SPRINGTIDE ADVICE.

Answers to the following correspondents have been unfortunately delayed:—

YOUNG WIDOW.—We sympathize with you in the great loss you have sustained in the death of a good, kind and loving husband. You must be brave in the midst of your suffering and desolation. Yes, the face powder you mention is regarded as injurious to the skin. Glycerine is good for the hands.

BEREFT ONE.—Time alone can heal the aching void caused by the loss of your darling wife. You had better see a good chiropodist in regard to your in-growing toe-nail.

LULU.—Be guided entirely according to the dictates of your own heart in refusing or accepting the lover you mentioned. Let love rule you. Yes, bustles have gone out of style. No, pork and beans will not injure your health if taken in moderation.

STOCK EXCHANGE.—Your betrothed is unreasonable in expecting a diamond ring from you if your salary is only a pound a week, and you have some reason for doubting the strength of her love. Reason kindly and gently with her. Coffee is good for removing the odour of beer from the breath.

FLIRT.—You have done wrong in engaging yourself to four different gentlemen at one time, and in accepting rings and other costly presents from all of them. You had better be frank with them and tell them the truth. Keep the presents; we doubt if they can be recovered by law. You might win the affection of your Sunday School class by inviting them to your mother's and giving them ice-cream, cake and sweets.

MRS. R. T.—It is painful indeed to feel that your husband is drifting away from you. But cheer up. Try and win him back by the power of love; lavish upon him the tenderness and gentleness of the days when you were only his betrothed. Win him back with the old endearments and the old smiles. Make your seaside costume with a plain, short and tight skirt, and a lightly draped over skirt. Paris-green will kill cockroaches. We do not know of any absolute cure for corns. Remember what we told you about the power of love over your husband.
