Following the policy of the War office it is not possible to give details of men and equipment at these camps, but as the work of training is conducted on such a large scale it may be said that the aviation school at Camp Borden represents the last word in efficiency. Work commenced on the 4th of, February last, when there were four feet of snow on the ground. One and a half miles of railway track was laid on the snow, and 25,000 feet of asphalt roadway laid in the middle of winter. This is the first time that an attempt has been made to lay asphalt while the frost was in the ground. The road is in good condition to-day and it has already saved its cost. The school is complete in every detail. There are fifty-saven hilldings in all all and the sound and all all in the middle of winter. The school is complete in every detail. There
