"All this, however, is based upon the utterances of a few mine owners, and when work is once more resumed it is not probable the union men will be interfered with, so long as they keep within the bounds of reason.

THE NEWEST ALLAN LINER. Bavarian a Model of Comfort For All Classes of Travellers.

From Liverpool Daily Post, Aug. 21. The latest addition to the Allan fleet is the twin-screw steamer Bavarian, a vessel which marks in point of size, speed and passenger accommodation, a distinct advance on the shipping voyaging between Liverpool and Canada. The Bavarian is 520 feet long, 60 feet beam and 43 feet deep, with a gross tonnage of 10,200. Like most modern large steamers, the Bavarian has one funnel—a huge cylindrical structure, and two masts, to which are fitted the derricks and mining operator, is in town. "I have been looking over Republic camp in a general way," he says. "The Flag Bill recently came under my control and I have increased the number of men with a view to pushing development work. At her trials she gives average assay values of $38 per ton. As a result of my observations I am of the opinion that there will be a big movement in the camp within the next three months. To an outsider, the development there has not been as great as would have been expected considering the length of time that has elapsed since the camp was discovered. The R. Bell in Summit camp in which I am interested is being developed by a force of 16 men. The shaft is down 76 feet, and the drifting comprises 94 feet.
