

If you are subject to nasal catarrh or catarrh of throat, bronchial tubes or catarrh of stomach and liver, the safest and most effective treatment is the regular use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, sold by all druggists at 50c for full sized package.

THE SORTING OF EGGS.

"The work of sorting eggs is assigned to girls in Denmark, and they are said to become most expert in the process. Danish producers deliver their eggs at special depots on a cooperative plan, and the eggs must all be subjected to examination for defects, then classified and stamped with the owner's name. The force ordinarily employed at one of these depots consists of four girls, and an examiner, and, with the help of the apparatus specially prepared for the purpose, they are able to pack and classify 1,440 eggs in ten minutes."

The above clipping was handed to The Planet to-day by one of the workmen at McNaughton & Walker's storehouse. He claims that this record is hardly a good second to the work done by some of the candlers of this well-known firm.

He Did It.

The helpfulness of a good man, when it comes to assistance in domestic affairs, is apt to be very much like that of the Mr. Barker whose exploit is narrated below:

"His wife had asked him to hang a picture she had purchased for the parlor, and he had said that he would do it in a 'jiffy.' 'You must get me a cord and a picture hook,' he said to his wife. 'And tell the servant girl to run down cellar and bring up the step-ladder and carry it into the parlor; and where's those two little screw thing-majigs that go into the back of the frame at the sides to put the cord through? Look them up for me, and I'll need the gimlet to bore a little hole for the screws.' 'Somebody get the gimlet, or may-be I can drive them in with a hammer.' 'I don't know, but a chair will be better than the step-ladder for me to stand on. Somebody go out into the kitchen and get me a chair. I don't want to stand on one of the parlor chairs.' 'Get that cord? Just measure off about the right length and fasten it in those little things at the side.' 'There now, there's your picture all hung up in good shape, and no fuss about it. The difference between us men and you women is that when we have something to do we go right ahead and do it, and no talk about it.'"

The Fright the Ghost Had.

During a confirmation tour in the Diocese of Peterborough, the late Bishop of London put up one evening at an old manor house and slept in a room supposed to be haunted. Next morning at breakfast the bishop was asked whether he had seen the ghost. "Yes," he replied, "with great solemnity; but I have laid the spirit; it will never trouble you again." Being further questioned upon the subject, the bishop said: "The ghost instantly vanished when I asked for a subscription towards the restoration of Peterborough Cathedral."

Respecting a Reflection.

The Soprano's Maid.—My mistress had five bouquets thrown at her during the first act. The Contralto's Maid (disdainfully)—Indeed? How nice! I'll bet she paid for them herself. The Soprano's Maid.—Of course, she did! She doesn't have to have things charged like some people I know do.

Men's Underwear and Socks

We believe more sorts and classes of underwear are now on sale here than have been gathered together before in any store in this city.

But that's only a part of the store. The more important part is that they are all wantable kinds. We haven't catered to men and boys all these years without learning how to provide underwear.

Best of all is the light demand these goods make upon your pocket-book. Big, direct buying tells in every line of goods, and very specially in underwear. Compare our prices with others even in the staple line. We submit a random item or two from the scores of styles and prices.

Boys' all-wool heavy plain gray underwear, with saten facing and ribbed borders, sizes 5 to 16 years, per garment $1.00 to $1.50

Men's heavy plain wool underwear, with ribbed skirt, cuffs and ankle, shirts saten finished, sizes 36, 38 and 40, per garment $1.00 to $1.50

Thornton & Douglas

Tolstoi on Death.

"I am feeling better," said Tolstoi to a recent interviewer at Moscow, "and to tell the truth I am rather sorry for it, as I love to be ill."

"Sickness and suffering destroy what is mortal in man solely to prepare him for something better." And lowering his voice, he continued: "Don't let Sophie Andrejevna [the Countess] hear us. Between you and me, I wouldn't like to get well again. If I do I promise you to write down the thoughts on life and death—if there is such a thing as death—that have crystallized in my brain during the past weeks while I lay here prostrate, undisturbed, happy. Their upshot is that death is but an incident, an episode in our present existence, while life itself never terminates."

"Hence death has nothing terrible; it depends only an intermezzo in eternal life. As the slave looks for the liberator so I look for death—look for it any moment, would welcome it under all circumstances. And when it does come a shout of joy shall arise from my breast like that escaping the mouth of a new-born babe entering upon the phase of life which you and I are now enduring."

An anecdote of a wretched-looking tramp arrested for vagrancy the other day in Brooklyn, tells us, on the other hand, something of the hold a mother has upon her child. When the man was searched by the officers, a soiled photograph of a young woman was found in his clothing. Beggars' explanations usually find a more credulous audience outside of the police station, but the officers heard the tramp's story and believed it. He declared that the photograph was a picture of his mother.

"She's an old woman now," he said, "if she is alive. I've carried that picture for many a year. I didn't follow the road she marked out for me—the more shame to me, but her face has been with me in every state in the Union. I wouldn't part with it for anything in this world. Keep it for me, and let me have it when I go."

Mother love is a holy thing. Pitiful, and more than pitiful, is the baseness that will drag it in the mud. But it outlives even that indignity.

Strong Men.

The Roman soldiers, who built such wonderful roads and carried a weight of armour and luggage that would crush the average farm-hand, lived on coarse brown bread and sour wine. They were temperate in diet and regular and constant in exercise. The Spanish peasant works every day and dances half the night, yet eats only his black bread, onion and watermelon. The Smyrna porter eats only a little fruit and sour olives, yet he walks off with his load of one hundred pounds. The coolie, fed on rice, is more active and can endure more than the negro, fed on fat meat.

Insincerity.

"Our civilization demands a greater or lesser degree of mendacity," remarked the abstruse person. "We are constantly uttering some empty phrase, some conventional remark which is absolutely devoid of sincerity."

"That's right," answered the book agent. "That's perfectly true. I am reminded of it every time I walk up to a front step where there is a doormat with the word 'welcome' on it."

A Drama in Four Acts.

How many young men who are actors in the first part of this drama, have ever rehearsed in thought the parts they may take in the last three acts?

Act I.—Before the bar of the school.

Act II.—Before the bar of the court.

Act III.—Before the bar of the prison.

Act IV.—Before the bar of God.

He is richest who is content with the least; for content is the wealth of Nature.
