HARTLAND, N. B., OCT. 2, 1919

THE CAMPAIGN

Ordinarily The Observer prides itself on getting the inside story of any live news feature, but today it confesses itself badly beaten. Readers are keen to know what the good old Liberals and the wicked old Tories are going to do about the by-election due Oct. 27, only 25 days in the future. If they do not do something quickly they need not bother doing it all. Which will perhaps be just as well. If the parties' engineers know what they are going to do, they are uncommonly tight-lipped about it. It can be quite readily understood that the Liberals, left all in a heap by the sudden withdrawal from the arena of Hon. F. B. Carvell, might require some time to pull themselves together, but this same cause ought not to seriously affect the ambitions of Hon. F. B. Smith for the Conservative nomination. Not unless Hon. Mr. Carvell was the only man Mr. Smith was not afraid of.

Every day reports encouraging for the Farmers' candidate reach The Observer, and so far as this journal has light on the matter, Mr. Caldwell would be, but for one or two important points, just about the right man to send to Ottawa at this time. The constituency could more readily find a man with fewer qualifications than it could any larger number better fitted.

DREADED INFLUENZA

Medical Men Believe It Will Again Visit Canada This Autumn and Winter

There is a widespread belief among medical men that the epidemic of la grippe, or influenza, which swept over the world last year, will again appear in Canada during this autumn and coming winter. This dangerous trouble spares neither age nor sex, but it naturally finds its easiest victims among those who are run down in health, or those whose blood is weak and watery, and it is among the latter class in which the greatest number of fatalities occur. The surest way to prevent an attack of this dreaded trouble is to keep the blood rich and pure and the safest and best way to do this is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

No reasonable precaution to avert an attack of influenza or la grippe should be spared. The disease itself is deadly, but its after-effects, among those who are spared, make the life of the victim one of constant misery. Ask almost any of those who have been attacked by influenza what their present condition of health is and most of them will answer: "Since I had the influenza I have never been fully well." This trouble leaves behind it a persistent weakness of the limbs, shortness of breath, bad digestion, palpitation of the heart, and a tired feeling after even slight exertion. This is due to the thin-blooded condition in which la grippe almost always leaves its victims after the fever and influenza have subsided. They are at the mercy of relapses and complications, often very serious. This condition will continue until the blood is built up again, and for the purpose of building up the blood and strengthening the nerves nothing can equal a fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. From first to last these pills make new, rich blood, which reaches every organ and nerve in the body. Thus the lingering germs are driven out, and the weak, despondent victims of influenza are transformed into cheerful, healthy, happy men and women. But better still, you can put yourself in a condition to resist an attack of influenza by enriching the blood through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and this, it seems to be the sensible thing to do at once.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SOLDIERS IN COLLEGE

25,000 CANADIANS IN KHAKI UNIVERSITY.

A New Branch Has Been Opened at Ripon in Yorkshire Where Young Men Who Have Been Fighting for Their Country Are Now Being Prepared for Degrees as Scholars.

ABOUT 25,000 Canadian soldiers in England and France, who are awaiting their return to Canada, are studying in the Khaki University of Canada, that branch of the Overseas Ministry of Militia and Defence that undertakes to teach the men anything from reading, "riting and "rithmetic to theology, medicine, engineering, etc. The latest, and probably the most ambitious, branch of this service is a concentration camp at Ripon, in Yorkshire, where students wishing to take up studies leading to a university degree can be accommodated. Five hundred students is the capacity of this camp, and between two and three hundred have already registered.

The universities of Canada are aiding the scheme in every way. They have promised to recognize every credit or standing granted by the university when it holds its final examinations in June. They have even loaned members of their teaching staff to the university. The chief lecturer in history, for instance, is Prof. George M. Wrong of Toronto University, who is undoubtedly Canada's chief historian. Prof. Coleman, also of Toronto University, who during the war has been engaged on research work for the Canadian Government, lectures in biology, and the other members of the faculty are educationists of tried ability. Textbooks are provided free to all the men, and this means they are appreciated when one considers that the textbooks used by an ordinary university student cost anywhere from $25 to $35 when he purchases them himself.

The range of subjects studied is wide indeed for so young an organization. The following faculties have been established: Junior matriculation. Arts (1st, 2nd, and 3rd year). Science (1st and 2nd year). Surveying. Theology (1st, 2nd and 3rd years). Law (1st, 2nd and 3rd years). Agriculture (1st and 2nd year). The university spirit predominates at this khaki school and military discipline, though nominally retained, is not found necessary. Every student is too keenly interested in his work to require to be paraded to his lectures, and privates and majors study side by side to fit themselves for civilian ways.

The department of theology is especially fond of it, as it has taken over the Anglican Training College of the diocese which has its centre in Ripon Cathedral. Here they have a fine library and all the other advantages that go with a theological college. To help the men of other denominations, the Presbyterian, Baptist, Methodist and Congregational churches in Canada have each sent over one of their own ministers to supervise the training of students of their own church. All the men who are attending the university have signified their willingness to remain in England until June 30 in order to complete their courses. They are willing to do this, because instead of paying university fees, buying books and paying board to attend a Canadian university, every man is completing one year of his training with no expenses in the way of fees, books or board bills, and they are receiving their army pay and subsistence in addition.

There are also two hundred Canadian soldiers taking courses of study at Oxford, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Birmingham, Leeds and London universities. These men have been given indefinite leave by the Canadian authorities and draw full pay, allowances and subsistence as well.

There are also only two branches of the work of the Khaki College. Nine thousand men are taking correspondence work in twenty different kinds of study. Every Canadian camp in England and France has an every hospital and convalescent home has its Khaki school, where instructors sent out from Canada or chosen from the officers and men of the expeditionary force are learning things that will be of inestimable value to them when they are finally repatriated and demobilized.
