resurrection," "The Lord is risen."
While standing around the place where the Lord lay, I am impressed with the fact that mortuary honors cannot atone for wrongs to the living. If they could have afforded Christ such a costly sepulcine they could have afforded him a decent earthly residence. Will they give a piece of marble to the dead Christ when they might have given a soft pillow to the living. Christ. If they had put half the expense of that mausoleum in the making of Christ's life on earth comfortable, the story would not have been so sad. He wanted bread; they gave him a stone. Christ, like every other benefactor of the world, was better appreciated after he was dead.

Westminster Abbey and monumental Greenwood are to a certain extent the world's attempts by mortuary honors to atone for neelect to the living. Poets atone for neelect to the living. Poets above, and there I find the grave of Handel, the musician from whose music riorget the fact that his fellow-musicians tried to destroy him with their discians tried to destroy him with their

Costly monument, great mortuary honors, but 1 cannot forget the fact that at 70 years of age he wrote about the oppressions of misfortune, and that he made a contract for 1,000 verses at 6d a line. I go a little further on in the Poets' Corner and I find the grave of Samuel Butler, the author of "Hudibras." Wonderful monument, costly mortuary honors. Where did he die? In a garret. I move further on in the Poets' Corner and I find the grave of a poet of whom Waller wrote: "An old school master by the name of John Milton has written a tedious volume on the fall of man. If its length be no virtue, it has none." I go a little further on in the Poets' Corner and I find the grave of Sheridan. Alas! for Sheridan. Poor Sheridan! Magnificant mortuary honors. What a pity it was he could not have discounted that monument for a mouthful of something to eat! O, unfilial children, give your old parents less tombstone and more blankets, less funera' hel more bedroom. Five per cent of ... money now expended at Burns' banquets would have made the great Scotch poet comfortable and kept him from being almost harried to death by the drudgery of an exciseman. Do justice to the living. All the justice you do you will have to do this side the gates of the necropolis. The dead cannot wake up to count the number of carriages in the procession, or see the polish on the Aberdeen granite or to read the words

Christ, having left his mortuary attire behind him, comes forth in the garb of a workman, as I take it, from the fact that the woman mistook him for the gardener. There and then was shattered the tomb so that it can never be rebuilt. All the trowels of earthly masonry cannot mend it. For ever and forever it is a broken tomb. Death that day, taking the side of the military, eccived a horrible cut under the angel's spear of flame, and must himself go down at the last—the King of Terrors disappearing before the King of Terrors disappearing before the King of Grace. "The Lord is risen."

O weep no more, you comfort's slain, The Lord is risen."

When one of the old Christians was dying he said he saw on the sky the letter 'V." and he said: "I cannot understand what that is I see again the sky; it is the letter 'V." A Christian standing beside him said: "I know what it means; that letter 'V." A Christian standing beside him said: "I know what it means; that letter 'V." and he said: "I cannot understand what the sty: it is the letter 'V." and he said: "I cannot understand what that is I see again the sky; it is the letter 'V." and he said: "I cannot understand what the sty: it is the letter 'V." and he said: "I cannot understand what the sty: it is the letter 'V." and he said: "I cannot understand what the sty: it is the letter 'V." and he said: "I cannot understand what the sty: it is the letter 'V." and the said: "I cannot understand what the sty: it is the letter 'V." and the said: "I cannot understand what the sty: it is the letter 'V." and it is seen as a standing beside him said: "I know what it means; that letter 'V." and the said: "I cannot understand what that is see again the sky: it is the letter 'V." for "victory," "I gather up all these flowers to-day, and I strew them over the graves of your Christian dead in the letter 'V." for "victory," "I gather up all these flowers to-day, and I strew them over the graves of your Christian dead in the letter 'V." who for "triumph," "Hy for "treat the young have been
