

VI.

JUNE hath XXX Days.

17N.

And univerſal gratitude inſpire,
To him who on the whirlwind rides,
And in his graſp confines the raging tides;

To him, the grand primæval
cauſe

Of ev'ry beauteous ſcene;

Who regulates creation's laws,
And ſits enthron'd with juſtice, clemency, and faith ſerene.

III.

Thus hoary age for buxom youth
makes room,

Upon whoſe cheeks ceſteſtial roſes
bloom,

Whoſe blood flows rapid thro' the
veins,

Where glowing health with vigor
reigns:

Who love to trip the mazy dance,

And with the fav'rite fair advance;

To feel the pleaſing ſoft alarms

Of muſic's fascinating charms;

To join the clamor of the chace,

Outtrip the arrow in the race;
