WICK THE RIPPER IN THE CITY.

Montreal has a "Jack the Ripper." The victim of 20, 13 and 15 years' imprisonment, and stabbed in the back by a man who came behind and drove the point of a pen-knife into their backs and made his victims bleed to death in the General Hospital. Their wounds were treated but a short distance. The man is demented and was an escaped inmate of one of the asylums for the insane. The police and detectives have been watching out for the miscreant, but they have not captured him.

REPROBATIONS ARE IN THE AIR.

General Elections, set for October 20th, according to Conservative Party, will be a clean sweep for the Tories. They figure it this way: Ontario will give, at least, seventy-five seats to the Tories; Quebec is expected to give thirty seats out of the sixty-five. British Columbia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan will divide on a fifty-fifty basis, while the Maritime Provinces will be overwhelmingly Conservative. Hence they see a glorious victory in the air. The fight is being waged vigorously by both sides, and Premier King will not go to defeat without having used all the powers of his oratory to try and convince the electors that his Government had a good policy and did the best they could for the betterment of the Dominion.

BLAME PARENTS FOR CHILDREN'S FAILURES.

A few days ago 150 juvenile delinquents, who were on probation during the holidays, had to report at the Juvenile Court. Out of the 150, one hundred and forty-nine were boys, which left only one of the "gentler sex." Certainly, the holiday season is a great source of danger and temptation to hundreds of boys, especially where poor home training reigns supreme.

If a child is a "social" loss it is because the parent or teacher has failed. This was the opinion expressed by teachers from all parts of the country gathered in Los Angeles at the 32nd annual meeting of the International Kindergarten Union.

The instructors expressed themselves in high approval of statements of Miss Ethel I. Salisbury, director of course of study in the Los Angeles public schools, who placed the responsibility for social failures upon parents and teachers.

"Children should not fail," she said, "and if a child does not fail, the man will not. Every child should have a chance for the opportunity of successful expression. The parent and teacher should be in closest conference concerning the child. The parent to give to the teacher the intimate details of the child's nature and the teacher to give to the parent the psychology and mental aspect of the little one so that the two working together can arrive at some definite plan of life for the child."

Miss Salisbury emphasized the importance of nursery schools, in which the teacher will have the mental guidance of a child at two years of age.

"The first thing a teacher must do with a two-year-old is to find out his needs. These include his temperament and ability, which are revealed by activity and play instinct.

"I would recommend that a child be turned loose among materials and companions that will furnish wholesome stimulus for him under wise guidance. For the child of two years of age is already a social being, and it is for the parent and teacher to give him means to express himself."

"Guidance must be such as to control indirectly," Miss Salisbury advised. "Avoid 'don't' for a child. Give him constructive things to do instead of negative propositions. This is the only way to get hold of a child before his habits are established."

The foundation of a club for boys in a section of the city where juvenile delinquency is prevalent, with a view to furthering the work among underprivileged boys, was mooted at the weekly luncheon of the Lions Club at the Mount Royal Hotel by E. O. McDowell, president of the Big Brothers' Association here. In presenting the report of the Ways and Means Committee Mr. McDowell urged that the Lions give the project their consideration to make for prompt action. The report was adopted and the matter will be discussed later.

Mr. McDowell pointed out that while Griffiths had such a club originally, it has expanded, he said, into a wider field, and there was now need in Montreal of a club devoted entirely to the welfare of the boy, providing him with suitable headquarters for physical work. All that was required was the renting of a building in a proper location, and the engagement of a director. More definite plans would be offered later. Each member of the club would have to give service and co-operation that the club might achieve success.

THE MONIES SPENT ON THE NEW CITY HALL.

Disbursements for the new city hall have been given out showing in detail the expenditures that have been made to date from the $1,500,000 which the city was empowered by the Province to borrow for rebuilding after the old structure had been destroyed by fire on March 3, 1925. To date there has been actually used $1,429,490 and the difference between the estimates which amount to $1,766,375 and the amount the city was entitled to borrow has been made up from the annual budget receipts.

The expenditure has been voted and made up as follows: Credits of $131,000 voted by council at different dates between Sept. 20, 1922 and April 23, 1925, of which amount $125,201 has actually been spent in this way: plans, day labor, etc. $119,549; workmen's insurance, $2,412; inspection, $539; heating and ventilation, plans, $1,700; architects' fees, $2,000.

Contracts awarded and the sums expended are: Dominion Bridge for steel superstructure, $149,450, voted, $144,135 spent; A. and D. Bolles, stone walls, $183,200 appropriated, $172,995 used; concrete floors, J. A. Durocher, $230,600 voted, $219,225 expended; Jas. Ballaghyne, plumbing and heating, $80,787, appropriated and $76,695 spent; Quindan Robertson and Janin for completion of interior of building, including twenty-five or more sub-contracts, $902,100 appropriated, expended to date, $683,316; Framercian Industrial Development Corporation, electrical fixtures, $15,000; Wallace Sandstone Quarries, for marble counters in long room, $13,000 voted, $12,997 spent; Castle and Sons, for furnishing and fitting council chamber, $16,900; G. H. Randall, $6,374 for wooden counters; Robert Mitchell Company, $14,200 for tellers' cages.

A PATHETIC CASE IN THE RECORDER'S COURT.

One of Montreal's constantly recurring tragedies had its denouement in the Recorder's Court recently when a young girl who gave her name as Blanche Dube entered the dock and was charged with being found in a disorderly house.

A momentary gasp of astonishment was heard in the court as the spectators saw the girl. She was small, her head scarcely reached the top of the dock. Raven black hair and a piece of laundry fur as trimming to a set black frock completed a remarkable and pathetic picture.

Recorder Semple heard the charge and looked at the girl for a moment. "How old are you?" he asked. "Nineteen," came the reply as the girl faced him and tried to hide her face from the rest of the court.

All that greeted this declaration were open expressions of disbelief. "Is her father anywhere about?" asked the Recorder. "Go and find him before we proceed with the case."

Thirty minutes later the girl reappeared in the dock and a respectable middle aged man stood in the witness box. "Is this girl your daughter?" asked the Recorder.

The man bowed his head in reply. "How old is she. Is nineteen really her age?" the Recorder continued. "No," said her father, turning to look at his daughter for a moment.

"She is only sixteen." "Then how did this come about?" he was asked. "She was taken to a disorderly house three or four days ago," he replied. "I will do anything for her."

"Did she give her right name?" "No," replied the father as he told the name that the girl had tried to shield when she was arrested.

"The case is postponed," said Recorder Semple.

The father turned to leave the witness box and confronted his daughter standing before him in the dock. For a moment they hesitated. Then half a smile and half a look of agony passed over the girl's face. She made one movement forward toward her father and then halted. Her head sunk forward on her chest and she turned away and walked out of the dock.

A VETERAN NEWFOUNDLANDER VISITS THE CITY.

A veteran Newfoundlander in the person of Mr. John H. Wadden of the west end of St. John's was a guest of his daughter, Miss Agnes Wadden for two weeks. Though our friend has reached his 80th year he looks hale and hearty and is a magnificent type of the "old stock," that were a credit to dear old Terra, and by their sterling qualities of hand and heart won honor and respect. Your Correspondent had the pleasure of meeting this true, loyal and veteran gentleman, and in company with his brother, Mr. Nicholas C. Wadden, who has been residing in Montreal for some years, and at present at a place near the city called Strathmore, we witnessed a cricket match at the McGill Campus in which the Toronto team went to defeat at the hands of McGill by 115 to 138 for 5 wickets. Mr. J. H. Wadden was of the opinion that the good old Shamrock team in its hey-day of glory could trim even the strong McGill team. During his stay in Montreal, the visitor enjoyed every moment, and was visited and entertained by many friends, including Mr. James J. Ellis, another veteran of Point St. Charles, who left Newfoundland nearly 60 years ago; Very Rev. Dean O'Rourke, Mr. J. Ryan, Mrs. and Miss Andrews, formerly of Petty Harbour; Mrs. Coleman, Miss Rose Shallow, Mrs. Doyle, Miss Harrington, Mr. James Coady. Lady Roddick presented him with a photo of the late Dr. Thomas Roddick and the McGill Memorial gates, together with a book of poems written by herself, in which a poem especially appears about Newfoundland. After his sojourn in the Metropolis of Canada, he left for Boston to see not only a few friends, but many. He was charmed and highly delighted with his visit here and carried away with him not only a few souvenirs and gifts, but pleasant reminiscences of his all too short visit. Of him may be well applied the words of the poet:

"Work for the good that is highest, Dream not of greatness afar; That glory is ever the highest, Which shines upon men as they are. Work through the world would defeat you. Heed not its slander and scorn; Not weary till angels shall greet you, With smiles through the gates of the morn."

ways find the best side in your neighbor's character; do not look for the evil. A man usually finds what he looks for, if he is only diligent in seeking. Share your wealth with others; enrich other lives, and uplift other souls.

"Be at your best, do your best at home, Though troubles may threaten and sorrows come, Give the best of your daily life To the sweet hours spent in the dear home nest. Make home a haven of peace and rest From the hard world's weary strife." R. J. LOUIS CUDDIHY.

Nore Lightship Moved

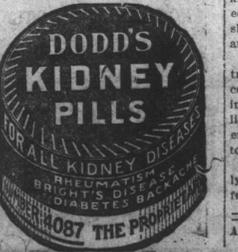

After 198 years. The Nore Lightship, which provided the first light in the Thames and had been moored in the same spot for 193 years, has been towed two miles farther out to sea owing to shifting sands. She is now anchored at the mouth of the Yantlet Channel, pointing the way to a direct course up the meadow.

The Lightship is one of the best known round the coast and has greeted millions of tons of London-bound shipping. Thousands of people visit annually in pleasure boats.

During the war German aeroplanes tried to drop bombs on her but succeeded only in hitting small craft lying alongside. In the new position her light will still be seen from the South-east Pier extension, but not from the town.

Her crew of six is changed monthly, but they get their letters daily from the Trinity House boat.
