McLaughlin Valve-in-Head Service

McLaughlin Valve-in-Head motor cars are so designed and manufactured as to render them capable of great serviceability under a wide range of motoring conditions. Yet they are backed by a service organization of more than 2000 Canadian dealers so thoroughly organized as to make that serviceability continuous. Every McLaughlin owner is entitled to and receives prompt and efficient services, the kind that incurred the unintersunted use of efficient service---the kind that insures the uninterrupted use of his investment. Our service department is in charge of a first class mechanic with special training in the McLaughlin line. While we are not soliciting more garage work, in fact we always have more than we can attend to, we are particularly anxious that McLaughlin owners get in touch with us in case they are not getting entire satisfaction. Our interest in McLaughlin owners does not cease when the car is paid for. The importance of service is something the man buying his first car does not realize. With the stock of parts we carry, and the stock at the Mc-Laughlin branch at St. John, McLaughlin owners on this territory have access to at least $100,000 worth of parts which can be secured within a few hours. ed within a few hours. McLaughlin parts cost less than others, taking weight and quality into consideration.

* Temple Inns Have Been

Among the Most Popular

Living Places in Londo

 WHE case of a tenant of the Middle Temple who was refused entrance at a gate of the Inner Lemple is a re-minder of the domestic life which goes on in these old London Inns of Court.

Some persons are under the impression that only members of the Middle or Inner Temple can obtain chambers there, but this is not the case. The Temple has always been a favorite resort of many who are not in any way connected with the legal profession, and to-day there are num-in any way connected with the legal profession, and to-day there are numerous families living in the seclusion of this exceedingly pleasant retreat in the heart of London.

The chambers with windows facing the river have been specially sought after by residential tenants. Dr. Johnson, Oliver Goldsmith, and Charles Lamb were among the great writers who lived in the Temple, though none of them was ever a member of any Inn of Court.

Charles Lamb, who was born in Crown Office Row, lived for many years with his sister Mary in Mitre Court buildings.

Before the war there was never much difficulty in obtaining residential chambers in the Temple, but the house famine has changed all this and to-day it is practically impossible to get rooms there. The Temple is full up, and members of the two lims of Court are having great difficulty in finding chambers for business purposes. There is a long waiting list of members, and vacant rooms directly they are "screened" in the respective Hall and Treasury offices, are snapped up.

The Benchers have first call on any vacancies, and then follow other members of the Inn in seniority, with this exception, that a member wanting the rooms for business purposes has priority over one desiring merely to reside there.

to reside there.

The old methods which "outsiders" had to adopt to get within the gates are now in abeyance. A very common way was for a barrister to rent the chambers and sub-let them to the "outside" friend for whom he had really taken them. To-day a tenant cannot sub-let without the consent of the Inn, and there is no possibility at present of a non-nember sent of the Inn, and there is no possibility at present of a non-sember being accepted as a sub-tenant.

Some of the Temple gates are closed at 10 p.m., and all are closed at 10 p.m., but at certain entrances there are night porters, and it is possible for tenants to go in and come out at any hour. No woman who is not living in the Temple is admitted after 10 o'clock unless ahe gives the name of the tenant she proposes to visit; and there are many good stories of how many women invariably gave the name of a famous barrister whose objection to the opposite set was notorious.

Many excellent dinner parties are given in the residential quarters, and some of the tenants are very popular by reason of the skill of their cooks. There is one tenant who gives "jazz" parties on Saturdays, and boasts that his cellar of liquors is better than any other in London.

J. Bull, Second-Hand Man.

What'll you have? Some 10-penny nails, a few tons of sulphur, or may-be a steam shovel or a nice spiral staircase? Whatever it is, John Bull who has opened a second-hand store just across the way from Newfound-land, can supply our wants. John al-ready is doing a flourishing business. Since November 10, 1918, when his Since November 10, 1918, when his cut-throat competitor, Heinle, went out of business, his sales have totaled something over $635,000,000.

As yet the eastern supplies, from enemy countries are not forthcoming, and the price is high. Perfume manufacturers are paying $15.50 $17 an ounce, and to purchase such a quantity in the ordinary way to-day costs $7.50, compared with $5 to $7.50 in pre-war times. One drop will perfume a handkerchief for weeks, though most people would find the pure attar too powerful. "Waten you see star of roses for sale," said a member of the firm of Rimmel, the well-known perfumers. "It is mostly on the label and not in the bottle." The supplies at present are imported from the walley of the Ear, in Southern France. Attar is obtained by distillation, and about 300 pounds of rose petals will make an ounce.
