Household Notes.

Bread pudding made with brown bread instead of white will give a delicious and different flavor.
A spoonful means that the flour should lie as far above the edge of the spoon as the bowl lies below it.
Cold mashed potatoes need never be thrown away—but can be made into fish balls or shepherd's pie.
All the muslin bags and sacks that come from the grocers will open out and make good house cloths.
Keep the inside of the garbage can clean by wrapping all refuse in paper before it goes into the can.
Where peas or beans are served in a meal one can do without meat.
Lamp chimneys washed with soap are apt to crack. Steam them and wipe them clean with a soft cloth.
Tissue paper that is slightly mussed can be smoothed out with a warm iron and look as good as new.
If the baby cries with colic make a spice plaster, moisten it with a little brandy and put it on his stomach.
If you have Johnny cake made with eggs for breakfast it is not necessary to serve eggs in any other way.
English scrambled eggs are cooked just three minutes and served before they have a chance to get tough.
If a cork is too big for its bottle and must be used, soak it in boiling water for a little while and it can be squeezed in.

ASK FOR HINARD'S LINIMENT AND TAKE NO OTHER.
