Curzon's Handling of Foreign Office Peeves Baldwin

(By HENRY WALES)
PARIS, Sept. 21.—Serious differences of opinion exist between the British Prime Minister, Stanley Baldwin, and Lord Curzon, according to reports in well-informed French circles.

Mr. Baldwin is understood to be extremely dissatisfied with the way the Foreign Secretary handled the recent series of international diplomatic incidents, in which he was badly worsted every time. It is even hinted that there may be a change in the British Foreign Office after Mr. Baldwin returns to Downing Street and gets back in the saddle.

Curzon Disappointed.
Lord Curzon is understood to be bitterly peeved because of Mr. Baldwin's long conversation with Premier Poincaré, on the ground that it intrudes on his prerogative as Foreign Secretary.

This, it is explained, is the reason a number of London newspapers belittle the progress made by Mr. Baldwin at the luncheon Wednesday with Premier Poincaré at the Embassy here.

Close friends of Mr. Baldwin indicate that the Prime Minister is highly provoked over Great Britain's muddle in the Ruhr affair when Lord Curzon threatened France, in a speech in Parliament, that he would take independent action toward Germany unless France abandoned its policy and embraced Lord Curzon's viewpoint immediately.

Failure in Italo-Greek Crisis.
Private advice conveyed to Mr. Baldwin lead him to believe Premier Poincaré will soon score a big victory over Germany by the abandonment of the Ruhr resistance and Berlin's offer to pay a revised indemnity total.

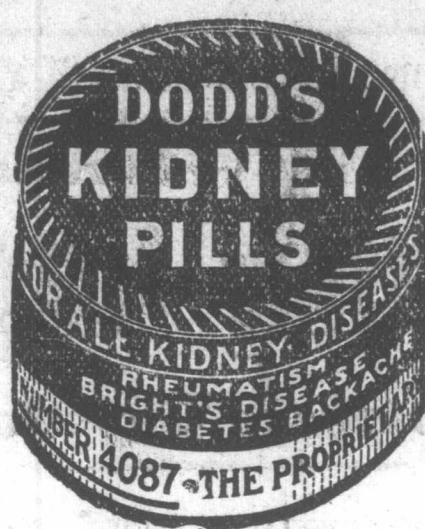

Mr. Baldwin is also discomfited by Lord Curzon's failure in the Italo-Greek controversy, when the Foreign Secretary backed Lord Robert Cecil to handle the matter at Geneva, while Premier Poincaré succeeded in keeping the affair in the hands of the Ambassadors' Council.

EXHIBITION BUILDINGS AT WEMBLEY

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The many types of buildings now in course of erection in the British Empire Exhibition Grounds at Wembley, provide an interesting and instructive study in art, utilitarianism and national ideals. No two buildings are alike; each dominates its site by a long line of architecture different from each other, with national characteristics predominating.

The Canadian structure will probably attract attention as much for the artistry employed in its design as for its embodiment of the Canadian national ideals. It is situated at the head of the main artery leading from the northern to the southern bounds of the exhibition. By adherence to ancient Greek lines of architecture, the artist has succeeded in endowing Canada's edifice with a dignity that will make it conspicuous in the Exhibition.

In addition to merit of design, the pavilion will be imposing for its size also. It has a frontage of 415 feet, a depth of 250 feet and a height of nearly seventy-five feet, making it nearly, if not quite, the largest Dominion building to be erected at Wembley, and requiring for its completion, about seven hundred artisans and workmen.

HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE

The future of Mexico lies in the establishment of 7,000 primary schools throughout the republic, according to Enrique Corona, of the Department of Public Instruction. He declared that, of the 14,000,000 inhabitants of Mexico, 8,000,000 are illiterate, and that 4,000,000 of these illiterates cannot even speak Spanish, but cling to ancient Indian dialects.

Street singers in London and the other large British cities find their occupation so remunerative that they have refused offers of $50.00 a week to appear on the stage.

London is flooded with these singers but they seem to prosper even above the noise of the traffic. Often they appear in groups of five and six and sometimes they literally line up along the curbs of the principal thoroughfares.

Barrier trading with Russia has been carried on for some time in small transactions, but the first steamer to carry a full load of goods for barter is shortly leaving Grimsby for the Kara Sea. This is the steamer "Trotzky," owned by the Russian Norwegian Navigation Company, which will carry tea, coffee, wines, textiles and agricultural implements to be exchanged for furs, skins, swansdown and horsehair. These will be brought by caravan a distance of 2,000 miles to a point on the Kara Sea, which the "Trotzky" will touch at.

A wax mask of Napoleon, made a few hours after the Emperor's death by an English surgeon of the 20th Regiment of Infantry, has just been found hidden away in a house in a small French town.

Some years after Napoleon's death the mask was sent to England, where it was purchased by a Russian diplomat and presented by him to the Czar Alexander I. Later it was taken to Holland and Bavaria, but for the past 20 years it has been lost.

An eye lash can still be seen attached to the mould.

Quack doctors have made their appearance in almost all the villages of Siberia, of ring to cure any of the ill flesh is heir to, and some of their alleged remedies are marvellous.

In the Nikolai district a doctor has appeared who undertakes the cure of consumption in all stages. As consumption is rather widespread in the district his patients are many, and the man is rapidly making a fortune. His remedy is a concoction of cabbage and milk boiled together for some hours by a "secret process."

Other and more dangerous quacks are making fortunes for the moment. But the situation is such that the authorities have decided to step in and protect the credulous people.

Mining activities in the Portland Canal Region of British Columbia and southeastern Alaska have been greater during the past summer than ever before in the history of the district, according to advices from various sources reaching Seattle. A dispatch from Hyder, Alaska, center of the area, says new and important discoveries had been made during the season, more prospectors are in the field than ever before, and development work is being carried on extensively.

Especially important finds were made in the Texas Creek and Chikamen alley sections, both in American territory, where silver-lead ore running more than $100 to the ton in silver content was said to have been uncovered.

Seven war vessels at Philadelphia Navy Yard are to be scrapped under the provisions of the Treaty for the Limitation of Armaments, recently approved. They include two cruisers and five battleships.

The cruisers are the Constitution and the United States, which had been under construction at the navy yard for some time. They are to be scrapped at once, acetylene torches being used to cut them to pieces. A little later workmen will start on the five battleships consigned to the international junk heap. Four of them, the Minnesota, South Carolina, Michigan and New Hampshire, are out of commission and have been

"Is it possible to boil fish and have the flesh look white and not so dark looking as it is apt to look," asked Mrs. Newby.

"Fish may be boiled and come to the table looking white and nice if, when it is boiled the juice of half a lemon is added to the water," replied Mrs. Neighbor.

laying in the storage basin at the navy yard for months. The fifth, the South Carolina, will have a fitting end to a long career, for she will be taken to sea and sunk, in tests of various deck and under-water attacking methods lately devised by the Navy Department engineers.

An eighteen battleship, the Washington, which was under construction at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation's yard in Camden, N.J., also will be shattered by the gunfire and torpedo attack of the Atlantic fleet.
